U.N. TO TAKE UP IRAN OIL QUESTION

South Koreans Capture Peak In East Korea

Allies Warn Reds To Expect Fight

WITH U. S. FIFTH AIR FORCE, Korea, Tuesday, Oct. 2 (AP)—Allied and Red jets battled for the second straight day over "MIG Alley" today. The Fifth Air Force said two Red MIG-15 jets were shot down in the 20-minute clash.

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Tuesday, Oct. 2 (AP)—South Koreans climaxed a bloody three-week assault by seizing a 3,500-foot peak in East Korea Monday. The success punctuated an Allied warning to the Reds that if it's fighting instead of talking they want they can have it.

Other South Korean troops also won a peak lost to a Red counter-attack Sept. 28.

The 3,500-foot height was captured northwest of the punchbowl, more than 20 miles north of pafallel 38. The South Koreans had been battling stubborn North Koreans for the height since early September.

North of Yanggu, also in the east sector, Red artillery and mortars heavily pounded Allied positions on the slopes of "Heartbreak Ridge." The Communists apparently expect an all-out attack on the Red-held crest.

"North Koreans know they are going to get some trouble," an Allied officer said.

Allies Push Offensive

Pushing an autumn offensive, other Allied infantrymen partly cleared a Communist ridgeline on the central front.

Hard fighting was under way as America's top military leader, Gen. Omar Bradley, made a close-hand inspection of the eastern front and Gen. Matthew B. Ridgeway's headquarters announced the readiness of the Eighth Army "to strike and strike hard," if the Reds insist on all-out war.

The air war raged on Monday with U. S. Fifth Air Force headquarters announcing one Russian-built MIG-15 shot down and three more damaged in a series of dogfights over North Korea's MIG Alley. No Allied losses were reported.

The air battles involved 27 U. S. F-86 Sabre jets and about 40 swift MIGs.

Top Reds Assail U. S.

TOKYO, Tuesday, Oct. 2 (AP)—Red China's top military man accused the United States Monday of undermining the Korean truce effort and preparing for a new war, but the Communists still kept silent on Thursday's Allied demand that the armistice talks be resumed at a new site.

Bradley Sees U. N. Victory If Talks Fail

WITH U. S. THIRD DIVISION IN KOREA, Tuesday, Oct. 2. (AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley said today the United Nations could bring the Korean war to a successful "military conclusion" if the suspended Korean truce talks break off completely.

The chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, on a personal tour of the war front, did not elaborate on what was implied in the phrase "military conclusion."

During his brief interview at a forward airstrip, Bradley said "everybody who has come back from here (Korea) has brought glowing reports. I see nothing to change that."

Giants Win Playoff Opener

Three Happy Brooklyn Dodgers Drubbers

Durochermen Within One Victory Of Series

BROOKLYN, Oct. 1 (AP) — Jim Hearn, big side-arming righthander from Atlanta, pitched one of his most brilliant games today and turned back the fighting Brooklyn Dodgers, 3 to 1, in a tense mound duel that carried the enflamed New York Giants to within a single victory of their goal—the World Series.

In propelling destiny's tots to their eighth straight triumph and their 13th decision in their last 14 games, Hearn yielded only five hits to the bone-tired Flock and was not in serious danger of being caught because Bobby Thomson and Monte Irvin slashed home runs.

30,707 See Game

Tonight the amazing men of Leo Durocher needed to win only one of two games scheduled on their home field starting tomorow to climax the greatest stretch drive in all baseball. Today's playoff was witnessed by 30,707 at Ebbets Field. It was a stunned gathering of Dodger rooters that saw its heroes succumb.

Ralph Branca went eight innings for the Dodgers and turned in a creditable performance, but Thomson's 31st blast of the season in the fourth inning with Irvin on base and Irvin's 24th leading off the eighth unhorsed the righthanded fastballer. But Podbielan worked the ninth.

Andy Pafko gave the Flock its only score when he caught a Hearn fast-ball and shot it into the shallow left field stands with two down in the second. Hearn did not give up a hit in the last four chapters, though he issued a couple of walks and had his little manager extremely nervous.

Giants Make Four Double Plays

Though the Giants' infield looked tense at times and twice got Hearn into potential trouble in the middle innings, it redeemed itself in the clutches by reeling off four comforting double plays, including a twin killing in a wild scramble on the base paths which ended the game.

As a result of this wholesale slaughter of the Dodgers who did manage to reach first, only two of Manager Charles Dressen's lads expired on base, compared to ten Giants stranded by Branca. The Giants, gifted by five walks and an error, threatened continually to bust the contest wide open in the latter innings, but Branca had it in the tight spots and generally was given fine support.

"WITHOUT COUNTRY"—Serge Rubinstein, recently released from prison after serving time for deliberately avoiding military service during World War II, leaves a deportation hearing at Los Angeles yesterday. The government wants Rubinstein, who is reputed to have made a million dollars on the stock market during the war, deported as an undesirable alien. He entered the U. S. on a Portuguese passport, but told the examiners he is "a man without a country." (AP Wirephoto).

Council Beats Down Russian Objection, 9-0

Middle East Nation Wins Debate Delay

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP) —Britain succeeded today in getting the United Nations Security Council to take up the British-Iranian oil dispute, but Iran won a 10-day postponement of debate to permit a high-ranking Iranian to fly here to present case.

The delay was granted, over British objections, after Sir Gladwyn Jebb had assailed Iran's "arbitrary" actions in the oil nationalization question.

Earlier, the council blocked by a vote of 9 to 2 a Russian effort to prevent its considering the British-Iranian dispute.

Jebb opened the British case at Flushing Meadow after a hurried flight from Britain. He told the council the Iranian government is rushing madly down a steep hill in pursuit of an illusory objective and that it is "essential for the council to do something to arrest this apparently suicidal process."

Premier May Represent Iran

When he concluded, Ambassador Ali Gholi Ardalan, Iran's permanent representative at the U. N., said he was not empowered to speak for his country in this matter. He said Iran's special representative would need at least 10 days to reach New York and that he, therefore, requested a postponement.

There still was no definite word whether Iran's premier, Mohammed Mossadegh, is the high-ranking leader coming here.

Jebb, speaking after the British had announced they were evacuating their technicians from the Abadan refinery this week—as the Iranian government had demanded—declared Iran is creating a situation which might threaten the peace.

Expulsion of the 350 technicians from Abandan, Jebb charged, is an action "entirely contrary to the elementary principles of international usage."

Jebb's opening speech was delayed by a long wrangle touched off by Soviet Delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin's contention that the nationalization issue and the ousting of the technicians both are internal matters and that the British complaint should be rejected by the council.

Yugoslavia Votes With Russia

However, he was supported only by Yugoslavia's Ales Bebler. The council finally voted 9 to 2 to go ahead with the debate. Voting for the discussion were the United States, Britain, France, China, India, Turkey, the Netherlands, Ecuador and Brazil.

The main issue before the council was a British demand that the council call upon Iran to act in conformity with a July decision of the International Court of Justice and permit the British technicians to remain in Iran. The Iranian government had ordered all British oil personnel to leave the country by Thursday and the British today said they would comply.

Truman Recalls TVA Nomination Of Californian

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—President Truman, beset by a series of roadblocks in his appointments to high posts, today withdrew the nomination of Frank A. Waring as a member of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Sen. McKellar (D-Tenn.), chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, had previously served notice that he would fight the Waring nomination "with all the vigor of which I am capable."

McKellar "Delighted"

Informed of Mr. Truman's action, McKellar said he was "delighted."

The President said he withdrew the nomination to enable Waring to accept a State Department post as counselor for economic affairs at the U. S. Embassy in Tokyo. The Tokyo assignment does not require Senate confirmation. Waring is a California economist and former chairman of the Philippine War Damage Commission. The White House said the State Department had "urgently requested" Waring's services for the Tokyo post.

Senate Group OKs Bowles

Among other recent appointments on which Mr. Truman has run into opposition are his choices for two federal judgeships in Illinois, blocked by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today recommended confirmation of Mr. Truman's nomination of Chester Bowles to be ambassador to India, but will look further into the appointment of Philip C. Jessup to be a delegate to the United Nations.

McKellar said he opposed Waring for the TVA post on the ground that Waring had been "lobbying" with senators to get support for the job.

Father Of 18 At 85 Wants At Least 20

WHITESBURG, Ky., Oct. 1 (AP)—"Uncle Eli" Lucas, the father of 18 children at the age of 85, announced his goal today.

Lucas, who has become a father three times since he was 80 years old, said: "there'll be several more, at least until I'm the father of 20—maybe more."

Fifteen of the children were by his first wife, now dead. He married his present 21-year-old wife when she was 16.

Frederick Fitch Dies

DES MOINES, Oct. 1 (AP)—Frederick W. Fitch, 81, founder of one of the world's largest hair tonic and shampoo firms, died today at his home here.

41 Members Of Republican Committee Give Gabrielson Standing Vote Of Confidence

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP) — Members of the Republican National Committee from 21 eastern and southern states gave a unanimous standing vote of confidence today to Chairman Guy George Gabrielson.

The group was gathered in a regional conference to chart strategy for next year's campaign.

First, however, it turned down a demand from some Republicans that Gabrielson resign because he continued to represent the Carthage Hydrocol Co. before the RFC after becoming chairman. Gabrielson brought up the question himself. He defended his actions at a meeting originally planned to be private, but opened at his own request.

Todd Asks Confidence Vote

Present besides the east - south committee members were members of the national committee's executive committee whose 15 members represent all sections of the country.

At the conclusion of the chairman's speech, Jouett Ross Todd, Kentucky committeemen, who opposed Gabrielson when he was elected by a single vote on Aug. 4, 1949, moved a full vote of confidence.

Eleven seconding speeches followed in which members who had voted both for and against Gabrielson in 1949 supported him. They said the attacks on him were inspired by those wishing to "take the heat off the misdeeds" of the administration.

All 41 members of the committee present arose and applauded in adopting the Todd motion. There are 104 members of the national committee. But since today's meeting was only a regional affair — plus the executive committeemen who hailed from outside as well as within the east and south — less than half the whole committee was present.

"Corruption" Denounced

Speakers at morning and afternoon sessions denounced "corruption in government" and said it would be an issue in 1952.

They also called on "dissatisfied Democrats" and independents to join Republicans in their effort to "clean house."

Rep. Martin of Mass., House minority leader, told a luncheon meeting that the three great issues — "lack of national security, lack of executive leadership, and lack of public morality, are interlocking and interwoven."

"All the armor in the world," he said, "will not save a nation shot through with corruption, political greed and vacillating leadership."

At Least Three Die In Blast At Naval Ammunition Depot

HAWTHORNE, Nev., Oct. 1 (AP)—A flash explosion in a powder filling room killed three or four men and injured six other persons at the big naval ammunition depot here this afternoon.

Cmdr. Arthur Quinn, acting depot commander, said one of the injured died after being removed from the scene and he believed three bodies remain in the building where the explosion occurred.

The dead and injured are all civilians. One of the injured was a woman. Their names will not be released until the next of kin have been notified.

Workers have not been able to return to the building where the explosion occurred for fear powder in an adjacent room may be set off.

Supreme Court Opens New Term

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Chief Justice Fred Vinson opened the 1951-52 term of the Supreme Court today, and the justices turned to a mass of weighty problems.

After the usual brief opening ceremonies, the court recessed until next Monday. Twenty-four lawyers were admitted to practice before the high court.

The nine justices have before them a variety of problems, ranging from racial segregation, particularly in public schools, to legal rights of Communists.

D. C. Milk Prices Upped

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Milk prices went up one cent a quart here today. Producers said it resulted from an earlier increase in the wholesale price by the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association.

A quart of milk now costs 23½ cents delivered to homes — an all-time high—and a minimum of 21 cents at the corner grocery.

Six Persons Injured As Train Leaves Rails

IONIA, Mich., Oct. 1 (AP)—Four cars of a Grand Trunk passenger train were derailed a mile and a half east of Muir late today, shaking up 12 passengers. Six persons were injured.

Muir is a village 33 miles east of Grand Rapids.

Debris was scattered along a one-mile stretch of the single track line. A baggage car went end over end down a 30-foot embankment to land with one end in the Grand River.

Brazil Blast Kills Seven

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 1 (AP) — Seven persons were killed and 12 injured today in an explosion at the Brazilian army's ammunition factory at Estrella, half way between Rio De Janeiro and Petropolis.

President Won't Withdraw Order On Information

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP) — The administration announced today it will stand pat on its order authorizing federal civilian agencies to withhold information from the public for security reasons.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short said President Truman has no idea of rescinding the order—which has stirred up loud opposition—and added:

"There's nothing wrong with the order."

Order Issued Last Tuesday

Mr. Truman issued it last Tuesday. It provides for tightening and standardizing the handling of information by civilian agencies, and orders the agencies to withhold any information they decide would be a risk to national security. The President said it would not be used to stifle the flow of news to the public, that it had "no element of censorship, either direct or implied."

But disagreements poured in.

Sen. Taft of Ohio said he agrees with a charge by 25 other Republican senators that some folks in the Truman administration are trying to silence opposition through "smear tactics and propaganda techniques." The senators' statement, issued over the weekend, pledged a fight to protect the right of free speech.

Mundt Urges Action On Bill

Meanwhile, Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.), one of the signers, called for fast action on a bill to kill the presidential order on information. Such a bill has been introduced by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio).

The order, Mundt said, is a "dangerous impingment on freedom of the press."

Mundt's assertion closely followed a request by the Associated Press managing editors' convention that the order be rescinded by the President.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) said the senatorial statement was directed mainly at "these moves by the administration to curb freedom of speech and the press."

Government Orders Coal Export Controls

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP) — The government today ordered all overseas shipments of soft coal and anthracite under allocation and export control as of Nov. 1. Shipments to Canada are excepted.

The Commerce Department issued the order to insure thtat friendly nations obtain essential supplies despite a shortage of vessels and a cargo jam at Hampton Roads, Va., the principal coal port.

Coal exports currently are running 3,000,000 tons a month because of stepped-up defense production overseas. The Commerce Department's Office of International Trade reported "severe congestion" at Hampton Roads.

Czech Demand Rejected

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—The United States formally rejected today Communist Czechoslovakia's demand for return of some 20 Czechs who fled into Western Germany aboard a train.

The Czech regime had demanded their immediate extradition as "terrorists" who violated Czech laws in arranging the train flight Sept. 11.

U. S. Risked War In Drive For Jap Pact, Dulles Says

Ambassador Speaks At Governors' Dinner

GATLINBURG, Tenn., Oct. 1 (AP) — Ambassador John Foster Dulles told the nation's governors tonight that President Truman and his advisors weighed the risk of war with Russia and Red China in pressing for the Japanese peace treaty which was signed in San Francisco last month.

Dulles said "those best qualified to judge" had felt that the Soviet Union and Red China might use the treaty as "a pretext for reviving open war."

He added:

"That was the risk which the President and his responsible advisors weighed. To have given in to the (Communist) threats would have been to invite immeasurable disaster. x x x That was the solemn and necessary decision which required courage."

Wilson Urges "Hold Line" Policy

Dulles spoke of the matter in an address prepared for the annual state dinner of the 43rd governors conference, held in a little hotel nestling in the towering Great Smoky Mountains.

For this affair, the governors and their wives were in formal evening dress and the women wore orchid leis flown from Hawaii as gifts from the territory.

Earlier in the day, Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson had told the governors the economic salvation of the United States lies in "holding the line" on wages and prices.

He agreed with Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina — who held the defense post in World War Two — that this policy must be adopted regardless of inequalities to individuals.

Dulles Consulted MacArthur

Dulles' speech on foreign affairs was the first break in the talk of politics and domestic problems which has dominated the conference.

Dulles — the chief architect of the treaty and a Republican — said the treaty was possible only through the unity displayed by the American people and their allies.

The agreement never could have been achieved on a partisan basis, Dulles said. He added that he had consulted with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Sen. Eugene Milliken of Colorado, and with Gen. Douglas MacArthur as well as other Republican and Democratic leaders.

Bowles Okayed By Senate Group

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP) —The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today voted 8 to 2 to recommend Senate confirmation of Chester Bowles, former Democratic governor of Connecticut, as U. S. Ambassador to India.

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) and H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) told newsmen they voted against the confirmation.

Hickenlooper had remarked before the closed-door session he felt some concern that Bowles, a novice in the field of international diplomacy, might turn out to be "a square peg in a round hole" in the important post in India.

Bowles, chief of the old Office of Price Administration during World War II, has testified he is confident he could handle the task in India.

Tomorrow, a Foreign Relations subcommittee headed by Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) will continue its study of President Truman's nomination of Philip C. Jessup, now an ambassador-at-large, as a delegate to the United Nations.

Trolleys Collide; 3 Hurt

BALTIMORE, Oct. 1 (AP)—Three persons were injured and about 40 others shaken up today when two trolleys collided at a downtown intersection.

Britain Orders Oilmen To Evacuate Refinery

TEHRAN, Iran, Oct. 1 (AP) — Britain bowed to Premier Mossadegh's "get-out" ultimatum today and ordered all her 350 oilmen to evacuate the refinery at Abadan without waiting for action by the United Nations Security Council.

The refinery was Britain's last stronghold in the billion dollar oil empire she has built here in the last 50 years. For several days armed Iranian soldiers at the gates have been in control of the premises.

The action was announced by Alex Mason, manager of the nationalized Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, to a news conference at Abadan.

Pentagon Wants More A-Weapons

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee said Secretary of Defense Lovett and the Joint Chiefs of Staff today "vigorously recommended a major expansion program" in the atomic weapons field.

The committee, headed by Sen. McMahon (D-Conn), declared details of the Pentagon officials' recommendations must remain secret at this time, and declined to elaborate at all. The announcement followed a long closed door conference with Lovett and the chiefs.

A committee member, declining to be quoted directly, told a reporter, however, that Lovett and the chiefs had spoken in terms of an expenditure of "billions." This member indicated the total would not run to the $6,000,000,000 figures McMahon himself had advocated in a recent Senate speech.

Prankster's Record Switch Arouses Village At 2 A. M.

LAFAYETTE, Calif., Oct. 1 (AP)—In the Rev. Harry E. Shander's Church tower is a loudspeaker from which comes the soft music of chimes, played by an automatic record changer.

But at 2 a. m. Sunday the quiet of the Contra Costa County neighborhood was shattered by a full-volume raucous rendition of "Don't Roll Those Bloodshot Eyes At Me." The record played on and on.

The minister and some of his pajama-clad parishioners tried to get into the non-denomination community church to turn the contraption off. This took 30 minutes.

The sheriff's office explained it this way: Some plankster had substituted a record for the chimes record and turned the speaker volume to full pitch. Then he snapped a padlock on the church switchbox, removed the nobs from three doors, turned on the record player and ran.

Dollar May Never Regain Former Value, Banker Says

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (AP)—No one now living will ever see the American dollar again buy what it did in 1940, a Texas economist told the nation's bankers today.

Arthur A. Smith, vice president of the First National Bank in Dallas, said in an address at the American Bankers Association convention that "we have gone quite a distance down inflation road, but we can go much farther—and likely will."

One reason, he said, is that "Uncle Sam himself is the world's largest debtor."

And Smith noted that debtors "always want to pay their debts in cheap dollars."

He questioned "whether the federal debt can be managed, let alone paid off, with anything except cheap dollars." He added:

"We have ourselves in a predicament where deflation would be both intolerable and destructive."

Further, Smith noted, "deflation means liquidation, defaulted debts, bank failures, business bankruptcy, unemployment and all such undesirable conditions that make what we call depression. The people will not let the government sit idly by while all that takes place—and no administration wanting to stay in office, or get in office, would sit idly by anyway."

Senate Authorizes Navy To Blast One Of Its Newest Subs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Senate today passed a bill authorizing the Navy to depth-bomb one of its newest submarines in a test to further the development of atomic-powered subs.

The Navy experiment is designed to find out how tough a hull the projected new atomic subs must have to survive combat conditions.

The Navy has designated the half-completed submarine Ulua as the "guinea pig" in the experiment. It will serve as a target for depth charges.

In another action, the Senate passed a measure authorizing the expenditure of $49,000,000 for construction of new "experimental" submarines. The House recently voted $50,000,000 for the same project.

Dulles said "those best qualified to judge" had felt that the Soviet Union and Red China might use the treaty as "a pretext for reviving open war."

He added:

"That was the risk which the President and his responsible advisors weighed. To have given in to the (Communist) threats would have been to invite immeasurable disaster. x x x That was the solemn and necessary decision which required courage."

Wilson Urges "Hold Line" Policy

Dulles spoke of the matter in an address prepared for the annual state dinner of the 43rd governors conference, held in a little hotel nestling in the towering Great Smoky Mountains.

For this affair, the governors and their wives were in formal evening dress and the women wore orchid leis flown from Hawaii as gifts from the territory.

Earlier in the day, Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson had told the governors the economic salvation of the United States lies in "holding the line" on wages and prices.

He agreed with Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina — who held the defense post in World War Two — that this policy must be adopted regardless of inequalities to individuals.

Dulles Consulted MacArthur

Dulles' speech on foreign affairs was the first break in the talk of politics and domestic problems which has dominated the conference.

Dulles — the chief architect of the treaty and a Republican — said the treaty was possible only through the unity displayed by the American people and their allies.

The agreement never could have been achieved on a partisan basis, Dulles said. He added that he had consulted with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Sen. Eugene Milliken of Colorado, and with Gen. Douglas MacArthur as well as other Republican and Democratic leaders.

Truman Recalls TVA Nomination Of Californian

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—President Truman, beset by a series of roadblocks in his appointments to high posts, today withdrew the nomination of Frank A. Waring as a member of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Sen. McKellar (D-Tenn.), chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, had previously served notice that he would fight the Waring nomination "with all the vigor of which I am capable."

McKellar "Delighted"

Informed of Mr. Truman's action, McKellar said he was "delighted."

The President said he withdrew the nomination to enable Waring to accept a State Department post as counselor for economic affairs at the U. S. Embassy in Tokyo. The Tokyo assignment does not require Senate confirmation. Waring is a California economist and former chairman of the Philippine War Damage Commission. The White House said the State Department had "urgently requested" Waring's services for the Tokyo post.

Senate Group OKs Bowles

Among other recent appointments on which Mr. Truman has run into opposition are his choices for two federal judgeships in Illinois, blocked by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today recommended confirmation of Mr. Truman's nomination of Chester Bowles to be ambassador to India, but will look further into the appointment of Philip C. Jessup to be a delegate to the United Nations.

McKellar said he opposed Waring for the TVA post on the ground that Waring had been "lobbying" with senators to get support for the job.

Father Of 18 At 85 Wants At Least 20

WHITESBURG, Ky., Oct. 1 (AP)—"Uncle Eli" Lucas, the father of 18 children at the age of 85, announced his goal today.

Lucas, who has become a father three times since he was 80 years old, said: "there'll be several more, at least until I'm the father of 20—maybe more."

Fifteen of the children were by his first wife, now dead. He married his present 21-year-old wife when she was 16.

Frederick Fitch Dies

DES MOINES, Oct. 1 (AP)—Frederick W. Fitch, 81, founder of one of the world's largest hair tonic and shampoo firms, died today at his home here.

41 Members Of Republican Committee Give Gabrielson Standing Vote Of Confidence

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP) — Members of the Republican National Committee from 21 eastern and southern states gave a unanimous standing vote of confidence today to Chairman Guy George Gabrielson.

The group was gathered in a regional conference to chart strategy for next year's campaign.

First, however, it turned down a demand from some Republicans that Gabrielson resign because he continued to represent the Carthage Hydrocol Co. before the RFC after becoming chairman. Gabrielson brought up the question himself. He defended his actions at a meeting originally planned to be private, but opened at his own request.

Todd Asks Confidence Vote

Present besides the east - south committee members were members of the national committee's executive committee whose 15 members represent all sections of the country.

At the conclusion of the chairman's speech, Jouett Ross Todd, Kentucky committeemen, who opposed Gabrielson when he was elected by a single vote on Aug. 4, 1949, moved a full vote of confidence.

Eleven seconding speeches followed in which members who had voted both for and against Gabrielson in 1949 supported him. They said the attacks on him were inspired by those wishing to "take the heat off the misdeeds" of the administration.

All 41 members of the committee present arose and applauded in adopting the Todd motion. There are 104 members of the national committee. But since today's meeting was only a regional affair — plus the executive committeemen who hailed from outside as well as within the east and south — less than half the whole committee was present.

"Corruption" Denounced

Speakers at morning and afternoon sessions denounced "corruption in government" and said it would be an issue in 1952.

They also called on "dissatisfied Democrats" and independents to join Republicans in their effort to "clean house."

Rep. Martin of Mass., House minority leader, told a luncheon meeting that the three great issues — "lack of national security, lack of executive leadership, and lack of public morality, are interlocking and interwoven."

"All the armor in the world," he said, "will not save a nation shot through with corruption, political greed and vacillating leadership."

At Least Three Die In Blast At Naval Ammunition Depot

HAWTHORNE, Nev., Oct. 1 (AP)—A flash explosion in a powder filling room killed three or four men and injured six other persons at the big naval ammunition depot here this afternoon.

Cmdr. Arthur Quinn, acting depot commander, said one of the injured died after being removed from the scene and he believed three bodies remain in the building where the explosion occurred.

The dead and injured are all civilians. One of the injured was a woman. Their names will not be released until the next of kin have been notified.

Workers have not been able to return to the building where the explosion occurred for fear powder in an adjacent room may be set off.

Supreme Court Opens New Term

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Chief Justice Fred Vinson opened the 1951-52 term of the Supreme Court today, and the justices turned to a mass of weighty problems.

After the usual brief opening ceremonies, the court recessed until next Monday. Twenty-four lawyers were admitted to practice before the high court.

The nine justices have before them a variety of problems, ranging from racial segregation, particularly in public schools, to legal rights of Communists.

D. C. Milk Prices Upped

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Milk prices went up one cent a quart here today. Producers said it resulted from an earlier increase in the wholesale price by the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association.

A quart of milk now costs 23½ cents delivered to homes — an all-time high—and a minimum of 21 cents at the corner grocery.

President Won't Withdraw Order On Information

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP) — The administration announced today it will stand pat on its order authorizing federal civilian agencies to withhold information from the public for security reasons.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short said President Truman has no idea of rescinding the order—which has stirred up loud opposition—and added:

Order Issued Last Tuesday

Mr. Truman issued it last Tuesday. It provides for tightening and standardizing the handling of information by civilian agencies, and orders the agencies to withhold any information they decide would be a risk to national security. The President said it would not be used to stifle the flow of news to the public, that it had "no element of censorship, either direct or implied."

But disagreements poured in.

Sen. Taft of Ohio said he agrees with a charge by 25 other Republican senators that some folks in the Truman administration are trying to silence opposition through "smear tactics and propaganda techniques." The senators' statement, issued over the weekend, pledged a fight to protect the right of free speech.

Mundt Urges Action On Bill

Meanwhile, Sen. Mundt (R-S. D.), one of the signers, called for fast action on a bill to kill the presidential order on information. Such a bill has been introduced by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio).

The order, Mundt said, is a "dangerous impingment on freedom of the press."

Mundt's assertion closely followed a request by the Associated Press managing editors' convention that the order be rescinded by the President.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) said the senatorial statement was directed mainly at "these moves by the administration to curb freedom of speech and the press."

Government Orders Coal Export Controls

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP) — The government today ordered all overseas shipments of soft coal and anthracite under allocation and export control as of Nov. 1. Shipments to Canada are excepted.

The Commerce Department issued the order to insure thtat friendly nations obtain essential supplies despite a shortage of vessels and a cargo jam at Hampton Roads, Va., the principal coal port.

Coal exports currently are running 3,000,000 tons a month because of stepped-up defense production overseas. The Commerce Department's Office of International Trade reported "severe congestion" at Hampton Roads.

Czech Demand Rejected

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—The United States formally rejected today Communist Czechoslovakia's demand for return of some 20 Czechs who fled into Western Germany aboard a train.

The Czech regime had demanded their immediate extradition as "terrorists" who violated Czech laws in arranging the train flight Sept. 11.

Six Persons Injured As Train Leaves Rails

IONIA, Mich., Oct. 1 (AP)—Four cars of a Grand Trunk passenger train were derailed a mile and a half east of Muir late today, shaking up 12 passengers. Six persons were injured.

Muir is a village 33 miles east of Grand Rapids.

Debris was scattered along a one-mile stretch of the single track line. A baggage car went end over end down a 30-foot embankment to land with one end in the Grand River.

Brazil Blast Kills Seven

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 1 (AP) — Seven persons were killed and 12 injured today in an explosion at the Brazilian army's ammunition factory at Estrella, half way between Rio De Janeiro and Petropolis.

Bowles Okayed By Senate Group

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP) —The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today voted 8 to 2 to recommend Senate confirmation of Chester Bowles, former Democratic governor of Connecticut, as U. S. Ambassador to India.

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) and H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) told newsmen they voted against the confirmation.

Hickenlooper had remarked before the closed-door session he felt some concern that Bowles, a novice in the field of international diplomacy, might turn out to be "a square peg in a round hole" in the important post in India.

Bowles, chief of the old Office of Price Administration during World War II, has testified he is confident he could handle the task in India.

Tomorrow, a Foreign Relations subcommittee headed by Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) will continue its study of President Truman's nomination of Philip C. Jessup, now an ambassador-at-large, as a delegate to the United Nations.

Trolleys Collide; 3 Hurt

BALTIMORE, Oct. 1 (AP)—Three persons were injured and about 40 others shaken up today when two trolleys collided at a downtown intersection.

Britain Orders Oilmen To Evacuate Refinery

TEHRAN, Iran, Oct. 1 (AP) — Britain bowed to Premier Mossadegh's "get-out" ultimatum today and ordered all her 350 oilmen to evacuate the refinery at Abadan without waiting for action by the United Nations Security Council.

The refinery was Britain's last stronghold in the billion dollar oil empire she has built here in the last 50 years. For several days armed Iranian soldiers at the gates have been in control of the premises.

The action was announced by Alex Mason, manager of the nationalized Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, to a news conference at Abadan.

Pentagon Wants More A-Weapons

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee said Secretary of Defense Lovett and the Joint Chiefs of Staff today "vigorously recommended a major expansion program" in the atomic weapons field.

The committee, headed by Sen. McMahon (D-Conn), declared details of the Pentagon officials' recommendations must remain secret at this time, and declined to elaborate at all. The announcement followed a long closed door conference with Lovett and the chiefs.

A committee member, declining to be quoted directly, told a reporter, however, that Lovett and the chiefs had spoken in terms of an expenditure of "billions." This member indicated the total would not run to the $6,000,000,000 figures McMahon himself had advocated in a recent Senate speech.

Prankster's Record Switch Arouses Village At 2 A. M.

LAFAYETTE, Calif., Oct. 1 (AP)—In the Rev. Harry E. Shander's Church tower is a loudspeaker from which comes the soft music of chimes, played by an automatic record changer.

But at 2 a. m. Sunday the quiet of the Contra Costa County neighborhood was shattered by a full-volume raucous rendition of "Don't Roll Those Bloodshot Eyes At Me." The record played on and on.

The minister and some of his pajama-clad parishioners tried to get into the non-denomination community church to turn the contraption off. This took 30 minutes.

The sheriff's office explained it this way: Some plankster had substituted a record for the chimes record and turned the speaker volume to full pitch. Then he snapped a padlock on the church switchbox, removed the nobs from three doors, turned on the record player and ran.

Dollar May Never Regain Former Value, Banker Says

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (AP)—No one now living will ever see the American dollar again buy what it did in 1940, a Texas economist told the nation's bankers today.

Arthur A. Smith, vice president of the First National Bank in Dallas, said in an address at the American Bankers Association convention that "we have gone quite a distance down inflation road, but we can go much farther—and likely will."

One reason, he said, is that "Uncle Sam himself is the world's largest debtor."

And Smith noted that debtors "always want to pay their debts in cheap dollars."

He questioned "whether the federal debt can be managed, let alone paid off, with anything except cheap dollars." He added:

"We have ourselves in a predicament where deflation would be both intolerable and destructive."

Further, Smith noted, "deflation means liquidation, defaulted debts, bank failures, business bankruptcy, unemployment and all such undesirable conditions that make what we call depression. The people will not let the government sit idly by while all that takes place—and no administration wanting to stay in office, or get in office, would sit idly by anyway."

Senate Authorizes Navy To Blast One Of Its Newest Subs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Senate today passed a bill authorizing the Navy to depth-bomb one of its newest submarines in a test to further the development of atomic-powered subs.

The Navy experiment is designed to find out how tough a hull the projected new atomic subs must have to survive combat conditions.

The Navy has designated the half-completed submarine Ulua as the "guinea pig" in the experiment. It will serve as a target for depth charges.

In another action, the Senate passed a measure authorizing the expenditure of $49,000,000 for construction of new "experimental" submarines. The House recently voted $50,000,000 for the same project.

Smoke Protest To Be Probed By Hitchcock

Thirty-five residents of an area near a cleaning establishment asked the Mayor and Council yesterday for relief from what they termed a health hazard because of dirt, dust and coal dirt emitted from an exposed chimney.

The residents petitioning the council said they reside in the area of the Ray Bell cleaning establishment at 103 Pennsylvania Avenue.

Smoke Abatement Engineer George M. Hitchcock was ordered to investigate and report next Monday. Commissioner William H. Buchholtz asked that the probe be made and a report submitted, but Mayor Thomas S. Post asked that Hitchcock make the report at a definite time — at next Monday's council session.

In his report for the month of August, Hitchcock said air pollution is at its lowest point in three years. He said that in August, 1949, the tonnage was 17.1 tons; in 1950, 23.33 tons and last month only 7.48 tons.

He said two bad violations were found on the B. and O. Railroad in 296 observations last month. There were 259 clear stacks and 35 partial violations. On the Western Maryland Railway, Hitchcock reported 20 clear stacks, seven partial violations and no bad violations last month.

Hitchcock said eight complaints were made to his office last month. Five were against Potomac Edison Company, and one each against the B. and O. roundhouse, Allegany Court House and the Bell cleaning establishment.

The annual report of Memorial Hospital was submitted but the council, on motion of Mayor Post, held over its comment until next Monday to allow study.

Charles F. Heller, maintenance superintendent at the Municipal Airport, reported the new hangar for the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company has been completed and the company plane is using port facilities. He said the hangar cost $7,331.14 and is being amortized by the company.

Approved was payment of $8,204.14 as the second estimate for repaving of Valley Street.

The Cumberland Civic Orchestra, in a letter, thanked the council for its cash contribution to the group's program for the year.

Regional CD Meeting Set

Civil Defense officials of four counties will meet at the Naval Reserve Armory here Tuesday, October 9, at 11 a. m.

William G. Barger, Allegany county director of Civil Defense, has arranged the session and said Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties, which comprise this region, will participate.

He said discussions will probably center about the organization and role of the western counties in the statewide Civil Defense organization.

Barger said he is urging as many members as possible of each county Civil Defense committee to attend.

The meeting is viewed as another step in effecting a well-rounded Civil Defense program in the area. Currently, defense officials are conducting a drive for volunteer workers and attempting to educate the public to the need for such a program.

South End Gets Modern Street Lights

Installation of new, modern street lights from Oldtown Road to Laing Avenue has been completed, Commissioner of Water and Electric Light George H. Tederick announced yesterday.

The lights are similar to those on Baltimore and Bedford streets, and are part of a long-range program to modernize the city's street-lighting, Tederick said.

The new lights are located on one side of the street only and total 26. The old lights, totaling 45, were located on both sides of the street, but shed less light than those now in operation, Tederick added.

Installation was done by the Potomac Edison Company.

The 26 new lights are of 10,600 candlepower as compared to 400 candlepower of the old lights.

They were installed at a higher level on existing wooden poles and extend over the street.

Woman's Club Suggests Tighter Narcotics Law

The Woman's Civic Club yesterday urged the Mayor and Council to enact a new ordinance calling for the prohibition of sale of narcotics and requiring a six-month quarantine of known addicts.

The request was referred to Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long.

The Civic Club, in a letter signed by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Eva Helmrich, said the organization is joining others in a nationwide drive to stop narcotics peddling to youths and to further legislation to aid in prevention of drug addiction.

The club said it recognizes the fact the city has an ordinance prohibiting the sale of narcotics, but that nationwide statistics show one in 50 high school students become victims and experts have recommended a six-month quarantine of known addicts. A copy of a proposed ordinance was included with the communication.

"The mere presence in our city of quantities of marijuana, as devulged by the fine work of our Police Department in the past week, should alert us to the very serious menace," the club's letter stated.

This was reference to the confiscation of quantities of dope weed here Friday a week ago at the home of Robert B. Brant, 404 Pennsylvania Avenue. Brant had been arrested in Baltimore by Baltimore and federal agents.

In other action the Council voted $9,000 to the Cumberland Community Chest to be paid in quarterly installments of $2,250. This is the same amount as contributed last year.

The payroll for the last two weeks of September was approved.

Water consumption for the week ending Sunday was 84,110,000 gallons as compared to 86,000,000 a year ago. The daily average was 12,015,000. The water level at Lake Gordon is ten inches below the crest of the spillway and at Lake Koon ten feet below.

Services Continue At Mt. Herman Church

The evangelistic services being conducted at the Mount Herman Methodist Church, Williams Road, by Mrs. Sadie Triplett will close Thursday night. The services are held at 7:30 each evening.

Mrs. Triplett, in addition to delivering the message, also sings and plays accompaniments on the piano or accordion. Another feature is the singing of a junior choir, composed of children of the congregation, directed by Mrs. Triplett.

Mrs. Triplett, a local preacher and accepted supply of the Methodist Church, is a daughter of the late Rev. Albert Staniforth, at one time pastor of the Mount Herman Church.

Rev. Eugene May is the pastor at Mount Herman, and Rev. R. L. Wittig is directing congregational singing.

Two Injured As Car Overturns

Two Baltimoreans were hurt late Sunday when an unidentified motorist reportedly forced their car from Route 28, one-half mile southwest of the Old Furnace Road.

Memorial Hospital attaches listed the pair as William Hobell, 40, of 2114 East University Parkway, the driver, and Clinton Knick, 28, of 1106 East Biddle Street.

Hobell suffered facial lacerations and a possible fracture of the left leg. His companion was treated for cuts of the chin, nose and forehead.

West Virginia Police said Hobell's vehicle overturned on a curve about 10:30 p. m. Three other persons in the car were reported hurt but local hospitals said none received treatment.

PTA To Meet

The West Side School Parent-Teacher Association will hold its first meeting of the new school year at the school at 7:30 p. m. today.

Sentinel Boosters See Grid Movie

The Fort Hill Boosters Club meeting last week at the school featured color movies of last year's Maryland-Navy game.

The films were provided by the University of Maryland and Pete Augsberger, offensive end star on the 1950 eleven and ninth-leading pass receiver in the nation, was a special guest. Also on hand was Earl O'Brien, former Duquesne University star, now studying for a master's degree at Maryland.

H. C. Spiker, president, said films of the Maryland-Michigan State or Maryland-Duke game may be shown at the next meeting, a date for which has not been selected.

Police Note Violations In Bus Survey

The Police Department, making its regular check last week of the routes of Cumberland Transit Lines, found several violations, Commissioner of Police and Fire John J. Long told the Mayor and Council this morning.

The check revealed that two buses at Fort Hill High School with capacity of 26 were loaded with 47 and 51 passengers, he said.

Operators on the Wiley Ford-Ridgeley run are forced to exceed speed limits to meet schedules, he added, and the department believes the company should put on another bus or extend the time limit for this run.

Long said it was also noted that two buses take students to Fort Hill but only one is available to bring them back.

The commissioner said he is certain the company would cooperate and asserted he believed the bus drivers capable.

The inspection was made by Officer James Brown.

Previously, the city had entered a controversy over overloading and complaints of insufficient service in South End. These problems were solved at company-city conferences.

Among the end-of-the-month reports submitted yesterday were:

Tax Collector George E. Davis noted collections as follows: General, $197,933.65; general improvement bonds, $127,97; 1931 sewer bonds, $1,126.11; water rents, $41,096.10; total, $240,283.83.

Davis said collections on city taxes are running ahead of last year with last Wednesday, when $88,000 was collected, one of the biggest days in office history. Interest deadline is October 20.

In his report on police and fire activities, Long said there were 1,007 arrests last month with fines totaling $1,680. There were 62 fire calls with considerable damage.

City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery noted collections of $2,092.80 as follows: Licenses, $102; produce permits, $1; bingo tax, $753.60 recreation admission on bingo, $375.80; movie tax, $799.35; recreation tax on movies, $60.05.

Health Officers To Study Water Situation Today

A survey of water systems in Lonaconing and Barton will be made today by an engineer of the Maryland State Department of Health and J. Byron Dowling, senior state sanitarian with the Allegany County Health Department, according to Dr. Winter R. Frantz, county health officer.

The water shortage in these two communities is becoming more critical each day due to the lack of rain during the extended drought of the last two months. Dowling said that reservoirs of the Evans Water Company at Lonaconing are drying up and something will have to be done if the drought is not broken.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of county schools, said classes are being held in the Lonaconing area schools, but that a more adequate supply of water is needed.

Health Department officials will confer with the Mayor and Town Council at Lonaconing and also with officials of the Evans Water Company in an attempt to see what can be done to alleviate the problem.

It was reported that some residents of Lonaconing have driven to the homes of friends in Cumberland and Frostburg to take baths due to the extreme shortage of water in their community.

Buchholtz Suggests Bond Investment

Commissioner William H. Buchholtz suggested yesterday that money now in the police pension fund be invested in bonds to gain interest.

Buchholtz said the fund is in good shape and contains about $40,000. He proposed to invest about $30,000 in Series "F" bonds which could be converted to cash immediately if the need arose.

Clinic Tomorrow

Smoke Protest To Be Probed By Hitchcock

Thirty-five residents of an area near a cleaning establishment asked the Mayor and Council yesterday for relief from what they termed a health hazard because of dirt, dust and coal dirt emitted from an exposed chimney.

The residents petitioning the council said they reside in the area of the Ray Bell cleaning establishment at 103 Pennsylvania Avenue.

Smoke Abatement Engineer George M. Hitchcock was ordered to investigate and report next Monday. Commissioner William H. Buchholtz asked that the probe be made and a report submitted, but Mayor Thomas S. Post asked that Hitchcock make the report at a definite time — at next Monday's council session.

In his report for the month of August, Hitchcock said air pollution is at its lowest point in three years. He said that in August, 1949, the tonnage was 17.1 tons; in 1950, 23.33 tons and last month only 7.48 tons.

He said two bad violations were found on the B. and O. Railroad in 296 observations last month. There were 259 clear stacks and 35 partial violations. On the Western Maryland Railway, Hitchcock reported 20 clear stacks, seven partial violations and no bad violations last month.

Hitchcock said eight complaints were made to his office last month. Five were against Potomac Edison Company, and one each against the B. and O. roundhouse, Allegany Court House and the Bell cleaning establishment.

The annual report of Memorial Hospital was submitted but the council, on motion of Mayor Post, held over its comment until next Monday to allow study.

Charles F. Heller, maintenance superintendent at the Municipal Airport, reported the new hangar for the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company has been completed and the company plane is using port facilities. He said the hangar cost $7,331.14 and is being amortized by the company.

Approved was payment of $8,204.14 as the second estimate for repaving of Valley Street.

The Cumberland Civic Orchestra, in a letter, thanked the council for its cash contribution to the group's program for the year.

Regional CD Meeting Set

Civil Defense officials of four counties will meet at the Naval Reserve Armory here Tuesday, October 9, at 11 a. m.

William G. Barger, Allegany county director of Civil Defense, has arranged the session and said Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties, which comprise this region, will participate.

He said discussions will probably center about the organization and role of the western counties in the statewide Civil Defense organization.

Barger said he is urging as many members as possible of each county Civil Defense committee to attend.

The meeting is viewed as another step in effecting a well-rounded Civil Defense program in the area. Currently, defense officials are conducting a drive for volunteer workers and attempting to educate the public to the need for such a program.

South End Gets Modern Street Lights

Installation of new, modern street lights from Oldtown Road to Laing Avenue has been completed, Commissioner of Water and Electric Light George H. Tederick announced yesterday.

The lights are similar to those on Baltimore and Bedford streets, and are part of a long-range program to modernize the city's street-lighting, Tederick said.

The new lights are located on one side of the street only and total 26. The old lights, totaling 45, were located on both sides of the street, but shed less light than those now in operation, Tederick added.

Installation was done by the Potomac Edison Company.

The 26 new lights are of 10,600 candlepower as compared to 400 candlepower of the old lights.

They were installed at a higher level on existing wooden poles and extend over the street.

Woman's Club Suggests Tighter Narcotics Law

The Woman's Civic Club yesterday urged the Mayor and Council to enact a new ordinance calling for the prohibition of sale of narcotics and requiring a six-month quarantine of known addicts.

The request was referred to Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long.

The Civic Club, in a letter signed by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Eva Helmrich, said the organization is joining others in a nationwide drive to stop narcotics peddling to youths and to further legislation to aid in prevention of drug addiction.

The club said it recognizes the fact the city has an ordinance prohibiting the sale of narcotics, but that nationwide statistics show one in 50 high school students become victims and experts have recommended a six-month quarantine of known addicts. A copy of a proposed ordinance was included with the communication.

"The mere presence in our city of quantities of marijuana, as devulged by the fine work of our Police Department in the past week, should alert us to the very serious menace," the club's letter stated.

This was reference to the confiscation of quantities of dope weed here Friday a week ago at the home of Robert B. Brant, 404 Pennsylvania Avenue. Brant had been arrested in Baltimore by Baltimore and federal agents.

In other action the Council voted $9,000 to the Cumberland Community Chest to be paid in quarterly installments of $2,250. This is the same amount as contributed last year.

The payroll for the last two weeks of September was approved.

Water consumption for the week ending Sunday was 84,110,000 gallons as compared to 86,000,000 a year ago. The daily average was 12,015,000. The water level at Lake Gordon is ten inches below the crest of the spillway and at Lake Koon ten feet below.

Services Continue At Mt. Herman Church

The evangelistic services being conducted at the Mount Herman Methodist Church, Williams Road, by Mrs. Sadie Triplett will close Thursday night. The services are held at 7:30 each evening.

Mrs. Triplett, in addition to delivering the message, also sings and plays accompaniments on the piano or accordion. Another feature is the singing of a junior choir, composed of children of the congregation, directed by Mrs. Triplett.

Mrs. Triplett, a local preacher and accepted supply of the Methodist Church, is a daughter of the late Rev. Albert Staniforth, at one time pastor of the Mount Herman Church.

Rev. Eugene May is the pastor at Mount Herman, and Rev. R. L. Wittig is directing congregational singing.

Two Injured As Car Overturns

Two Baltimoreans were hurt late Sunday when an unidentified motorist reportedly forced their car from Route 28, one-half mile southwest of the Old Furnace Road.

Memorial Hospital attaches listed the pair as William Hobell, 40, of 2114 East University Parkway, the driver, and Clinton Knick, 28, of 1106 East Biddle Street.

Hobell suffered facial lacerations and a possible fracture of the left leg. His companion was treated for cuts of the chin, nose and forehead.

West Virginia Police said Hobell's vehicle overturned on a curve about 10:30 p. m. Three other persons in the car were reported hurt but local hospitals said none received treatment.

PTA To Meet

The West Side School Parent-Teacher Association will hold its first meeting of the new school year at the school at 7:30 p. m. today.

Sentinel Boosters See Grid Movie

The Fort Hill Boosters Club meeting last week at the school featured color movies of last year's Maryland-Navy game.

The films were provided by the University of Maryland and Pete Augsberger, offensive end star on the 1950 eleven and ninth-leading pass receiver in the nation, was a special guest. Also on hand was Earl O'Brien, former Duquesne University star, now studying for a master's degree at Maryland.

H. C. Spiker, president, said films of the Maryland-Michigan State or Maryland-Duke game may be shown at the next meeting, a date for which has not been selected.

Police Note Violations In Bus Survey

The Police Department, making its regular check last week of the routes of Cumberland Transit Lines, found several violations, Commissioner of Police and Fire John J. Long told the Mayor and Council this morning.

The check revealed that two buses at Fort Hill High School with capacity of 26 were loaded with 47 and 51 passengers, he said.

Operators on the Wiley Ford-Ridgeley run are forced to exceed speed limits to meet schedules, he added, and the department believes the company should put on another bus or extend the time limit for this run.

Long said it was also noted that two buses take students to Fort Hill but only one is available to bring them back.

The commissioner said he is certain the company would cooperate and asserted he believed the bus drivers capable.

The inspection was made by Officer James Brown.

Previously, the city had entered a controversy over overloading and complaints of insufficient service in South End. These problems were solved at company-city conferences.

Among the end-of-the-month reports submitted yesterday were:

Tax Collector George E. Davis noted collections as follows: General, $197,933.65; general improvement bonds, $127,97; 1931 sewer bonds, $1,126.11; water rents, $41,096.10; total, $240,283.83.

Davis said collections on city taxes are running ahead of last year with last Wednesday, when $88,000 was collected, one of the biggest days in office history. Interest deadline is October 20.

In his report on police and fire activities, Long said there were 1,007 arrests last month with fines totaling $1,680. There were 62 fire calls with considerable damage.

City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery noted collections of $2,092.80 as follows: Licenses, $102; produce permits, $1; bingo tax, $753.60 recreation admission on bingo, $375.80; movie tax, $799.35; recreation tax on movies, $60.05.

Health Officers To Study Water Situation Today

A survey of water systems in Lonaconing and Barton will be made today by an engineer of the Maryland State Department of Health and J. Byron Dowling, senior state sanitarian with the Allegany County Health Department, according to Dr. Winter R. Frantz, county health officer.

The water shortage in these two communities is becoming more critical each day due to the lack of rain during the extended drought of the last two months. Dowling said that reservoirs of the Evans Water Company at Lonaconing are drying up and something will have to be done if the drought is not broken.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of county schools, said classes are being held in the Lonaconing area schools, but that a more adequate supply of water is needed.

Health Department officials will confer with the Mayor and Town Council at Lonaconing and also with officials of the Evans Water Company in an attempt to see what can be done to alleviate the problem.

It was reported that some residents of Lonaconing have driven to the homes of friends in Cumberland and Frostburg to take baths due to the extreme shortage of water in their community.

Buchholtz Suggests Bond Investment

Commissioner William H. Buchholtz suggested yesterday that money now in the police pension fund be invested in bonds to gain interest.

U.S. Army Rifles Reach Indochina

SAIGON, Indochina, Oct. 1 (AP)—A shipload of U. S. Army Garand rifles, enough to equip four divisions, was turned over to Viet Nam's national army today in readiness for an expected Communist offensive.

The rainy season is ending in Indochina and camps will soon be engaged in the heaviest fighting yet seen in Asia's second biggest war.

Col. Joseph B. Wells, acting chief of the U. S. military aid advisory group, formally turned over the rifles to Vietnamese officers who have formed 30 battalions to support the French. Four more battalions will be activated before the end of the year to complete the four divisions.

This first major American aid shipment to Indochina arrived on the U. S. freighter, Earlham Victory, which also brought 100 army trucks and ammunition for French Commander Gen. Juan De Lattre De-Tassigny's French forces.

Columbia TV Network Beats NBC To Punch

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—After hectic last minute arrangements, the Columbia Broadcasting System put on the first coast-to-coast baseball telecast today and beat the National Broadcasting Co. to the punch.

CBS said its TV network carried the opening game of the Brooklyn Dodgers-New York Giants playoff series to 42 stations outside New York City. It estimated the telecast was seen by 11,000,000 persons in all—7,500,000 outside New York City.

The National Broadcasting Company's telecasts of the World Series, starting Thursday from Yankee Stadium, originally were scheduled to be the first major league baseball to be carried west of the Rockies by TV.

Actor's Agent Luft Pleads Innocent

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1 (AP)—Sid Luft, actor's agent who says he is "romantically linked" with Judy Garland, pleaded innocent today to four charges brought against him after a three-car crash Sunday.

Luft, 35, is accused of drunkenness, drunken driving, carrying a concealed weapon in an automobile, and driving without a license. He asked for a jury trial.

Municipal Judge Wallace W. Toelle set the trial for Nov. 14.

Before his court appearance today, Luft answered questions about his relations with Miss Garland by saying, "you might say we are romantically linked." He said his divorce from actress Lynn Bari will become final in December.

Potato Farmer Wins

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 14 (AP) — A Maine potato industry leader, Clifford G. McIntire, Perham, won Republican nomination to succeed the late Rep. Frank Fellows (R) in today's special Third District primary.

With 218 of the sprawling Northern and Eastern Maine district's 260 precincts unofficially tabulated McIntire had 9,043 votes to 5,301 for State Rep. Allan Woodcock, Jr., Bangor—closest in a record field of seven candidates.

McIntire, 43-year-old Perham farmer and a director of the National Potato Council, will run in a special election Oct. 22 against Mrs. Katherine M. Hickson (D), Bangor, and Ralph A. Dyer, Hampden, an independent.

Cost Of Borrowing Up

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 1 (AP)—The cost of borrowing went up for Maryland today.

State bonds totaling $10,272,000 were sold to a group of six investment firms headed by the Chase National Bank of New York at a net charge of 1.481 per cent.

Less than eight months ago Maryland floated $17,564,000 in construction bonds to the Chase-headed syndicate, and the interest figured down to 1.18 per cent.

Violence Mounts In Philippines

MANILA, Oct. (AP)—Death, violence and charges of political terrorism mounted in the Philippines over the weekend, six weeks in advance of the Nov. 13 elections which Communist Huks are striving to disrupt.

Defense authorities, who have served notice they will call out 10,000 army reserves to preserve order during the congressional and provincial elections, placed the blame for most violence on Luzon islands to Reds. They said subversive Huk literature is urging Filipinos to use the rifle and bayonet to overthrow the government instead of voting.

In the latest violence two Liberal (administration) Party leaders in Bulacan province, just north of Manila, were kidnaped Sunday night by Huks.

The beheaded body of one was found about 30 miles north of Manila on the eastern fringe of the Candaba swamps. The other is still missing.

This brought an unofficial tally of political killings on Luzon to 25 since Sept. 14. As many more have been kidnaped.

Government Increases School Lunch Aid

BALTIMORE, Oct. 1 (AP)—The federal government is going to pay $650,900, 10 per cent more than last year, toward lunches provided Maryland school children.

The federal aid was announced today by Dr. John J. Seidel, assistant superintendent of the Department of Education.

The federal government provides five cents in cash and five cents in surplus commodities for each student lunch. About 7,000,000 meals will be served Maryland students this year.

The body was found in the charred ruins of one of the nine apartments. It was in the kitchen in the section in which the blaze started and sent 17 families scurrying to safety at 9 p. m.

Freedom Fight Is Urged By Hull

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Former Secretary of State Cardell Hull, in an 80th birthday statement, called on the American people today to stand "in the forefront of a worldwide co-operative effort against the forces of evil."

"We cannot survive as a free people if the rest of the world is enslaved," he said. "The men and women striving for freedom desperately need our aid, and that aid we must render."

Hull, Secretary of State from 1933 until 1944, said the United States is passing through a "crucial testing" period, one more perilous and exacting than any in its history.

"In this current struggle between the forces of freedom and the forces of tyranny," he asserted, "our country occupies a unique position.

"So great are our resources by comparison with those of others, that victory for the forces of freedom is possible only if we act now with the same fervor and the same dedication with which the 13 colonies fought in defense of the rights of free men 175 years ago."

Hull issued his statement through the State Department. He has been in and out of Bethesda Naval Hospital several times since his retirement in 1944 but apparently is in good health again. He has a hotel apartment here.

School, Teacher Who Dated Pupil Reach Settlement

AMBOY, Ill., Oct. 1 (AP) —The Amboy High School board today reached a settlement with the English teacher it had ordered discharged for dating a 17-year-old pupil. Terms of the settlement were not announced.

Stanley W. Gibson, 31, the teacher, had been fighting the dismissal order in a series of public hearings. He contended his dating of Miss Joyce Underhile, the pupil, was not detrimental to the school system as the board had held.

It was understood Gibson will resign and the school board will withdraw its dismissal. This would give Gibson a clean slate in seeking a new job.

Actor's Agent Luft Pleads Innocent

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1 (AP)—Sid Luft, actor's agent who says he is "romantically linked" with Judy Garland, pleaded innocent today to four charges brought against him after a three-car crash Sunday.

Luft, 35, is accused of drunkenness, drunken driving, carrying a concealed weapon in an automobile, and driving without a license. He asked for a jury trial.

Municipal Judge Wallace W. Toelle set the trial for Nov. 14.

Before his court appearance today, Luft answered questions about his relations with Miss Garland by saying, "you might say we are romantically linked." He said his divorce from actress Lynn Bari will become final in December.

Potato Farmer Wins

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 14 (AP) — A Maine potato industry leader, Clifford G. McIntire, Perham, won Republican nomination to succeed the late Rep. Frank Fellows (R) in today's special Third District primary.

With 218 of the sprawling Northern and Eastern Maine district's 260 precincts unofficially tabulated McIntire had 9,043 votes to 5,301 for State Rep. Allan Woodcock, Jr., Bangor—closest in a record field of seven candidates.

McIntire, 43-year-old Perham farmer and a director of the National Potato Council, will run in a special election Oct. 22 against Mrs. Katherine M. Hickson (D), Bangor, and Ralph A. Dyer, Hampden, an independent.

Less than eight months ago Maryland floated $17,564,000 in construction bonds to the Chase-headed syndicate, and the interest figured down to 1.18 per cent.

Violence Mounts In Philippines

MANILA, Oct. (AP)—Death, violence and charges of political terrorism mounted in the Philippines over the weekend, six weeks in advance of the Nov. 13 elections which Communist Huks are striving to disrupt.

Defense authorities, who have served notice they will call out 10,000 army reserves to preserve order during the congressional and provincial elections, placed the blame for most violence on Luzon islands to Reds. They said subversive Huk literature is urging Filipinos to use the rifle and bayonet to overthrow the government instead of voting.

In the latest violence two Liberal (administration) Party leaders in Bulacan province, just north of Manila, were kidnaped Sunday night by Huks.

The beheaded body of one was found about 30 miles north of Manila on the eastern fringe of the Candaba swamps. The other is still missing.

This brought an unofficial tally of political killings on Luzon to 25 since Sept. 14. As many more have been kidnaped.

Government Increases School Lunch Aid

BALTIMORE, Oct. 1 (AP)—The federal government is going to pay $650,900, 10 per cent more than last year, toward lunches provided Maryland school children.

The federal aid was announced today by Dr. John J. Seidel, assistant superintendent of the Department of Education.

The federal government provides five cents in cash and five cents in surplus commodities for each student lunch. About 7,000,000 meals will be served Maryland students this year.

Westminster Woman Dies In Apartment Fire

WESTMINSTER, Md., Oct. 1 (AP)—The death of a woman was discovered today, nearly 12 hours after a fire started in a two-story apartment house.

The victim was identified tentatively as Margaret Feeser, a 44-year-old divorcee. The body was sent to the Baltimore morgue for an autopsy to seek positive identification.

The body was found in the charred ruins of one of the nine apartments. It was in the kitchen in the section in which the blaze started and sent 17 families scurrying to safety at 9 p. m.

Bay Bridge Repairs To Cost Nearly Million

BALTIMORE, Oct. 1 (AP) — It's going to cost about three quarters of a million dollars to repair storm damages so far to the Chesapeake Bay bridge.

The State Roads Commission said today it will cost $99,338 to replace damaged pier forms and $275,338 to rehabilitate the causeway and slope paving.

Engineers also have recommended appropriation of $349,626 for other damage.

Freedom Fight Is Urged By Hull

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Former Secretary of State Cardell Hull, in an 80th birthday statement, called on the American people today to stand "in the forefront of a world-wide co-operative effort against the forces of evil."

"We cannot survive as a free people if the rest of the world is enslaved," he said. "The men and women striving for freedom desperately need our aid, and that aid we must render."

Hull, Secretary of State from 1933 until 1944, said the United States is passing through a "crucial testing" period, one more perilous and exacting than any in its history.

"In this current struggle between the forces of freedom and the forces of tyranny," he asserted, "our country occupies a unique position.

"So great are our resources by comparison with those of others, that victory for the forces of freedom is possible only if we act now with the same fervor and the same dedication with which the 13 colonies fought in defense of the rights of free men 175 years ago."

Hull issued his statement through the State Department. He has been in and out of Bethesda Naval Hospital several times since his retirement in 1944 but apparently is in good health again. He has a hotel apartment here.

School, Teacher Who Dated Pupil Reach Settlement

AMBOY, Ill., Oct. 1 (AP) —The Amboy High School board today reached a settlement with the English teacher it had ordered discharged for dating a 17-year-old pupil. Terms of the settlement were not announced.

Stanley W. Gibson, 31, the teacher, had been fighting the dismissal order in a series of public hearings. He contended his dating of Miss Joyce Underhile, the pupil, was not detrimental to the school system as the board had held.

It was understood Gibson will resign and the school board will withdraw its dismissal. This would give Gibson a clean slate in seeking a new job.

Senate Vs. House On Taxes

As the 1951 Revenue bill goes to conference committee, the total tax boost estimated from it is much less than recommended by the President, considerably less than originally voted by the House.

The President in a letter of September 20 to Vice President Barkley as presiding officer of the Senate reiterated the original Truman recommendation of $10 billion more. The House on June 22 had adopted a $7.2 billion bill. The Senate Finance Committee pared that amount to $5.5 billion. Chairman George (D., Ga.), however, says that this estimate is low and that the committee version would produce additional revenue of about $6 billion.

The likelihood is that the conference committee will finally report a bill more nearly like the Senate than the House version. And the further likelihood is that the House, eager to get home, will quickly agree to the conference report.

All revenue bills must originate in the House. But although the constitutional originator of revenue, the House in recent years has proved more and more willing to defer to the Senate on tax bills.

As a result of the unfavorable course of the Korean War during the summer of 1950, the 1950 revenue act was almost entirely a Senate product. Four days after the war had started, on June 29, the House had voted a bill which would have cut excise taxes so deeply that, despite a rise in corporation taxes, a net revenue loss would have resulted.

President Truman on July 25 asked the Senate to raise taxes on individuals and corporations by $5 billion. The final bill closely followed the President's prescription. Revenue-losing provisions of the House bill were eliminated, and the House went along.

There was no new revenue act in 1949. In 1948 the Senate rewrote the House tax bill so as to lop $1.7 billion from the House tax reduction. The House accepted the Senate's less generous treatment of the taxpayers.

The Senate, however, was the greater tax reducer immediately after World War II. The Senate voted retroactive reductions in excess-profits taxes for small corporations, repeal of the tax at the end of 1945. The House had wanted to keep that tax through 1946, but agreed to repeal after the conferees had eliminated the Senate provision for retroactive reductions.

The Senate Finance Committee in 1944 had liberalized renegotiation of war contract sections of the revenue bill to the point that four committee members charged that the bill would breed "a new crop of war millionaires." Public reaction caused the committee to revise its bill while this was still in debate on the Senate floor.

Parcel Post Costs More

Higher rates for parcel post (fourth class) packages, except books, went into effect yesterday. At some future date, as yet unannounced, higher rates will be imposed on books, also a surcharge on parcel post packages of such unusual size that they are not handled in ordinary mail sacks.

On other classes of mail matter, higher rates are to go into effect soon. The Senate and the House voted for different increases in the several categories, with the differences to be ironed out by a conference committee.

Except for parcel post, postal service charges are fixed by Congress. A 1925 law prescribes that parcel post rates shall be set by the postmaster general, with the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The ICC approved the new parcel post increases proposed by the postmaster general, except those on books. The ICC made its own suggestions on book rate increases, and is waiting for new proposals by the P. H. G. along the lines it suggested. The ICC accepted the P. M. G.'s idea of a surcharge on unusual parcel post packages, but he has yet to work one out.

The Post Office Department's cost-ascertainment figures show that in the fiscal year 1950 (figures for 1951 not yet available), parcel post was carried at a net loss of $78 million. This came to 14 per cent of the Department's total deficit of $546 million. The new increases in all classes of mail matter are expected to reduce the deficit little, because Congress has voted substantial wage increases for the postal employes, and there are some half a million of these.

Plenty Of Rubber

From the consumers' point of view the downward direction of wool and rubber prices is good news. That new suit and those new tires shouldn't cost any more and may cost a bit less than you've been expecting to pay, despite the inflationary factors that are still tending to push prices up. The price of Australian wool got so high that the market suddenly began to clam up.

As for rubber—there are two good reasons why it's plentiful in America. One: The government as the sole importer of natural rubber has stockpiled enough to last maybe four years, and is still buying from Southeast Asia. Two: The government's synthetic rubber plants, after a post-war shutdown, are producing at the rate of a million tons a year.

From the roundup in the Wall Street Journal we gather that the rubber manufacturing industry—tires use 68 per cent of all rubber—is being offered more rubber, natural and synthetic, than it can use. And this is the time of year when the tire market declines anyway.

So you've noticed that new cars have spare tires again? Well, that's no accident. The rubber industry has even revived the talk of making highway pavements out of rubber.

Did we hear somebody holler something about rubber being either a feast or a famine?

Zog's Splendor

Albania is a small Adriatic land, of approximately the area of New Hampshire or Maryland, whose population of 1,000,000 consists of peasants. Its total holdings in gold and foreign exchange on December 31, 1945, were worth $82,000.

That, of course, was after it had been liberated from German and Italian occupation, thereafter to fall, as events proved, into Communist control. Nevertheless, when one reads that former King Zog made a down payment on long-disused Long Island mansion with a bucket of diamonds and rubies, and that he wants to bring a suite of 115 persons to Muttontown, L. I., it is obvious that the pickings while Zog was king of Albania were substantial.

It's not important, except as an exhibit on how lucrative the kingship of even an impoverished land can be. Lucrative, too, for the estate which owns the Long Island, furnished and vacant for 12 years—one of those establishments which few Americans now have the resources (after taxes) to maintain and which, in this case, the Soviet Union seems not to have rented.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Curable Deafness

Certain types of deafness are curable but unless the disorder is recognized and treated the individual will continue to be hard of hearing. Some persons even go so far as to obtain a hearing aid before submitting to examination. A middle aged man did this and was embarrassed when his hearing was restored after a physician removed wax plugs from his ears.

The need for determining whether deafness exists is vital in pre-school children. There are many reasons for this, the most important centering about the education of the child. The youngster who is hard of hearing misses so many words, he has difficulty learning to talk properly. The defect also may have a profound effect upon his emotional system. Unless the situation is realized, parents and kindergarten teachers may conclude that the child is mentally retarded or suffering from a speech disorder or word deafness.

This explains why our school health authorities want to test the hearing of all youngsters. In the regions where this project has been carried out, approximately 5 per cent of all pre-schoolers were found to be suffering from varying degrees of hearing loss. Once the preliminary screening was over, a more detailed study was suggested to trace the origin of the disturbance. When this routine was followed, the outcome was astonishing. In one group that received medical treatment, 85 per cent showed improvement; 65 per cent reached the normal range of hearing. These results speak for themselves and emphasize the value of early detection and the need for locating the cause. When a remedy is not available most authorities recommend that all partially deafened young children be given a hearing aid to overcome the usual handicaps associated with the effect.

If the ear canal is obstructed by wax, its removal restores hearing within a few minutes. Loss of hearing also may stem from blockage of the Eustachian tubes, the passageways that connect the ear and throat. The same thing may result from swollen adenoids. This lymph tissue is located in the roof of the throat near the back part of the nose. This area also is the site of the openings of the Eustachian tubes and when adenoidal tissue swells, blockage is likely to occur. In the past this puffiness generally was ascribed to infection and surgical removal of adenoids was the treatment of choice. During World War II, however, the use of radium for this purpose became popular. Special applicators were devised and the adenoids literally were burned away from the area surrounding the outlets of these tubes. This remedy still is employed but we now know that there are other causative factors of swollen lymphoid tissue in the throat.

Allergy may play a role in deafness and the most common offenders are house dust, molds, fungi, tobacco smoke, and paper. Heat, cold, fatigue, and emotional disturbances are other candidates. This knowledge has led many authorities to administer one of the antihistaminic drugs whenever they suspect an allergic basis of deafness. Vitamin and protein deficiencies and the consumption of an unbalanced diet have an adverse influence upon the hearing apparatus. Anxiety states can do the same as well as local disease of the nose, septum, and sinuses. These are but a few of the remedial causes; others include dental malocclusion, ear infections, otosclerosis, and psychogenic sources.

BURNING SOLES

Mrs. W. writes: What makes the soles of the feet burn? They are not red and there is no rash.

REPLY

There are many possibilities, including injury, frostbite, nerve damage and walking in parades. In causalgia, burning is intense; the condition usually follows injury in which a nerve in the extremity was damaged. Erythromelalgia is another possibility, altho in this disorder redness of the feet is associated with burning. Examination will be needed.

ANTI-RABIC "SHOTS"

V. C. writes: How many injections are given to a person who is bitten by a dog suspected of having rabies?

REPLY

One injection daily for two to four weeks in minor bites. If the lesion is severe or on the face or neck, two daily doses may be needed.

BREEZE AND DRAFT

Mrs. J. writes: My husband thinks, during hot weather, that I should put the baby's play pen and crib in a draft but I disagree. Will you please advise?

REPLY

Drafts are not desirable but a breeze is welcome when the weather is hot. I see no objection so long as the child does not sleep in the draft.

WATCH IT

M. W. writes: My doctor told me to watch a red spot on my nose. What does he mean?

REPLY

If you observe changes in the lesion you should report to him immediately. There is no need to carry a mirror around; just look at the spot morning and evening.

Freedom Balloons Open Doors Of Communist Embassy; New Czech Ambassador Welcomes American Press; Propaganda Leaflets Worry Soviet Leaders

WASHINGTON—The Communist Czechoslovak embassy in Washington is located in a most fashionable and uncommunist part of town. Almost next door are the friendly Chilean embassy, the Egyptian embassy, the now troubled Pakistan embassy, the pro-American Philippines and the stanchly anti-Communist Turkish embassy.

Across the street are the Koreans, the Danes and Norwegians, the latter firm allies in the North Atlantic Pact, while just around the corner are the sedate homes of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the late President, and of Herbert Hoover. Down the street about a block are the embassies of Greece and tiny Luxembourg — now made famous by "Call Me Madam" Perle Mesta—both lined up solidly with the United States.

In fact, the Communist embassy of Czechoslovakia seems just a bit out of place in these surroundings. Out of its windows, however, and across Sheridan Circle, its diplomats can see one fellow Communist embassy, that of Rumania, a rather attractive building which once housed Queen Marie on her famous visit to the U. S. during those more glamorous days when the crowns of kings and queens rested more firmly in the Balkans.

Staring blankly at the Rumanian embassy in eternal disapproval is the statue of General Phil Sheridan, famous for his cavalry A-bomb raids up and down the Shenandoah Valley, but who now stands, still a-horse, in the middle of Sheridan Circle while children play around his horse's hoofs.

Inside The Embassy

In these surroundings, the Communist Czech embassy ought to appear lonely. Externally, however, it doesn't. It looks as well kept as any other of the dignified gray stone buildings along embassy row. Inside, however, it's different.

I have been inside the Czech embassy only once in the years since it was taken over by the Communists, and that was on a visit in behalf of the American Legion to see whether the children of Czechoslovakia might be permitted to participate in the Legion's Tide of Toys.

The downstairs of the embassy is about the same as that of any other embassy — huge marble stairway, rather impressive, leading to living quarters above. The room in which the ambassador received me, however, had seen better days. The brocade on the walls, reminiscent of the golden era when Americans didn't have to woryr about income taxes, was bleached and worn; while the general atmosphere was one of stale tobacco and disuse.

Ambassador Vladimir Outrata, who then represented Czechoslovakia, was extremely cagey about permitting the children of his country to receive Christmas toys from the American Legion. He wanted to know how many toys there would be, and seemed horrified that there might be as many as one freight-car load. It was obvious that he didn't want anything to dispel the Communist myth that the American people—even including our children—are the mortal enemies of the Czech children.

In the end, the ambassador said he would have to consult his government, and after two weeks the answer arrived—as I expected, in the negative. In brief, Communist Czechoslovakia did not want any tokens of people-to-people friendship from the American Legion or from American children.

I am quite sure that few other American newsmen have been inside the Communist Czech embassy during the years it has stood isolated and aloof on ritzy Massachusetts Avenue—until last week when all the press was suddenly invited in.

Historic Press Conference

Somber, unhappy Ambassador Outrata, whom I interviewed, has now been replaced by Ambassador Vladimir Prochazka. He is the man who in an historic hour and a half-long interview tried to tell the Communist side of the Oatis case, submitted to questions, and threw out hints that his government might be ready to call it quits regarding Oatis if the U. S. relaxed its economic and propaganda pressure.

The details of that interview have been well portrayed in the press. But some of the detailed facts behind that interview have not been portrayed.

They began last August when a long caravan of trucks camped out in a Bavarian wheat field late one night and began the eerie and rather fantastic job of releasing balloons carrying friendship messages to the Czechoslovak people.

A lot of people in this country at first pooh-poohed the idea. Unquestionably it was an experiment. But systematically for two weeks a total of 11,000,000 messages were dropped over Czechoslovakia, the equivalent of one message for every third man, woman and child in the country.

Simultaneously, Radio Free Europe, run by the National Committee for a Free Europe, began augmenting this balloon barrage. The effect has been electrifying.

The story of these balloons has swept Czechoslovakia. Everyone now knows about them, and those who haven't seen the messages have heard about them. People are now watching for balloons pretty much as Americans once watched for flying saucers. The messages have been mimeographed, tacked up on telegraph poles and mailed anonymously to Communist officials.

Czech airplanes have tried to shoot down the balloons, but only succeeded in scattering the leaflets more. The Czech prime minister has made a speech on the floor of the parliament blasting the balloons as carrying "beetles" and "press manure." The Moscow radio has claimed: "The winds of freedom stink." Unquestionably the balloon barrage has got under the Commie skins.

Finally, last week, the Czech railroad engineer and train dispatcher, who ran the freedom train across the border into Germany, went up to the border and released a new balloon barrage carrying a leaflet

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—This is a tale about a Washington senator—a Republican. He made speeches inside and outside the Senate which angered his own state and the people of the nation.

The unpopularity of this senator was such that newspapers from one end of the country to the other denounced him not only for "his tactless way of bludgeoning his adversaries" and his "vocabulary of anathema" but for "treasonable and seditious utterances."

The Republican State Central Committee of Wisconsin by unanimous vote demanded his expulsion from the United States Senate for "treasonable and seditious utterances." The League of Wisconsin Municipalities took the same action. The State Council of Defense and 71 councils called on him to resign and demanded that the U. S. Senate expel him if he didn't resign.

Rotary groups, bar associations, public safety committees in his own state and elsewhere denounced him. The Republican State Convention of Massachusetts adopted a resolution censuring him for "marked disloyalty." Former President Theodore Roosevelt called him the "most sinister enemy of democracy in the United States" and called for his expulsion from the Senate.

Committee Investigates

The same Wisconsin senator then made a bitter speech in St. Paul, Minn. There was some doubt afterward as to exactly what the senator said. The furor caused the United States Senate to appoint a special committee to investigate the demand for expulsion. The chairman of the committee a, Democratic senator —construed the committee's powers as limited to ascertaining first, the truth or falsity of what the senator said, and second, the truth or falsity of his statement of facts. The issue was debated at length in the Senate. Senator Kellogg of Minnesota, Republican, a great lawyer of his day, who later became a Secretary of State, refused to admit that the issue of free speach was at stake. He said: "This is a question of erroneous statement of facts rather than of free speech."

The Wisconsin senator had denounced the motives of the United States Government. He questioned the sincerity of its acts at a time when its troops were fighting on the battlefield. Only from a few places did endorsement of his stand come. The California Federation of Labor, for instance, expressed confidence in him as a "true American citizen" and upheld his right to voice the views of "an intelligent man."

Finally the Wisconsin Legislature by a vote of 26 to 3 in its Senate and 53 to 32 in its House, after a stormy continuous session of 17 hours, passed a resolution condemning him for failing to see the righteausness of the nation's cause and rebuked him for his utterances as tending to "incite sedition."

Ten times the special committee of the United States Senate met and 10 times it adjourned without doing anything.

All this took place in 1917 and 1918 during a time when the United States was at war, and when several persons outside of public life had been arrested under the espionage laws for inciting sedition. But congressional immunity or congressional restraint or forbearance ruled the day. Nothing was done. The issue was left to the people of Wisconsin.

Supported Unpopular Causes

Then, after the war, the same Wisconsin senator was re-elected by the people of Wisconsin and remained in the Senate for many years afterward, often fighting in behalf of unpopular causes. So great was his hold on the people of his state that his son—a very able man in his own right—was elected to the Senate as his successor without being in the slightest damaged politically by the controversy in which his father had been engaged. Indeer, the father ran for the Presidency of the United States as an independent in 1924 and polled close to 5,000,000 votes. No third-party candidate since then has obtained as many.

The name of the senator from Wisconsin for whose expulsion there was such widespread demand was Robert M. La Follette.

And what did history say 34 years later? A President of the United States—a Democrat—in speaking to a nation-wide radio audience on July 28, 1951, denounced by implication a present-day U. S. senator from Wisconsin and spoke of Wisconsin as "the home state of two of America's greatest liberal and progressive senators, Robert M. La Follette and Robert Junior."

The tribute of "greatness" was given to a man widely denounced. It will be argued, of course, that the cases of Senators McCarthy and La Follette are not parallel because the one smeared individuals and the other smeared his own government or, because one allegedly engaged in improper campaigning and the other did not. It makes one wonder how many people in America, inside and outside public life, who profess to be "liberals," sincerely subscribe to the doctrine laid down by the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the Supreme Court of the United States, who once defined freedom of speech as "freedom for the thought we hate."

Matter Of Fact

By STEWART ALSOP

140 Group Air Force

WASHINGTON

Before very long, the final settlement of the embittered controversy about the size of the Air Force ought to be publicly announced. After the most prolonged and laborious discussion, which at one point kept the Joint Chiefs of Staff in almost continuous session for 10 days on end, the heads of the services have reached agreement among themselves. The agreed plan only awaits the approval of President Truman to become official.

If the President approves, which seems almost certain, the plan will provide for expansion of the Air Force from 95 to about 140 groups—the exact figure is still secret, but this is the general scale. The increase in over-all airpower will allow a much larger investment in tactical air power, thus remedying our gravest weakness in the air. On the basis of current scheduling, this great increment of American strength will be completed by 1954.

In money terms, the agreement reached by the Joint Chiefs will mean that about $3,750,000,000 of the $5,000,000,000 supplemental defense appropriation recently voted by Congress, will be allocated to Air Force expansion, while much of the rest will go to added Naval air strength. This will get the program started.

Approval Obvious

In the two following fiscal years, the huge capital outlays involved in the expansion of the Air Force will add about $10,000,000,000 annually to the defense budget. And when the period of capital spending is at an end, the Air Force expansion will result in a regular annual bill for maintaining the armed forces of a little under $40,000,000,000, instead of about $35,000,000,000 as previously projected.

It has long been very obvious that Air Force expansion would eventually be approved, in one form or another. The reason is that the Air Force has not one, but two main jobs — its own specialized job of building strategic air power, and its cooperative job of providing tactical air support to the ground forces. In the past, because of budgetary and other pressures, the problem of tactical air has been neglected.

When the present struggle started, the air staff prepared a plan for a 163 group air force, which was sponsored by Secretary of Air Thomas K. Finletter and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg. This first air force plan involved an increase in strategic air power even greater than the projected increase for tactical air power. It is understood that most of the saving in the less ambitious agreed plan of the Joint Chiefs has been achieved by holding down the strategic air increases.

On the whole, the most striking aspect of this crucial decision that the Joint Chiefs have taken is the manner of taking it. What has happened represents a long step forward on the hard road toward genuine unification of the services.

Proof Of Progress

The Joint Chiefs of Staff themselves plunged into the debate with far less venom and obstinacy than in the past; and the mere fact that they have been able to agree upon such a furiously controversial subject as air force expansion is proof of enormous progress. Now for the first time, the rule is recognized that the American people are only to pay for the armed forces they really need for their security.

This is a great change from the old rule of the Joint Chiefs, that increases in appropriations for any single service automatically led to increases in the appropriations of the competing services, whether these were needed or not.

In the main, however, the agreement that has now been reached signifies a triumph for the civilian element of the defense establishment, and especially for Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett. The new climate in which agreement of the Joint Chiefs became possible was largely created by the hard work of Lovett, and by the constant efforts of the two coordinating committees, composed respectively of the service secretaries and under secretaries.

Moreover, the outlook for compromise was very far from hopeful even at the end of the period, some weeks ago, when the Joint Chiefs hardly left their conference table for ten days on end. At that time, their prospective disagreement was reported to Secretary Lovett. He had already established another new priciple, that he would no longer accept a simple "split paper," such as the Joint Chiefs regularly produced in the past; but would insist that a report of disagreement be accompanied by a formal request from the Joint Chiefs for a final settlement of their differences by the civilian authority.

When Lovett quietly indicated that his new principle would be insisted upon, the Joint Chiefs went back to work and hammered out their compromise. In every way this is a great and reassuring event.

These Days

A Programless Party

Wherever one goes these days among Republican businessmen, the conversation soon veers around to "Who will be the candidates?" "Will it be Eisenhower or Taft?" "Will Truman run again?" "Can we ever get rid of that gang in Washington?"

And as usual with businessmen, they seek a candidate with skill in salesmanship. Can he sell himself to labor, to the farmer, to young people under 30?

Four times, the Republican party devoted itself to salesmanship. They nominated the genial Alf Landon, really a delightful person with a fine mind, because it was believed that he could be sold as a resurrected Abe Lincoln. They picked up Wendell Willkie and fell flat with him. Twice the banner was entrusted to Tom Dewey, but his salesmanship was inadequate.

Many of these Republican businessmen are now turning to General Eisenhower because they assume that his name is a wonderful trademark. They do not pretend t be sure that he is a Republican; they do not know what his program for international relations or the domestic economy may be. They put it on the line that no one can defeat Ike Eisenhower.

I have heard that twice before. No one was supposed to be able to defeat Wendell Willkie. In those days, I was very close to the National Association of Manufacturers and you can hardly imagine the optimism that exuded from every industrialist's pore. But Roosevelt defeated Willkie and if the truth must be told, the fact that large numbers of Republicans did not vote that year played a part in the defeat. The same kind of optimism was evident when Dewey ran against Truman. In fact, the news that Dewey was defeated sounded unbelievable.

The answer may be that the Republicans have had no program since 1932. "Me-tooism" produces nothing substantial. If there is no objection to the guiding principles of the Truman administration, why not vote for Truman? Eisenhower may be more attractive personally than Truman, but if there is no basic difference in principles or methods, what makes Eisenhower or Taft or Dewey or anybody superior to Truman? Some blurt the word, character.

Maybe that is what the businessmen believe that they can sell, but it seems to me that without a program, it will be very difficult to establish that one man's character is so very different from another's. Character is such an imponderable that one man's likes may be another's hatred and for no rational or understandable reason.

James F. Byrnes, governor of South Carolina, in 1949 stated the program of the opposition to Truman in a speech in Biloxi, Mississippi. He said:

". . . Our first line of defense is not the Elbe or the Rhine; it is a sound, solvent American economy. And that economy is now threatened.

"The people who settled this country did not come here to establish a government. They were seeking liberty, not security. They were seeking an opportunity to enjoy freedom, the freedom of being let alone."

He said further:

"We must emphasize the freedom of the individual who by his initiative has made America prosperous. And we cannot very well boast of freedom under the American system if we are going to change that system and force the people to surrender more liberties to a centralized government."

In a word, what Byrnes proposed —and what the Democratic Senators Byrd and George have so often emphasized—is the necessity of subordinating our international relations to our domestic necessities. Such a program, if fearlessly defined and honestly stated, could open a challenging debate on obligations, responsibilities and commitments abroad and to our own people. It would be as great a campaign as 1896. There would be no "me-tooism," no improvisations, no saying one thing in one state and just the opposite in some other state. It would not involve the technical question as to who is more photogenic on television.

It would surely not be concerned with the advantages of silence on crucial issues on the assumption that a closed mouth but a flexible mind loses no votes.

Thus far, the politicians among the Republicans are becoming too dependent upon the disclosure of Democratic corruption, while the businessmen overemphasize the salesmanship of a candidate. Neither, it seems to me, will suffice to win unless the Republicans develop a constructive program as Governor Byrnes defined, or even a stronger one. A constructive program will have to offer an alternative to the fair deal imitation of Fabian socialism.

Senate Vs. House On Taxes

As the 1951 Revenue bill goes to conference committee, the total tax boost estimated from it is much less than recommended by the President, considerably less than originally voted by the House.

The President in a letter of September 20 to Vice President Barkley as presiding officer of the Senate reiterated the original Truman recommendation of $10 billion more. The House on June 22 had adopted a $7.2 billion bill. The Senate Finance Committee pared that amount to $5.5 billion. Chairman George (D., Ga.), however, says that this estimate is low and that the committee version would produce additional revenue of about $6 billion.

The likelihood is that the conference committee will finally report a bill more nearly like the Senate than the House version. And the further likelihood is that the House, eager to get home, will quickly agree to the conference report.

All revenue bills must originate in the House. But although the constitutional originator of revenue, the House in recent years has proved more and more willing to defer to the Senate on tax bills.

As a result of the unfavorable course of the Korean War during the summer of 1950, the 1950 revenue act was almost entirely a Senate product. Four days after the war had started, on June 29, the House had voted a bill which would have cut excise taxes so deeply that, despite a rise in corporation taxes, a net revenue loss would have resulted.

President Truman on July 25 asked the Senate to raise taxes on individuals and corporations by $5 billion. The final bill closely followed the President's prescription. Revenue-losing provisions of the House bill were eliminated, and the House went along.

There was no new revenue act in 1949. In 1948 the Senate rewrote the House tax bill so as to lop $1.7 billion from the House tax reduction. The House accepted the Senate's less generous treatment of the taxpayers.

The Senate, however, was the greater tax reducer immediately after World War II. The Senate voted retroactive reductions in excess-profits taxes for small corporations, repeal of the tax at the end of 1945. The House had wanted to keep that tax through 1946, but agreed to repeal after the conferees had eliminated the Senate provision for retroactive reductions.

The Senate Finance Committee in 1944 had liberalized renegotiation of war contract sections of the revenue bill to the point that four committee members charged that the bill would breed "a new crop of war millionaires." Public reaction caused the committee to revise its bill while this was still in debate on the Senate floor.

Parcel Post Costs More

Higher rates for parcel post (fourth class) packages, except books, went into effect yesterday. At some future date, as yet unannounced, higher rates will be imposed on books, also a surcharge on parcel post packages of such unusual size that they are not handled in ordinary mail sacks.

On other classes of mail matter, higher rates are to go into effect soon. The Senate and the House voted for different increases in the several categories, with the differences to be ironed out by a conference committee.

Except for parcel post, postal service charges are fixed by Congress. A 1925 law prescribes that parcel post rates shall be set by the postmaster general, with the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The ICC approved the new parcel post increases proposed by the postmaster general, except those on books. The ICC made its own suggestions on book rate increases, and is waiting for new proposals by the P. H. G. along the lines it suggested. The ICC accepted the P. M. G.'s idea of a surcharge on unusual parcel post packages, but he has yet to work one out.

The Post Office Department's cost-ascertainment figures show that in the fiscal year 1950 (figures for 1951 not yet available), parcel post was carried at a net loss of $78 million. This came to 14 per cent of the Department's total deficit of $546 million. The new increases in all classes of mail matter are expected to reduce the deficit little, because Congress has voted substantial wage increases for the postal employes, and there are some half a million of these.

Plenty Of Rubber

From the consumers' point of view the downward direction of wool and rubber prices is good news. That new suit and those new tires shouldn't cost any more and may cost a bit less than you've been expecting to pay, despite the inflationary factors that are still tending to push prices up. The price of Australian wool got so high that the market suddenly began to clam up.

As for rubber—there are two good reasons why it's plentiful in America. One: The government as the sole importer of natural rubber has stockpiled enough to last maybe four years, and is still buying from Southeast Asia. Two: The government's synthetic rubber plants, after a post-war shutdown, are producing at the rate of a million tons a year.

From the roundup in the Wall Street Journal we gather that the rubber manufacturing industry—tires use 68 per cent of all rubber—is being offered more rubber, natural and synthetic, than it can use. And this is the time of year when the tire market declines anyway.

So you've noticed that new cars have spare tires again? Well, that's no accident. The rubber industry has even revived the talk of making highway pavements out of rubber.

Did we hear somebody holler something about rubber being either a feast or a famine?

Zog's Splendor

Albania is a small Adriatic land, of approximately the area of New Hampshire or Maryland, whose population of 1,000,000 consists of peasants. Its total holdings in gold and foreign exchange on December 31, 1945, were worth $82,000.

That, of course, was after it had been liberated from German and Italian occupation, thereafter to fall, as events proved, into Communist control. Nevertheless, when one reads that former King Zog made a down payment on long-disused Long Island mansion with a bucket of diamonds and rubies, and that he wants to bring a suite of 115 persons to Muttontown, L. I., it is obvious that the pickings while Zog was king of Albania were substantial.

It's not important, except as an exhibit on how lucrative the kingship of even an impoverished land can be. Lucrative, too, for the estate which owns the Long Island, furnished and vacant for 12 years—one of those establishments which few Americans now have the resources (after taxes) to maintain and which, in this case, the Soviet Union seems not to have rented.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Curable Deafness

Certain types of deafness are curable but unless the disorder is recognized and treated the individual will continue to be hard of hearing. Some persons even go so far as to obtain a hearing aid before submitting to examination. A middle aged man did this and was embarrassed when his hearing was restored after a physician removed wax plugs from his ears.

The need for determining whether deafness exists is vital in pre-school children. There are many reasons for this, the most important centering about the education of the child. The youngster who is hard of hearing misses so many words, he has difficulty learning to talk properly. The defect also may have a profound effect upon his emotional system. Unless the situation is realized, parents and kindergarten teachers may conclude that the child is mentally retarded or suffering from a speech disorder or word deafness.

This explains why our school health authorities want to test the hearing of all youngsters. In the regions where this project has been carried out, approximately 5 per cent of all pre-schoolers were found to be suffering from varying degrees of hearing loss. Once the preliminary screening was over, a more detailed study was suggested to trace the origin of the disturbance. When this routine was followed, the outcome was astonishing. In one group that received medical treatment, 85 per cent showed improvement; 65 per cent reached the normal range of hearing. These results speak for themselves and emphasize the value of early detection and the need for locating the cause. When a remedy is not available most authorities recommend that all partially deafened young children be given a hearing aid to overcome the usual handicaps associated with the effect.

If the ear canal is obstructed by wax, its removal restores hearing within a few minutes. Loss of hearing also may stem from blockage of the Eustachian tubes, the passageways that connect the ear and throat. The same thing may result from swollen adenoids. This lymph tissue is located in the roof of the throat near the back part of the nose. This area also is the site of the openings of the Eustachian tubes and when adenoidal tissue swells, blockage is likely to occur. In the past this puffiness generally was ascribed to infection and surgical removal of adenoids was the treatment of choice. During World War II, however, the use of radium for this purpose became popular. Special applicators were devised and the adenoids literally were burned away from the area surrounding the outlets of these tubes. This remedy still is employed but we now know that there are other causative factors of swollen lymphoid tissue in the throat.

Allergy may play a role in deafness and the most common offenders are house dust, molds, fungi, tobacco smoke, and paper. Heat, cold, fatigue, and emotional disturbances are other candidates. This knowledge has led many authorities to administer one of the antihistaminic drugs whenever they suspect an allergic basis of deafness. Vitamin and protein deficiencies and the consumption of an unbalanced diet have an adverse influence upon the hearing apparatus. Anxiety states can do the same as well as local disease of the nose, septum, and sinuses. These are but a few of the remedial causes; others include dental malocclusion, ear infections, otosclerosis, and psychogenic sources.

BURNING SOLES

Mrs. W. writes: What makes the soles of the feet burn? They are not red and there is no rash.

REPLY

There are many possibilities, including injury, frostbite, nerve damage and walking in parades. In causalgia, burning is intense; the condition usually follows injury in which a nerve in the extremity was damaged. Erythromelalgia is another possibility, altho in this disorder redness of the feet is associated with burning. Examination will be needed.

ANTI-RABIC "SHOTS"

V. C. writes: How many injections are given to a person who is bitten by a dog suspected of having rabies?

REPLY

One injection daily for two to four weeks in minor bites. If the lesion is severe or on the face or neck, two daily doses may be needed.

BREEZE AND DRAFT

Mrs. J. writes: My husband thinks, during hot weather, that I should put the baby's play pen and crib in a draft but I disagree. Will you please advise?

REPLY

Drafts are not desirable but a breeze is welcome when the weather is hot. I see no objection so long as the child does not sleep in the draft.

WATCH IT

M. W. writes: My doctor told me to watch a red spot on my nose. What does he mean?

REPLY

If you observe changes in the lesion you should report to him immediately. There is no need to carry a mirror around; just look at the spot morning and evening.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Freedom Balloons Open Doors Of Communist Embassy; New Czech Ambassador Welcomes American Press; Propaganda Leaflets Worry Soviet Leaders

WASHINGTON—The Communist Czechoslovak embassy in Washington is located in a most fashionable and uncommunist part of town. Almost next door are the friendly Chilean embassy, the Egyptian embassy, the now troubled Pakistan embassy, the pro-American Philippines and the stanchly anti-Communist Turkish embassy.

Across the street are the Koreans, the Danes and Norwegians, the latter firm allies in the North Atlantic Pact, while just around the corner are the sedate homes of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the late President, and of Herbert Hoover. Down the street about a block are the embassies of Greece and tiny Luxembourg — now made famous by "Call Me Madam" Perle Mesta—both lined up solidly with the United States.

In fact, the Communist embassy of Czechoslovakia seems just a bit out of place in these surroundings. Out of its windows, however, and across Sheridan Circle, its diplomats can see one fellow Communist embassy, that of Rumania, a rather attractive building which once housed Queen Marie on her famous visit to the U. S. during those more glamorous days when the crowns of kings and queens rested more firmly in the Balkans.

Staring blankly at the Rumanian embassy in eternal disapproval is the statue of General Phil Sheridan, famous for his cavalry A-bomb raids up and down the Shenandoah Valley, but who now stands, still a-horse, in the middle of Sheridan Circle while children play around his horse's hoofs.

Inside The Embassy

In these surroundings, the Communist Czech embassy ought to appear lonely. Externally, however, it doesn't. It looks as well kept as any other of the dignified gray stone buildings along embassy row. Inside, however, it's different.

I have been inside the Czech embassy only once in the years since it was taken over by the Communists, and that was on a visit in behalf of the American Legion to see whether the children of Czechoslovakia might be permitted to participate in the Legion's Tide of Toys.

The downstairs of the embassy is about the same as that of any other embassy — huge marble stairway, rather impressive, leading to living quarters above. The room in which the ambassador received me, however, had seen better days. The brocade on the walls, reminiscent of the golden era when Americans didn't have to woryr about income taxes, was bleached and worn; while the general atmosphere was one of stale tobacco and disuse.

Ambassador Vladimir Outrata, who then represented Czechoslovakia, was extremely cagey about permitting the children of his country to receive Christmas toys from the American Legion. He wanted to know how many toys there would be, and seemed horrified that there might be as many as one freight-car load. It was obvious that he didn't want anything to dispel the Communist myth that the American people—even including our children—are the mortal enemies of the Czech children.

In the end, the ambassador said he would have to consult his government, and after two weeks the answer arrived—as I expected, in the negative. In brief, Communist Czechoslovakia did not want any tokens of people-to-people friendship from the American Legion or from American children.

I am quite sure that few other American newsmen have been inside the Communist Czech embassy during the years it has stood isolated and aloof on ritzy Massachusetts Avenue—until last week when all the press was suddenly invited in.

Historic Press Conference

Somber, unhappy Ambassador Outrata, whom I interviewed, has now been replaced by Ambassador Vladimir Prochazka. He is the man who in an historic hour and a half-long interview tried to tell the Communist side of the Oatis case, submitted to questions, and threw out hints that his government might be ready to call it quits regarding Oatis if the U. S. relaxed its economic and propaganda pressure.

The details of that interview have been well portrayed in the press. But some of the detailed facts behind that interview have not been portrayed.

They began last August when a long caravan of trucks camped out in a Bavarian wheat field late one night and began the eerie and rather fantastic job of releasing balloons carrying friendship messages to the Czechoslovak people.

A lot of people in this country at first pooh-poohed the idea. Unquestionably it was an experiment. But systematically for two weeks a total of 11,000,000 messages were dropped over Czechoslovakia, the equivalent of one message for every third man, woman and child in the country.

Simultaneously, Radio Free Europe, run by the National Committee for a Free Europe, began augmenting this balloon barrage. The effect has been electrifying.

The story of these balloons has swept Czechoslovakia. Everyone now knows about them, and those who haven't seen the messages have heard about them. People are now watching for balloons pretty much as Americans once watched for flying saucers. The messages have been mimeographed, tacked up on telegraph poles and mailed anonymously to Communist officials.

Czech airplanes have tried to shoot down the balloons, but only succeeded in scattering the leaflets more. The Czech prime minister has made a speech on the floor of the parliament blasting the balloons as carrying "beetles" and "press manure." The Moscow radio has claimed: "The winds of freedom stink." Unquestionably the balloon barrage has got under the Commie skins.

Finally, last week, the Czech railroad engineer and train dispatcher, who ran the freedom train across the border into Germany, went up to the border and released a new balloon barrage carrying a leaflet

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—This is a tale about a Washington senator—a Republican. He made speeches inside and outside the Senate which angered his own state and the people of the nation.

The unpopularity of this senator was such that newspapers from one end of the country to the other denounced him not only for "his tactless way of bludgeoning his adversaries" and his "vocabulary of anathema" but for "treasonable and seditious utterances."

The Republican State Central Committee of Wisconsin by unanimous vote demanded his expulsion from the United States Senate for "treasonable and seditious utterances." The League of Wisconsin Municipalities took the same action. The State Council of Defense and 71 councils called on him to resign and demanded that the U. S. Senate expel him if he didn't resign.

Rotary groups, bar associations, public safety committees in his own state and elsewhere denounced him. The Republican State Convention of Massachusetts adopted a resolution censuring him for "marked disloyalty." Former President Theodore Roosevelt called him the "most sinister enemy of democracy in the United States" and called for his expulsion from the Senate.

Committee Investigates

The same Wisconsin senator then made a bitter speech in St. Paul, Minn. There was some doubt afterward as to exactly what the senator said. The furor caused the United States Senate to appoint a special committee to investigate the demand for expulsion. The chairman of the committee a, Democratic senator—construed the committee's powers as limited to ascertaining first, the truth or falsity of what the senator said, and second, the truth or falsity of his statement of facts. The issue was debated at length in the Senate. Senator Kellogg of Minnesota, Republican, a great lawyer of his day, who later became a Secretary of State, refused to admit that the issue of free speach was at stake. He said: "This is a question of erroneous statement of facts rather than of free speech."

The Wisconsin senator had denounced the motives of the United States Government. He questioned the sincerity of its acts at a time when its troops were fighting on the battlefield. Only from a few places did endorsement of his stand come. The California Federation of Labor, for instance, expressed confidence in him as a "true American citizen" and upheld his right to voice the views of "an intelligent man."

Finally the Wisconsin Legislature by a vote of 26 to 3 in its Senate and 53 to 32 in its House, after a stormy continuous session of 17 hours, passed a resolution condemning him for failing to see the righteousness of the nation's cause and rebuked him for his utterances as tending to "incite sedition."

Ten times the special committee of the United States Senate met and 10 times it adjourned without doing anything.

All this took place in 1917 and 1918 during a time when the United States was at war, and when several persons outside of public life had been arrested under the espionage laws for inciting sedition. But congressional immunity or congressional restraint or forbearance ruled the day. Nothing was done. The issue was left to the people of Wisconsin.

Supported Unpopular Causes

Then, after the war, the same Wisconsin senator was re-elected by the people of Wisconsin and remained in the Senate for many years afterward, often fighting in behalf of unpopular causes. So great was his hold on the people of his state that his son—a very able man in his own right—was elected to the Senate as his successor without being in the slightest damaged politically by the controversy in which his father had been engaged. Indeer, the father ran for the Presidency of the United States as an independent in 1924 and polled close to 5,000,000 votes. No third-party candidate since then has obtained as many.

The name of the senator from Wisconsin for whose expulsion there was such widespread demand was Robert M. La Follette.

And what did history say 34 years later? A President of the United States—a Democrat—in speaking to a nation-wide radio audience on July 28, 1951, denounced by implication a present-day U. S. senator from Wisconsin and spoke of Wisconsin as "the home state of two of America's greatest liberal and progressive senators, Robert M. La Follette and Robert Junior."

The tribute of "greatness" was given to a man widely denounced. It will be argued, of course, that the cases of Senators McCarthy and La Follette are not parallel because the one smeared individuals and the other smeared his own government or because one allegedly engaged in improper campaigning and the other did not. It makes one wonder how many people in America, inside and outside public life, who profess to be "liberals," sincerely subscribe to the doctrine laid down by the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the Supreme Court of the United States, who once defined freedom of speech as "freedom for the thought we hate."

Matter Of Fact

By STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON

Before very long, the final settlement of the embittered controversy about the size of the Air Force ought to be publicly announced. After the most prolonged and laborious discussion, which at one point kept the Joint Chiefs of Staff in almost continuous session for 10 days on end, the heads of the services have reached agreement among themselves. The agreed plan only awaits the approval of President Truman to become official.

If the President approves, which seems almost certain, the plan will provide for expansion of the Air Force from 95 to about 140 groups—the exact figure is still secret, but this is the general scale. The increase in over-all airpower will allow a much larger investment in tactical air power, thus remedying our gravest weakness in the air. On the basis of current scheduling, this great increment of American strength will be completed by 1954.

In money terms, the agreement reached by the Joint Chiefs will mean that about $3,750,000,000 of the $5,000,000,000 supplemental defense appropriation recently voted by Congress, will be allocated to Air Force expansion, while much of the rest will go to added Naval air strength. This will get the program started.

Approval Obvious

In the two following fiscal years, the huge capital outlays involved in the expansion of the Air Force will add about $10,000,000,000 annually to the defense budget. And when the period of capital spending is at an end, the Air Force expansion will result in a regular annual bill for maintaining the armed forces of a little under $40,000,000,000, instead of about $35,000,000,000 as previously projected.

It has long been very obvious that Air Force expansion would eventually be approved, in one form or another. The reason is that the Air Force has not one, but two main jobs — its own specialized job of building strategic air power, and its cooperative job of providing tactical air support to the ground forces. In the past, because of budgetary and other pressures, the problem of tactical air has been neglected.

When the present struggle started, the air staff prepared a plan for a 163 group air force, which was sponsored by Secretary of Air Thomas K. Finletter and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg. This first air force plan involved an increase in strategic air power even greater than the projected increase for tactical air power. It is understood that most of the saving in the less ambitious agreed plan of the Joint Chiefs has been achieved by holding down the strategic air increases.

On the whole, the most striking aspect of this crucial decision that the Joint Chiefs have taken is the manner of taking it. What has happened represents a long step forward on the hard road toward genuine unification of the services.

Proof Of Progress

The Joint Chiefs of Staff themselves plunged into the debate with far less venom and obstinacy than in the past; and the mere fact that they have been able to agree upon such a furiously controversial subject as air force expansion is proof of enormous progress. Now for the first time, the rule is recognized that the American people are only to pay for the armed forces they really need for their security.

This is a great change from the old rule of the Joint Chiefs, that increases in appropriations for any single service automatically led to increases in the appropriations of the competing services, whether these were needed or not.

In the main, however, the agreement that has now been reached signifies a triumph for the civilian element of the defense establishment, and especially for Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett. The new climate in which agreement of the Joint Chiefs became possible was largely created by the hard work of Lovett, and by the constant efforts of the two coordinating committees, composed respectively of the service secretaries and under secretaries.

Moreover, the outlook for compromise was very far from hopeful even at the end of the period, some weeks ago, when the Joint Chiefs hardly left their conference table for ten days on end. At that time, their prospective disagreement was reported to Secretary Lovett. He had already established another new priciple, that he would no longer accept a simple "split paper," such as the Joint Chiefs regularly produced in the past; but would insist that a report of disagreement be accompanied by a formal request from the Joint Chiefs for a final settlement of their differences by the civilian authority.

When Lovett quietly indicated that his new principle would be insisted upon, the Joint Chiefs went back to work and hammered out their compromise. In every way this is a great and reassuring event.

A Programless Party

Wherever one goes these days among Republican businessmen, the conversation soon veers around to "Who will be the candidates?" "Will it be Eisenhower or Taft?" "Will Truman run again?" "Can we ever get rid of that gang in Washington?"

And as usual with businessmen, they seek a candidate with skill in salesmanship. Can he sell himself to labor, to the farmer, to young people under 30?

Four times, the Republican party devoted itself to salesmanship. They nominated the genial Alf Landon, really a delightful person with a fine mind, because it was believed that he could be sold as a resurrected Abe Lincoln. They picked up Wendell Willkie and fell flat with him. Twice the banner was entrusted to Tom Dewey, but his salesmanship was inadequate.

Many of these Republican businessmen are now turning to General Eisenhower because they assume that his name is a wonderful trademark. They do not pretend to be sure that he is a Republican; they do not know what his program for international relations or the domestic economy may be. They put it on the line that no one can defeat Ike Eisenhower.

I have heard that twice before. No one was supposed to be able to defeat Wendell Willkie. In those days, I was very close to the National Association of Manufacturers and you can hardly imagine the optimism that exuded from every industrialist's pore. But Roosevelt defeated Willkie and if the truth must be told, the fact that large numbers of Republicans did not vote that year played a part in the defeat. The same kind of optimism was evident when Dewey ran against Truman. In fact, the news that Dewey was defeated sounded unbelievable.

The answer may be that the Republicans have had no program since 1932. "Me-tooism" produces nothing substantial. If there is no objection to the guiding principles of the Truman administration, why not vote for Truman? Eisenhower may be more attractive personally than Truman, but if there is no basic difference in principles or methods, what makes Eisenhower or Taft or Dewey or anybody superior to Truman? Some blurt the word, character.

Maybe that is what the businessmen believe that they can sell, but it seems to me that without a program, it will be very difficult to establish that one man's character is so very different from another's. Character is such an imponderable that one man's likes may be another's hatred and for no rational or understandable reason.

James F. Byrnes, governor of South Carolina, in 1949 stated the program of the opposition to Truman in a speech in Biloxi, Mississippi. He said:

". . . Our first line of defense is not the Elbe or the Rhine; it is a sound, solvent American economy. And that economy is now threatened.

"The people who settled this country did not come here to establish a government. They were seeking liberty, not security. They were seeking an opportunity to enjoy freedom, the freedom of being let alone."

He said further:

"We must emphasize the freedom of the individual who by his initiative has made America prosperous. And we cannot very well boast of freedom under the American system if we are going to change that system and force the people to surrender more liberties to a centralized government."

In a word, what Byrnes proposed—and what the Democratic Senators Byrd and George have so often emphasized—is the necessity of subordinating our international relations to our domestic necessities. Such a program, if fearlessly defined and honestly stated, could open a challenging debate on obligations, responsibilities and commitments abroad and to our own people. It would be as great a campaign as 1896. There would be no "me-tooism," no improvisations, no saying one thing in one state and just the opposite in some other state. It would not involve the technical question as to who is more photogenic on television.

It would surely not be concerned with the advantages of silence on crucial issues on the assumption that a closed mouth but a flexible mind loses no votes.

Thus far, the politicians among the Republicans are becoming too dependent upon the disclosure of Democratic corruption, while the businessmen overemphasize the salesmanship of a candidate. Neither, it seems to me, will suffice to win unless the Republicans develop a constructive program as Governor Byrnes defined, or even a stronger one. A constructive program will have to offer an alternative to the fair deal imitation of Fabian socialism.

Trial Opens In Suit Against Keyser Doctor

The $30,000 damage suit of Mrs. Stella Hanlin, of Lonaconing, against Dr. Thomas E. Bess, of Keyser, W. Va., opened yesterday in federal court at Martinsburg, W. Va., before a jury with Judge William E. Baker presiding.

In his opening statement to the jury yesterday, Edward J. Ryan, this city, counsel for Mrs. Hanlin, stated that his client was riding in a car operated by her husband, Pete Hanlin, on May 15, 1950, when a car owned by Dr. Bess and driven by William O'Conner, now in the Army, failed to make a curve and crashed into the Hanlin machine.

Ryan said Mrs. Hanlin suffered permanent and painful injuries to her back. O'Conner was not in court yesterday, as a process was not served on him.

Ryan said that in the car with O'Conner was Miss Mary Bess, daughter of Dr. Bess. The attorney also claimed that Pete Hanlin had driven off the road so that only the left wheels were touching the highway.

Mrs. Hanlin testified that she has to wear a brace on her back and will be required to do so the rest of her life. She also said she is unable to do her work as a housewife and also is unable to work at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company where she was employed.

Assisting Ryan in the case is Clarence E. Martin, of Martinsburg.

D. H. Rodgers, Jr., of Martinsburg, is counsel for Dr. Bess.

To complete their field work, researchers marked off on their work maps a 50-mile stretch of river between Luke, Md., and Paw Paw, W. Va., two points where pollution is relatively slight.

At 14 strategic spots they dotted the maps with sampling stations.

Each day the field workers drove and hiked to the check points to collect samples. The samples were brought to Cumberland for testing in a laboratory trailer loaned by the Public Health Service.

There they studied their samples for acidity and alkalinity, solid content, proportion between mineral and organic content, oxygen content, and a complicated but important factor known as biochemical oxygen demand.

This oxygen demand factor shows the scientists how much oxygen is consumed by microscopic plants and animals living in waste materials dumped into the river.

These tiny organisms often take so much oxygen from the water that none is left for fish. At many points, game fish are unable to survive in the river.

Working with Fuhrman on the project are Roland Austin and George Garrett, Public Health Service chemists; Louis Otts, sanitary engineering professor at the University of Maryland; Earl Rice of the Washington sewage treatment plant, and J. Henry Schlipp, sanitary engineer of the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission.

Fuhrman, who is conducting the survey as field work toward his doctorate from Johns Hopkins University, believes his report will bring the constant battle against pollution a step nearer success.

He expects to file a preliminary report with the Commission by the end of 1951.

William A. Miller, Jr., student of Allegany High School assisted the chemists.

Official Explains New Wage Laws

A government spokesman today warned small employers that many are in danger of violating the law because they do not think wage stabilization applies to their employes.

William Hargadine, Jr., regional director of the Department of Labor's wage and hour and public contracts divisions, said information is being received indicating an increasing number of small employers may be exposing themselves to penalties because of their ignorance of the law.

"This is especially true of small employers in outlying areas," Hargadine said, "but failure to comply with the Defense Production Act could result in a $10,000 fine, a sentence of one year, or both, as well as the disallowance of the unauthorized pay roll for tax and other governmental purposes.

Hargadine suggested that employers contact local Wage-Hour offices for more complete information on the wage stabilization program. In Maryland, it is located at 408 Old Town Bank Building, Baltimore.

WHO DECIDES HOW MUCH A STOCK WILL COST ME?

You may say, "Everybody knows the answer to that question." Unfortunately, everybody doesn't! A good many people have some very wrong ideas about stock prices. And that kind of misinformation doesn't do anyone any good. So, let's look at the facts.

When you buy or sell stock on the New York Stock Exchange, the price is decided by you and all other investors bidding for, or offering to sell, that stock. The most a buyer will pay and the least an owner will take set the price. The price is not decided or "set" by Wall Street or by the Stock Exchange. It is not decided by "big" bankers, "big" brokers or "big" anybody else.

Remember, each company listed on the New York Stock Exchange has just so many shares outstanding. And the orders of people all over the country to buy or sell those shares come to the trading floor of the Exchange. There, prices are arrived at in open competition between brokers representing buyers and sellers . . . and are published promptly for all to see.

In this process, prices reflect the basic law of supply and demand. That is why stock prices change. When public demand for a stock is greater than the amount of stock offered for sale by other investors, then the price is very apt to go up. When the amount of stock offered for sale is greater than demand, then the price will probably go down.

An investor's decision to buy or sell a particular stock reflects his judgment of what it is worth to him. Member firms of the New York Stock Exchange are glad to answer any of your questions about investments . . . without obligation to you.

Official Explains New Wage Laws

A government spokesman today warned small employers that many are in danger of violating the law because they do not think wage stabilization applies to their employes.

William Hargadine, Jr., regional director of the Department of Labor's wage and hour and public contracts divisions, said information is being received indicating an increasing number of small employers may be exposing themselves to penalties because of their ignorance of the law.

"This is especially true of small employers in outlying areas," Hargadine said, "but failure to comply with the Defense Production Act could result in a $10,000 fine, a sentence of one year, or both, as well as the disallowance of the unauthorized pay roll for tax and other governmental purposes.

Hargadine suggested that employers contact local Wage-Hour offices for more complete information on the wage stabilization program. In Maryland, it is located at 408 Old Town Bank Building, Baltimore.

WHO DECIDES HOW MUCH A STOCK WILL COST ME?

You may say, "Everybody knows the answer to that question." Unfortunately, everybody doesn't! A good many people have some very wrong ideas about stock prices. And that kind of misinformation doesn't do anyone any good. So, let's look at the facts.

When you buy or sell stock on the New York Stock Exchange, the price is decided by you and all other investors bidding for, or offering to sell, that stock. The most a buyer will pay and the least an owner will take set the price. The price is not decided or "set" by Wall Street or by the Stock Exchange. It is not decided by "big" bankers, "big" brokers or "big" anybody else.

Remember, each company listed on the New York Stock Exchange has just so many shares outstanding. And the orders of people all over the country to buy or sell those shares come to the trading floor of the Exchange. There, prices are arrived at in open competition between brokers representing buyers and sellers... and are published promptly for all to see.

In this process, prices reflect the basic law of supply and demand. That is why stock prices change. When public demand for a stock is greater than the amount of stock offered for sale by other investors, then the price is very apt to go up. When the amount of stock offered for sale is greater than demand, then the price will probably go down.

An investor's decision to buy or sell a particular stock reflects his judgment of what it is worth to him. Member firms of the New York Stock Exchange are glad to answer any of your questions about investments ...without obligation to you.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1. (INS)—Dore Schary, who was home sick for several days, had time to ready stories. Among them was one by Peter Vieriel called "Strategy of Love."

Fred Astaire

Dore, who bought it ten minutes after he read it, asked Betty Cowden and Adolph Green to adopt it, and then immediately told the casting department to get Fred Astaire. So, as soon as the story is written it will be put on the screen, with the one and only Astaire as the star.

Fred plays a television writer who falls in love with a TV star. He dances—she sings. Who she is hasn't yet been decided.

I was talking to Frank McCarthy at 20th, and he told me he would give anything in the world to get Maggie McNamara for his star in "The Facts of Life," a picture he is producing.

"20th has signed Maggie," he said, "but she is tied up in the Chicago company of 'The Moon Is Blue,' and Otto Preminger has a run of the play contract with her, so I don't think I have a chance because I have to start my picture too soon. But, believe me, that girl is a find. I saw her tests."

Frank says "The Facts Of Life," by Lenore Coffee, is about a 20 year old daughter and a 38-year-old mother, who look like a sister team.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Should a girl "wait for Mr. Right"?

Answer: A girl obviously ought not to marry a man she does not love and respect, but "waiting for Mr. Right" is an unconscious excuse in the great majority of cases. Through no fault of their own, many girls grow up with a deep-rooted fear of men (or of sex, which is much the same thing) yet do not want to admit this is why they cannot fall in love and marry. They prefer to say that they "Just haven't found the right man"—which no one can disprove. The mistaken notion that there is only one "right" man for each woman makes this alibi seem all the more convincing. A girl who is unafraid of marriage rarely fails to find a husband.

Does power make leaders irresponsible?

Answer: It tends to have that effect, writes Dr. Gregory Zilboorg in the Bulletin of the World Federation for Mental Health. One of the chief problems of our time grows out of the fact that although "only so-called psychologically normal leaders (are) capable of bringing about a desirable social order," the more power a leader acquires or is given, the more sheltered he is from the impacts of reality (for one thing, subordinates incline to tell him only what they believe it will please him to hear.) We must try to find a more effective way of giving men authority without relieving them from a sense of responsibility.

Do athletics make a "he-man"?

Answer: Not always, if you accept the idea that a man's role in life properly includes being a good husband and father. For athletic prowess is essentially a Narcissistic or self-centered interest, which may weaken (or be substituted for) the need for feminine love and companionship. The proverbial "man's man" often has left one side of himself undeveloped — possibly because of an unconscious fear of women based on the belief that 'if he let a woman mean too much to him, he would "lose his freedom." The real test of masculinity is the ability to play a man's role in marriage and to set up and maintain a home.

The do's and don't's of accessorizing can add up to a powerful lot of costume interest! Here they are.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Like the fosting on a cake, accessories are either fresh, smooth and inviting, or better left off! And just as there are rules for the making of enchanting ices and frostings, so are there for accessorizing:

a. Never use more than three accessories in the same color unless you are working out a monotone costume in neutral colors . A red hat, bag, shoes, gloves. earrings, posy and scarf with a dark outfit is sure to end up looking like a fire sale.

Three Colors Only

b. Equally to be avoided is the opposite extreme. You'll attain only a patchwork quilt effect if you use more than three shades in your accessories for any one costume. Even with three, one should be of the same color as your costume. Example: For a bronzy green suit, a combination that would be both striking and correct is lively-brown shoes, bag and gloves, a golden-toned posy, gold jewelry, and a hat that matches the suit.

c. To prevent clashes, accessories should contain the same underlying tone as the clothes with which they are worn. Example: With a blue-red coat a shell-pink scarf is fine, but a coral-pink scarf has yellow rather than a blue undertone and will result in disharmony.

d. While accessories need not be gaudy or out-sized, they should never be dinky. Choose those that are in proportion to your size, as forthright and as handsome as your budget allows.

Accessory Suggestions

e. Never select an accessory that does not point up your clothes and the hour at which they are worn. Example: To set off the shaggy fabrics in daylight hours, consider a tapered-toe calf pump or tie shoe (no relation to the oxford), mellow hose, a calf "accordion" or envelope bag, a longer-length glace kid glove, a flash of wildly-striped satin for your throat and a streak of gold or silver for your jewelry.

Artistic skill is evidenced when there is a contrast such as a shiny satin pillbox with a dull poodle cloth coat; a luxurious bit like a fur muff with a tweed suit; a single spot of color like a turquoise glove with all black; a jeweled note such as an important piece of real or fake turquoise, topaz, pearl, or colored stone; an unexpected flare, like a gray or beige pump and pale stockings with a dark costume; or a giddy fillip as in a black pump with a red heel.

Accessories are to add interest. Make sure that yours do!

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1. (INS)—Dore Schary, who was home sick for several days, had time to ready stories. Among them was one by Peter Vierlel called "Strategy of Love."

New York Giants Will Seek Pennant In Playoff Today

Hearn Bests Branca 3-1 In Opener

Pafko, Thomson, Irvin Hit Homers In Tense Battle

BROOKLYN, Oct. 1 (AP) — Jim Hearn pitched the New York Giants to a 3-1 opening victory over Brooklyn today in their best-of-three playoff for the National League pennant on home runs by Bobby Thomson and Monte Irvin. A crowd of 30,707, saw Andy Pafko give the Dodgers their only run with a second-inning homer.

Thomson's homer with Irvin on base in the fourth gave Hearn a lead he never yielded. Irvin's eight-inning blast, his fifth off Ralph Blanca, gave the big right-hander a little insurance.

Jim Hearn

Hearn allowed five hits, all singles except Pafko's homer. From the fifth on he pitched hitless ball in the last 4⅓ innings.

Get Only Five Hits

The Giants got only five hits off Branca in his eight inning workout but Big Ralphie walked five and hit one. He nipped Irvin on the left elbow in the fourth, shortly before Thomson drove deep into the lower leftfield seats.

Clarence Podbielan gave up the sixth and final hit—a double by Al Dark—in the ninth.

The Dodgers had a mild threat going in the last of the ninth when Peewee Reese walked with one out. It seemed Jackie Robinson, yesterday's winning hero, would get another chance to bat, but Duke Snider hit into a game-ending double play.

The series continues tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. (EST) at the Polo Grounds where a third, if necessary, will be played Wednesday. The winner goes into the world series with the New York Yankees, starting Thursday at Yankee Stadium.

Double Play Ends Game

The Dodgers nibbled vainly at Hearn and had him reeling in the fourth, after singles by Duke Snider and a fine hit and run blow by Jackie Robinson, and in the eighth and ninth, when he walked Gil Hodges and Peewee Reese respectively.

But each threat was sternly erased by double plays, the oddest being the final one of four the Giants engineered during the day. With one gone, Reese on first and Snider representing the "tying run" at the plate, the Duke belted a fierce grounder which first-baseman Whitey Lockman pulled down.

Whitey stamped on first base, then wheeled and snared Reese in in a run-down which was climaxed when little Eddie Stanky made a hard dive for Reese's flying spikes and nailed him for the final out of the game.

The Giants threatened from the fifth inning on to turn the game into a rout. But the last-ditch pitching of Branca and Bud Podbielan stranded eight.

Maglie May Pitch

Branca had the Giants popping up and hitting to the outfield most of the time. The Dodgers came up with only two assists, both on sacrifice bunts. The records for least assists in one game is none and is shared by Cleveland and St. Louis of the American League.

With the big victory in sight tonight, Durocher was torn between throwing his finest pitcher, Sal Maglie, at the Flock tomorrow with only two days' rest or taking a chance on Sheldon Jones, a sometimes brilliant but often erratic righthander. Maglie, winner of 23 games in the regular season, said today his arm was a little tired, but expressed willingness to give it a go if Leo wished him to.

Campanella pulled a muscle while stretching a hit in yesterday's titanic 14-inning win over the Phils, and his inability to break out of a slow trot hurt the Dodgers' chances of getting back into the ball game in the fourth inning today.

With one away, Duke Snider scratched a single through Eddie Stanky at second, the ball taking a

Blonde Has Bout With 200-Lb. Deer

DENVER, Oct. 1 (AP)—A six-foot blonde who works at the Colorado Capitol told today how she went fishing and ran into a hand-to-antler combat with a 200-pound buck deer.

Maxine Bloomquist, said she came out of it with bruises on the thigh and arm. But the deer lost the tip of one antler.

Maxine went fishing last weekend South of Estes Park, Colo. The deer approached as Maxine stood on a stream bank. It lowered its head but retreated when the fisherwoman cried, "shoo."

"I turned my back and just then —whammo! He attacked from the rear. I've got a great big bruise on my thigh where he hit me.

"It knocked me down. He was standing over me so I reached up and grabbed him by the antlers. I broke the tip off one. When I got to my feet, I twisted his ear and he jerked away and ran off a little distance."

This gave Maxine a chance to dash to her automobile. The bewildered deer just wandered off.

Dodger Infield Rated The Best For Series Play

Edges Both Yanks And Giants Defense

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodger infield of Gil Hodges, Jackie Robinson, Pee Wee Reese and Billy Cox, is stronger than the inner-cordon of the New York Yankees and slightly better than that of the New York Giants.

Brooklyn's quartet has driven in 320 runs and socked 76 homers compared to 2,398 runs batted in and 44 home runs by the Yanks' two platoon unit and 275 runs driven in and 70 homers by the Giants' starting infield.

Hodges, the long-ball clouting and brilliant fielding first baseman, has a decided edge at first base over the Giants' Whitey Lockman and the Yanks' trio of ancient Johnny Mize, Johnny Hopp and Joe Collins.

The 27-year-old Hodges wound up the regular season Sunday with 102 runs batted in and 39 homers. Mize, Collins and Hopp, matched Hodges' RBI today but accounted for only 23 home runs.

Lockman, a converted outfielder playing his first season at the bag, knocked home 71 tallies and clouted 12 home runs. Hodges is the superior fielder.

The Dodger second base pair of Robinson and Reese enjoys a wide advantage in the runs batted in column over the Giant combine of Ed Stanky and Al Dark and the Yanks' Phil Rizzuto and Gerry Coleman.

Robinson and Reese have driven home 168 runs and whacked 28 homers. Stanky and Dark have batted in 110 markers and also belted 28 four-baggers. Rizzuto and Coleman have driven in only 86 runs and hit five homers.

Both Rizzuto and Coleman have not performed as well at bat and afield as they did last season. Coleman, because of weak hitting and poor fielding, was benched at times for Rookie Gil McDougald who manned third base most of the season.

The Giants, in Bobby Thomson, have an edge offensively at third. Thomson, transferred from the outfield to the hot corner, drove in 94 runs and clouted 30 homers.

Brooklyn's Billy Cox, hailed in some quarters as the best fielding third baseman since Pittsburgh's Hall of Famer Pie Trayner, also enjoyed a good year at the plate. Cox batted in 50 runs and slugged nine homers, his best output since 1947.

McDougald, the Yanks' leading hitter with a .306 batting mark, has alternated at third with the left-handed hitting Bobby Brown, who rises to the heights in world series competition. McDougald and Brown combined to drive in 114 runs and hit 20 homers.

Rocky Bridges and Wayne Terwilliger are the Dodgers' utility infielders while the Giants have Dave Williams, Hank Thompson, Bill Rigney, Hank Schenz and Jack Lohrke. Billy Martin is the Yanks' No. 1 utility infielder.

Louis-Marciano Date, Bout Site Changed

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (INS)—The International Boxing Club today shifted the Joe Louis-Rocky Marciano heavyweight fight from Oct. 11 at the Polo Grounds to Oct. 26 at Madison Square Garden.

IBC President James Norris said the change was made to avoid the possibility of a conflict with the world series. Top price for tickets will continue at $25, and Norris said Polo Grounds tickets already purchased may be exchanged for Garden seats.

NO HAPPY FACES HERE—The gloom was thick and it was a long and weary road back to the dressing room for the Brooklyn Dodgers as they trooped along the underpass after dropping the first encounter in their best-of-three series with the New York Giants for the National League flag. The score was 3-1. Heads are bowed as (left to right) Andy Pafko, Gil Hodges, Duke Snider, Carl Furillo, Preacher Roe and Roy Campanella trudge back to the showers. The second game will be played today in the Polo Grounds.

Sports Notes

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

Quite a dispute on that third base call by Umpire Augie Diaz in Hyndman-Westvaco playoff series . . . Proved once again umpires' decisions are generally final . . . Alumni teams usually are door mats for varsity aggregations . . . Not so at Allegany where the grads take a distinct liking to beating their successors . . . Hope LaSalle's masterminding on offense improves as the team finishes out its tough gridiron schedule . . .

Dick Widdows

Experts took a licking on their first week's selections in the college football wars . . . Shaughnessy playoffs in baseball once again proved the downfall of pennant-winning teams . . . Witness the loss of Keyser and Moose nines in the Bi-State and Interstate Leagues . . . Central's Tigers will be defending champs for the second straight year in the WMI Soccer League which opens Oct. 5 . . .

Well, the Red Sox did it again . . . Blew six straight games to bow out of the running in the American League race and gave the Yankees their 18th pennant . . . And the Cleveland Indians, who last year defeated Detroit five out of six in the last week of the season to end the Tigers' hopes of winning the flag, received the same dose in reverse this year when the Bengals knocked them off three in a row last week . . .

Albert Decker, Ridgeley High fullback, almost got thrown out of Friday night's game with Allegany for trying to separate two players who started swinging fists during the unusually rough fracas . . . Hagerstown, which was supposed to have one of Mel Henry's strongest elevens, finally won its first game in three starts when the Maroon and Grey downed Westminster, 37-7, Friday night . . . Westminster, incidentally, plays Fort Hill later this season . . . The New York Giants' feat of tying the Brooklyn Dodgers in the final week of the hectic National League race after trailing 13½ games late in August probably will go down in the record books as one of the game's most stirring comebacks . .

Dick Widdows, Allegany's kicking fullback, thrice put the ball into the end zone on kickoffs in the Ridgeley tilt . . . He also tried an extra point kick from placement from the 25-yard line after an AHS penalty which just barely missed, going wide of the goal posts and the last moment.

Phil Carolan, in explaining his protest against the ineligible pass receiver penalty called against LaSalle in Sunday's game with St. Justin's at Pittsburgh, noted the official who called it was unable to name the player guilty of the infraction or give his number . . . It may have been an end Carolan told the official but to no avail . . . Incidentally the whistle ending the game blew on the disputed play and St. Justin's actually scored its winning touchdown after the game was over.

Bob Pence's Allegany eleven will have no pushover when it meets Frank Wimer's Elkins High team Nov. 10 . . . The Elkins squad bested Morgantown last week, 21-7, after the latter had turned back Fairmont East . . . Elkins also holds an impressive 18-13 verdict over Victory High of Clarksburg . . . Glad to see all those Cumberland area athletes making good on the University of Maryland gridiron power.

Fort Hill Returns To Gridiron Wars Friday; Meets Martinsburg

Allegany And LaSalle On Road This Weekend

Fort Hill will return to the gridiron wars Friday when the Sentinels play host to Coach John Corbourne's Martinsburg Bulldogs at the local stadium. Game time will be 8 p. m.

The Sentinels were idle last week after playing at Fairmont the week before and it will mark the first time in three weeks the Scarlet and White has performed before its home town followers.

Cumberland's other two gridiron powers—Allegany and LaSalle—both visit out-of-town foes this weekend with the Campers traveling to Hagerstown to collide with Coach Mel Henry's Maroon and Grey Friday night and LaSalle meeting Altoona Catholic in the Pennsylvania city Sunday afternoon.

Fort Hill has captured 10 of 14 decisions with the Bulldogs, losing one and tying three. Martinsburg's lone victory came in 1938. The Bulldogs have won two of three games this season as have the Sentinels.

Allegany also holds an edge over its traditional rival in Washington County, having won 15, lost 10 and tied 2. Henry's powerhouse has had rough sledding to date, winning only one of three, while the Campers have a 2-1 record.

In other games Friday Keyser is at Ridgeley in a Potomac Valley Conference tilt; Romney visits Moorefield (PVC); West Va. Deaf are at Franklin (PVC); Petersburg at Terra Alta; Thomas at Parsons, and Roaring Spring is at Bedford in a night tilt.

On the college front Friday, Potomac State is at Newport News, Va., to meet Newport Tech. The Catamounts will be seeking their third straight triumph.

Saturday Coach Joe Hoopengardner's Beall High eleven travels to Frederick to meet Frederic High under the tutelage of Homer Brooks. The Cadets won the only meeting between the two schools, 12-7, in 1946.

Dodger Fan Keeps Vigil Outside Gates

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—As Dodger fans swarmed into Ebbets Field today to watch their team play the New York Giants, 62-year-old Sam Maxwell sat calmly outside the bleacher entrance—where he's been since Sept. 24.

He wants to see the world series—not the league play-off.

Sam is still equipped with a chair, blankets and warm clothes, just as he appeared when he showed up last Monday morning. He was confident 'way back then that the Dodgers would cop the National League pennant.

Even with the play-off going on, Sam isn't excited. He's still sure the Dodgers are "in."

He had to turn his radio up loud to drown the roars of the crowd inside the ball park. Asked why he didn't go inside, Maxwell said:

"I'm no Giant fan. I'm only interested in the Dodgers—playing in the world series, that is."

Yanks Work Out; No Fans Present

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—The New York Yankees, champions of the American League for the third straight year, practiced at Yankee Stadium today in preparation for their defense of the world championship—and not a single photographer or reporter was on hand.

The Yanks, who clinched the 1951 pennant last Friday and must wait until Thursday to meet the winner of the Brooklyn Dodger-New York Giant playoff in the National League, will work out again tomorrow and Wednesday.

Two A's Win AL Batting Titles

Fain Hits .344; Zernial 33 Homers

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (AP)—Ferris Fain, Philadelphia's left-handed hitting first sacker, toway was unofficially crowned as the Athletics' first American League batting champion in 18 years with a .344 percentage.

First A's star to win the title since Jimmy Foxx did in 1933, with .356, 29-year-old Fain finished 18 points ahead of Chicago's versatile Minnie Minoso, Cuban Negro rookie-of-the-year candidate, who had .326. Last year's champion, Billy Goodman of Boston with .354, failed to finish in the top ten this year.

Although benched in midseason by a foot injury suffered when he stomped too hard on first base, Fain went to bat 425 times—25 more than the 400 minimum for title consideration—and banged 146 hits.

Fain, a resident of Orinda, Calif., last season batted .282.

Minoso, who circulated between third base and the outfield for the White Sox, collected 173 hits in 350 trips.

Philadelphia's Gus Zernial was the league's power man this season, copping the home-run title with 33 and the runs-batted-in crown with 129.

The American loop's top pitcher, on a percentage basis, was Boston's Ellis Kinder with an 11-2 record for .846. The 1951 strikeout king was New York's Vic Raschi with 164.

Michigan State Top Grid Team In First AP Poll

Maryland Is Ranked 9th; Irish Surprise

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP) — Michigan State College, one of the nation's leading independent football powers, today was ranked as the No. 1 team in the first weekly Associated Press nation-wide poll of the young season.

Coach Biggie Munn's Spartan's from East Lansing, who spanked Michigan, their home state rivals, 25-0 last week, edged out the Golden Bears of California for first place.

The Bears took the runnerup spot by a sparse 28 votes from Tennessee, the team which was accorded the No. 1 spot in a pre-season poll Sept. 10. In last month's balloting, Michigan State was rated the No. 2 outfit.

That was before the teams got into their game suits, however, and trotted onto the gridirons to display their 1951 wares. Michigan State had barely beaten Oregon State the previous Saturday, 6-0, but the Spartans ripped their old Michigan rivals solidly in their second game and drew 37 first place votes out of a total 133 cast.

On the basis of 10 points for first, nine for second, eight for third, and so on, Michigan State stacked up 1,026 points in the poll of sports writers and sportscasters from coast to coast.

California, which came east to rock Pennsylvania, 35-0, and gain a lot of respect from eastern gridiron scribes, had 22 firsts and a total of 962 points. Tennessee, winner over Mississippi State 14-0, polled 27 firsts, and a total of 934 points.

The Oklahoma Sooners, who were voted the No. 1 team in the land a year ago, gained the No. 4 spot on the strength of a convincing 49-7 victory over William & Mary. Oklahoma had 18 first place ballots.

A major surprise, not only to Indiana and a lot of so-called experts, was Notre Dame. The Fighting Irish, who have been voted the nation's top team four times — more than any other team — since the poll was inaugurated in 1936, landed in the No. 5 position.

Notre Dame, beaten last year by Indiana, was supposed to be in the rebuilding process this year, and surprisingly had failed to get a vote in the pre-season poll. But Coach Frank Leahy's lads cracked Indiana, 48-6, with a display of some of the old Notre Dame power, and got quick recognition when it came time to send in the votes.

Others in the first 10 are Texas, which bested Purdue 14-0 after squeezing past Kentucky the previous Saturday, No. 6; Ohio State, which barely got past Southern Methodist, 7-0, No. 7; Illinois, a 27-13 winner over U. C. L. A., No. 8; Maryland, a 54-14 victor over Washington & Lee, No. 9; and Texas A & M, A 20-7 winner over Texas Tech., No. 10.

Three teams which were voted in the first 10 in the pre-season calculations failed to land there in the first official poll.

They were Kentucky, whipped 21-17 by Mississippi; Alabama, which lost Louisiana State, 13-7; and Washington, which had a rough time before beating Minnesota, 25-20. Washington was placed No. 12 behind Georgia Tech, Kentucky was voted No. 17, and Alabama was not in the first 20.

The voting:

1. Michigan State (37)	1,026
2. California (22)	962
3. Tennessee (27)	934
4. Oklahoma (18)	805
5. Notre Dame (9)	720
6. Texas (6)	616
7. Ohio State (1)	430
8. Illinois	294
9. Maryland (4)	237
10. Texas A & M	222
SECOND TEAM
11. Georgia Tech (4)	203
12. Washington (2)	166
13. Georgia (1)	95
14. Princeton	81
15. Oregon State (1)	42
16. Duke	37
17. Kentucky	34
18. Clemson (1)	33
19. Baylor	32
20. Kansas	30

Other teams with points were: Mississippi and Wake Forest 27, Alabama 22, Holy Cross 21, Cornell 20, Northwestern 18, Wisconsin 17, Villanova and Tulane 16, LSU 11, Southern California 10, Arkansas 8, Fordham, Penn State, and Stanford 7, Amherstst 6, Texas Christian, Virginia, Cincinnati and Southern Methodist 5, South Dakota State, Yale and Navy 4, U. of San Francisco 3, Minnesota and Drake 1.

Joe Hager, AHS End, Cops 4th Player Of Week Award

JOE HAGER

"Improved Player" Coach Pence Says

Joe Hager, 158-pound senior end playing his second year on the AHS varsity, became the first Allegany player to capture a K of C "Player of the Week" award this season and the fourth selection of the Knights of Columbus committee since the season began.

Hager was picked for his stellar defensive play in Allegany's 52-0 rout of Ridgeley High Friday in the local stadium.

Although the Camper varsity played less than two full quarters in the rout, Hager was particularly effective in turning in Ridgeley's end runs and his blocking and tackling were instrumental in the Blue and White eleven's excellent showing.

Hager "is one of the most improved ball players on the team" Coach Bob Pence said following the game. The lanky end had played outstanding ball against Beall High in Allegany's opening game and his play has been better with each succeeding game, the mentor noted.

In addition to Hager other Alco stalwarts considered for the coveted selection were Ronnie Sisk, quarterback, George Long, center, Charles Eirich, halfback, and Lance Statler, tackle.

Other area high school athletes who have won the Player of the Week award include Dick Beard, Fort Hill, and Bob Arnone and Ray Brown, LaSalle.

Petersburg To Seek Trophy In Sunday Playoff

Merchants To Meet Security Farm Nine

The Petersburg Merchants will seek the Alleghany Baseball League title Sunday when they meet Medium Security Prison nine for the second game in their best-of-three playoff series.

The Merchants copped the pennant in the regular season and are vying for the title and the Sports Shop trophy in the playoffs with the second play Security team. The Merchants copped the opener last Sunday by a 25-3 score.

In winning the league bunting for the second time in the four years the loop has operated Petersburg posted a 17-3 mark for the season under the leadership of Manager Skin Alkire.

In four years under Alkire's management Petersburg won 68 games while losing 20 during regular season play. In 1948, they ended the regular season in a tie with Parsons with 22-6 marks and lost out in the playoffs.

The Merchants copped their first pennant in 1949 with a 16-4 record and won the title and trophy in the playoffs with Marlinton and Parsons. Last season the Merchants finished second to Franklin with a 13-7 mark.

Ray Hull, Petersburg right fielder, won the loop batting title with .446 and Wally Eaton topped the league's hurlers with a 9-0 record while striking out 74 victims.

Jimmy Harman smacked out 39 hits to pace the league in this department and Henry DeNault had 30 RBI's for the best record in that category. Norris Dolly tied for homerun honors with four.

Giants To Mail World Series Ducats

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (INS)—The New York Giants announced today that world series tickets for the Polo Grounds will be placed in the mail tomorrow, although the Giants still are one game away from winning the National League title.

World series reserved seats not yet allotted due to printing delays will go on sale at the Giants' downtown office tomorrow morning at 9 a. m.

Stan Musial NL Batting Champ

Playoff Contests Count In Averages

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—Although the official averages have not been released, Stan Musial, 30-year-old St. Louis Cardinal's slugger, has won his fifth National League batting crown.

Musial finished the regular season Sunday with a .355 average. The playoff games between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Giants count in the averages, but no one can catch Stan The Man. Jackie Robinson of the Dodgers is closest in third place with a .335 mark after Sunday's game. But he can't pick up 20 points. Ritchie Ashburn of the Philadelphia Phillies is second with .344.

Rounding out the top ten as of Sunday are Roy Campanella, Brooklyn, .327, Monte Irvin, New York, .313, Johnny Wyrostek, Cincinnati, .311, Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh, .309, Al Dark, New York, .306, Carl Furillo, Brooklyn, .301 and Johnny Metkovich, Pittsburgh, .294.

Musial appeared in 152 games and went to bat 578 times. The Card mauler pounded out 205 hits including 30 home runs, 12 triples and 30 doubles. He scored 124 runs and batted in 108.

Kiner finished the season Sunday leading in runs scored and home runs. Kiner nosed out Musial, 125-124 in runs scored and had 42 homers to his credit to 39 for Gil Hodges of Brooklyn. Hodges has a chance to overhaul Kiner during the playoffs.

Other departmental leaders were, runs batted in, Irvin, New York, 120; hits, Ashburn, Philadelphia, 221.

Preacher Roe of the Dodgers was the loop's top pitcher after the regular season closed Sunday with a 22-3 record for a .880 average. Sal Maglie of the Giants was second with a 23-6 .793 mark.

Horse Tying Hearing Ends

No Decision Is Made In The Case

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 1—(AP)—The Ohio State Racing Commission today wound up its hearings into charges that tails of horses were tied to starting gates at Ohio running races.

Trainer Frank Duke of Los Angeles was suspended until Dec. 1 for an attack on an assistant starter at Hamilton race track Labor Day. Duke claimed the starter tied the tail of Duke's horse to the starting gate.

The commission did not rule directly on the tail-tying claim. It also postponed a decision in the case of George T. Becknell of Emory, Tex., who claimed the tail of his odds-on favorite, Detroit Tiger, was tied to the Hamilton starting gate Aug. 22.

Becknell, like Duke, was suspended indefinitely by Hamilton track stewards after making the charge. Both men appealed to the state commission. Duke, however, told the commission he knew he should not have struck the starter but maintained he was carried away by his anger over the alleged tail-tying.

A horse owner, two trainers and two jockeys testified at today's hearing they had seen horses' tails tied to starting gates of Ohio tracks.

League To Meet

A final meeting of the County Softball League will be held at the Corriganville American Legion home tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Corriganville captured the championship in a playoff with LaValle.

GAME ENDING TAG OUT—Eddie Stanky (left), Giants' second baseman, reaches to tag out Peewee Reese, Dodgers' shortstop, after rundown between first and second for the final out of National League's playoff game yesterday in Ebbets Field. Reese, on first was caught in the rundown when Duke Snider grounded out to Whitey Lockman at first base. The doubleplay was the fourth of the game for the victorious Giants who can wrap up the flag in today's game at the Polo Grounds. No. 19 is Giants' shortstop Alvin Dark who took the relay from Lockman in the rundown and then tossed to Stanky for the putout.

New York Giants Will Seek Pennant In Playoff Today

Pafko, Thomson, Irvin Hit Homers In Tense Battle

BROOKLYN, Oct. 1 (AP) — Jim Hearn pitched the New York Giants to a 3-1 opening victory over Brooklyn today in their best-of-three playoff for the National League pennant on home runs by Bobby Thomson and Monte Irvin. A crowd of 30,707, saw Andy Pafko give the Dodgers their only run with a second-inning homer.

Thomson's homer with Irvin on base in the fourth gave Hearn a lead he never yielded. Irvin's eight-inning blast, his fifth off Ralph Blanca gave the big right-hander a little insurance.

Jim Hearn

Hearn allowed five hits, all singles except Pafko's homer. From the fifth on he pitched hitless ball in the last 4⅓ innings.

Get Only Five Hits

The Giants got only five hits off Branca in his eight inning workout but Big Ralphie walked five and hit one. He nipped Irvin on the left elbow in the fourth, shortly before Thomson drove deep into the lower leftfield seats.

Clarence Podbielan gave up the sixth and final hit—a double by Al Dark—in the ninth.

The Dodgers had a mild threat going in the last of the ninth when Peewee Reese walked with one out. It seemed Jackie Robinson, yesterday's winning hero, would get another chance to bat, but Duke Snider hit into a game-ending double play.

The series continues tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. (EST) at the Polo Grounds where a third, if necessary, will be played Wednesday. The winner goes into the world series with the New York Yankees, starting Thursday at Yankee Stadium.

Double Play Ends Game

The Dodgers nibbled vainly at Hearn and had him reeling in the fourth, after singles by Duke Snider and a fine hit and run blow by Jackie Robinson, and in the eighth and ninth, when he walked Gil Hodges and Peewee Reese respectively.

But each threat was sternly erased by double plays, the oddest being the final one of four the Giants engineered during the day. With one gone, Reese on first and Snider representing the "tying run" at the plate, the Duke belted a fierce grounder which first-baseman Whitey Lockman pulled down.

Whitey stamped on first base, then wheeled and snared Reese in in a run-down which was climaxed when little Eddie Stanky made a hard dive for Reese's flying spikes and nailed him for the final out of the game.

The Giants threatened from the fifth inning on to turn the game into a rout. But the last-ditch pitching of Branca and Bud Podbielan stranded eight.

Maglie May Pitch

Branca had the Giants popping up and hitting to the outfield most of the time. The Dodgers came up with only two assists, both on sacrifice bunts. The records for least assists in one game is none and is shared by Cleveland and St. Louis of the American League.

With the big victory in sight tonight, Durocher was torn between throwing his finest pitcher, Sal Maglie, at the Flock tomorrow with only two days' rest or taking a chance on Sheldon Jones, a sometimes brilliant but often erratic righthander. Maglie, winner of 23 games in the regular season, said today his arm was a little tired, but expressed willingness to give it a go if Leo wished him to.

Campanella pulled a muscle while stretching a hit in yesterday's titanic 14-inning win over the Phils, and his inability to break out of a slow trot hurt the Dodgers' chances of getting back into the ball game in the fourth inning today.

With one away, Duke Snider scratched a single through Eddie Stanky at second, the ball taking a

Dodger Infield Rated The Best For Series Play

Edges Both Yanks And Giants Defense

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodger infield of Gil Hodges, Jackie Robinson, Pee Wee Reese and Billy Cox, is stronger than the inner-cordon of the New York Yankees and slightly better than that of the New York Giants.

Brooklyn's quartet has driven in 320 runs and socked 76 homers compared to 2,398 runs batted in and 44 home runs by the Yanks' two platoon unit and 275 runs driven in and 70 homers by the Giants' starting infield.

Hodges, the long-ball clouting and brilliant fielding first baseman, has a decided edge at first base over the Giants' Whitey Lockman and the Yanks' trio of ancient Johnny Mize, Johnny Hopp and Joe Collins.

The 27-year-old Hodges wound up the regular season Sunday with 102 runs batted in and 39 homers. Mize, Collins and Hopp, matched Hodges' RBI today but accounted for only 23 home runs.

Lockman, a converted outfielder playing his first season at the bag, knocked home 71 tallies and clouted 12 home runs. Hodges is the superior fielder.

The Dodger second base pair of Robinson and Reese enjoys a wide advantage in the runs batted in column over the Giant combine of Ed Stanky and Al Dark and the Yanks' Phil Rizzuto and Gerry Coleman.

Robinson and Reese have driven home 168 runs and whacked 28 homers. Stanky and Dark have batted in 110 markers and also belted 28 four-baggers. Rizzuto and Coleman have driven in only 86 runs and hit five homers.

Both Rizzuto and Coleman have not performed as well at bat and afield as they did last season. Coleman, because of weak hitting and poor fielding, was benched at times for Rookie Gil McDougald who manned third base most of the season.

The Giants, in Bobby Thomson, have an edge offensively at third. Thomson, transferred from the outfield to the hot corner, drove in 94 runs and clouted 30 homers.

Brooklyn's Billy Cox, hailed in some quarters as the best fielding third baseman since Pittsburgh's Hall of Famer Pie Trayner, also enjoyed a good year at the plate. Cox batted in 50 runs and slugged nine homers, his best output since 1947.

McDougald, the Yanks' leading hitter with a .306 batting mark, has alternated at third with the left-handed hitting Bobby Brown, who rises to the heights in world series competition. McDougald and Brown combined to drive in 114 runs and hit 20 homers.

Rocky Bridges and Wayne Terwilliger are the Dodgers' utility infielders while the Giants have Dave Williams, Hank Thompson, Bill Rigney, Hank Schenz and Jack Lohrke. Billy Martin is the Yanks' No. 1 utility infielder.

Louis-Marciano Date, Bout Site Changed

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (INS)—The International Boxing Club today shifted the Joe Louis-Rocky Marciano heavyweight fight from Oct. 11 at the Polo Grounds to Oct. 26 at Madison Square Garden.

IBC President James Norris said the change was made to avoid the possibility of a conflict with the world series. Top price for tickets will continue at $25, and Norris said Polo Grounds tickets already purchased may be exchanged for Garden seats.

NO HAPPY FACES HERE—The gloom was thick and it was a long and weary road back to the dressing room for the Brooklyn Dodgers as they trooped along the underpass after dropping the first encounter in their best-of-three series with the New York Giants for the National League flag. The score was 3-1. Heads are bowed as (left to right) Andy Pafko, Gil Hodges, Duke Snider, Carl Furillo, Preacher Roe and Roy Campanella trudge back to the showers. The second game will be played today in the Polo Grounds.

Sports Notes

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

Quite a dispute on that third base call by Umpire Augie Diaz in Hyndman-Westvaco playoff series . . . Proved once again umpires' decisions are generally final . . . Alumni teams usually are door mats for varsity aggregations . . . Not so at Allegany where the grads take a distinct liking to beating their successors . . . Hope LaSalle's masterminding on offense improves as the team finishes out its tough gridiron schedule . . .

Dick Widdows

Experts took a licking on their first week's selections in the college football wars . . . Shaughnessy playoffs in baseball once again proved the downfall of pennant-winning teams . . . Witness the loss of Keyser and Moose nines in the Bi-State and Interstate Leagues . . . Central's Tigers will be defending champs for the second straight year in the WMI Soccer League which opens Oct. 5 . . .

Well, the Red Sox did it again . . . Blew six straight games to bow out of the running in the American League race and gave the Yankees their 18th pennant . . . And the Cleveland Indians, who last year defeated Detroit five out of six in the last week of the season to end the Tigers' hopes of winning the flag, received the same dose in reverse this year when the Bengals knocked them off three in a row last week . . .

Albert Decker, Ridgeley High fullback, almost got thrown out of Friday night's game with Allegany for trying to separate two players who started swinging fists during the unusually rough fracas . . . Hagerstown, which was supposed to have one of Mel Henry's strongest elevens, finally won its first game in three starts when the Maroon and Grey downed Westminster, 37-7, Friday night . . . Westminster, incidentally, plays Fort Hill later this season . . . The New York Giants' feat of tying the Brooklyn Dodgers in the final week of the hectic National League race after trailing 13½ games late in August probably will go down in the record books as one of the game's most stirring comebacks . .

Dick Widdows, Allegany's kicking fullback, thrice put the ball into the end zone on kickoffs in the Ridgeley tilt . . . He also tried an extra point kick from placement from the 25-yard line after an AHS penalty which just barely missed, going wide of the goal posts and the last moment.

Phil Carolan, in explaining his protest against the ineligible pass receiver penalty called against LaSalle in Sunday's game with St. Justin's at Pittsburgh, noted the official who called it was unable to name the player guilty of the infraction or give his number . . . It may have been an end Carolan told the official but to no avail . . . Incidentally the whistle ending the game blew on the disputed play and St. Justin's actually scored its winning touchdown after the game was over.

Bob Pence's Allegany eleven will have no pushover when it meets Frank Wimer's Elkins High team Nov. 10 . . . The Elkins squad bested Morgantown last week, 21-7, after the latter had turned back Fairmont East . . . Elkins also holds an impressive 18-13 verdict over Victory High of Clarksburg . . . Glad to see all those Cumberland area athletes making good on the University of Maryland gridiron power.

Fort Hill Returns To Gridiron Wars Friday; Meets Martinsburg

Allegany And LaSalle On Road This Weekend

Fort Hill will return to the gridiron wars Friday when the Sentinels play host to Coach John Corbourne's Martinsburg Bulldogs at the local stadium. Game time will be 8 p. m.

The Sentinels were idle last week after playing at Fairmont the week before and it will mark the first time in three weeks the Scarlet and White has performed before its home town followers.

Cumberland's other two gridiron powers—Allegany and LaSalle—both visit out-of-town foes this weekend with the Campers traveling to Hagerstown to collide with Coach Mel Henry's Maroon and Grey Friday night and LaSalle meeting Altoona Catholic in the Pennsylvania city Sunday afternoon.

Fort Hill has captured 10 of 14 decisions with the Bulldogs, losing one and tying three. Martinsburg's lone victory came in 1938. The Bulldogs have won two of three games this season as have the Sentinels.

Allegany also holds an edge over its traditional rival in Washington County, having won 15, lost 10 and tied 2. Henry's powerhouse has had rough sledding to date, winning only one of three, while the Campers have a 2-1 record.

In other games Friday Keyser is at Ridgeley in a Potomac Valley Conference tilt; Romney visits Moorefield (PVC); West Va. Deaf are at Franklin (PVC); Petersburg at Terra Alta; Thomas at Parsons, and Roaring Spring is at Bedford in a night tilt.

On the college front Friday, Potomac State is at Newport News, Va., to meet Newport Tech. The Catamounts will be seeking their third straight triumph.

Saturday Coach Joe Hoopengardner's Beall High eleven travels to Frederick to meet Frederic High under the tutelage of Homer Brooks. The Cadets won the only meeting between the two schools, 12-7, in 1946.

Dodger Fan Keeps Vigil Outside Gates

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—As Dodger fans swarmed into Ebbets Field today to watch their team play the New York Giants, 62-year-old Sam Maxwell sat calmly outside the bleacher entrance—where he's been since Sept. 24.

He wants to see the world series—not the league play-off.

Sam is still equipped with a chair, blankets and warm clothes, just as he appeared when he showed up last Monday morning. He was confident 'way back then that the Dodgers would cop the National League pennant.

Even with the play-off going on, Sam isn't excited. He's still sure the Dodgers are "in."

He had to turn his radio up loud to drown the roars of the crowd inside the ball park. Asked why he didn't go inside, Maxwell said:

"I'm no Giant fan. I'm only interested in the Dodgers—playing in the world series, that is."

Yanks Work Out; No Fans Present

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—The New York Yankees, champions of the American League for the third straight year, practiced at Yankee Stadium today in preparation for their defense of the world championship—and not a single photographer or reporter was on hand.

The Yanks, who clinched the 1951 pennant last Friday and must wait until Thursday to meet the winner of the Brooklyn Dodger-New York Giant playoff in the National League, will work out again tomorrow and Wednesday.

Two A's Win AL Batting Titles

Fain Hits .344; Zernial 33 Homers

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (AP)—Ferris Fain, Philadelphia's left-handed hitting first sacker, toway was unofficially crowned as the Athletics' first American League batting champion in 18 years with a .344 percentage.

First A's star to win the title since Jimmy Foxx did in 1933, with .356, 29-year-old Fain finished 18 points ahead of Chicago's versatile Minnie Minoso, Cuban Negro rookie-of-the-year candidate, who had .326. Last year's champion, Billy Goodman of Boston with .354, failed to finish in the top ten this year.

Although benched in midseason by a foot injury suffered when he stomped too hard on first base, Fain went to bat 425 times—25 more than the 400 minimum for title consideration—and banged 146 hits.

Fain, a resident of Orinda, Calif., last season batted .282.

Minoso, who circulated between third base and the outfield for the White Sox, collected 173 hits in 350 trips.

Philadelphia's Gus Zernial was the league's power man this season, copping the home-run title with 33 and the runs-batted-in crown with 129.

The American loop's top pitcher, on a percentage basis, was Boston's Ellis Kinder with an 11-2 record for .846. The 1951 strikeout king was New York's Vic Raschi with 164.

Michigan State Top Grid Team In First AP Poll

Maryland Is Ranked 9th; Irish Surprise

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP) — Michigan State College, one of the nation's leading independent football powers, today was ranked as the No. 1 team in the first weekly Associated Press nation-wide poll of the young season.

Coach Biggie Munn's Spartan's from East Lansing, who spanked Michigan, their home state rivals, 25-0 last week, edged out the Golden Bears of California for first place.

The Bears took the runnerup spot by a sparse 28 votes from Tennessee, the team which was accorded the No. 1 spot in a pre-season poll Sept. 10. In last month's balloting, Michigan State was rated the No. 2 outfit.

That was before the teams got into their game suits, however, and trotted onto the gridirons to display their 1951 wares. Michigan State had barely beaten Oregon State the previous Saturday, 6-0, but the Spartans ripped their old Michigan rivals solidly in their second game and drew 37 first place votes out of a total 133 cast.

On the basis of 10 points for first, nine for second, eight for third, and so on, Michigan State stacked up 1,026 points in the poll of sports writers and sportscasters from coast to coast.

California, which came east to rock Pennsylvania, 35-0, and gain a lot of respect from eastern gridiron scribes, had 22 firsts and a total of 962 points. Tennessee, winner over Mississippi State 14-0, polled 27 firsts, and a total of 934 points.

The Oklahoma Sooners, who were voted the No. 1 team in the land a year ago, gained the No. 4 spot on the strength of a convincing 49-7 victory over William & Mary. Oklahoma had 18 first place ballots.

A major surprise, not only to Indiana and a lot of so-called experts, was Notre Dame. The Fighting Irish, who have been voted the nation's top team four times — more than any other team — since the poll was inaugurated in 1936, landed in the No. 5 position.

Notre Dame, beaten last year by Indiana, was supposed to be in the rebuilding process this year, and surprisingly had failed to get a vote in the pre-season poll. But Coach Frank Leahy's lads cracked Indiana, 48-6, with a display of some of the old Notre Dame power, and got quick recognition when it came time to send in the votes.

Others in the first 10 are Texas, which bested Purdue 14-6 after squeezing past Kentucky previous Saturday, No. 6; Ohio State, which barely got past Southern Methodist, 7-0, No. 7; Illinois, a 27-13 winner over U. C. L. A., No. 8; Maryland, a 54-14 victor over Washington & Lee, No. 9; and Texas A & M, A 20-7 winner over Texas Tech., No. 10.

Three teams which were voted in the first 10 in the pre-season calculations failed to land there in the first official poll.

They were Kentucky, whipped 21-17 by Mississippi; Alabama, which lost Louisiana State, 13-7; and Washington, which had a rough time before beating Minnesota, 25-20. Washington was placed No. 12 behind Georgia Tech, Kentucky was voted No. 17, and Alabama was not in the first 20.

The voting:

1. Michigan State (37)	1,026
2. California (22)	962
3. Tennessee (27)	934
4. Oklahoma (18)	805
5. Notre Dame (9)	720
6. Texas (6)	616
7. Ohio State (1)	430
8. Illinois	294
9. Maryland (4)	237
10. Texas A & M	222
SECOND TEAM
11. Georgia Tech (4)	203
12. Washington (2)	166
13. Georgia (1)	95
14. Princeton	81
15. Oregon State (1)	42
16. Duke	37
17. Kentucky	34
18. Clemson (1)	33
19. Baylor	32
20. Kansas	30

Other teams with points were: Mississippi and Wake Forest 27, Alabama 22, Holy Cross 21, Cornell 20, Northwestern 18, Wisconsin 17, Villanova and Tulane 16, LSU 11, Southern California 10, Arkansas 8, Fordham, Penn State, and Stanford 7, Amherst 6, Texas Christian, Virginia, Cincinnati and Southern Methodist 3, South Dakota State, Yale and Navy 4, U. of San Francisco 3, Minnesota and Drake 1.

Joe Hager, AHS End, Cops 4th Player Of Week Award

JOE HAGER

"Improved Player" Coach Pence Says

Joe Hager, 158-pound senior end playing his second year on the AHS varsity, became the first Allegany player to capture a K of C "Player of the Week" award this season and the fourth selection of the Knights of Columbus committee since the season began.

Hager was picked for his stellar defensive play in Allegany's 52-0 rout of Ridgeley High Friday in the local stadium.

Although the Camper varsity played less than two full quarters in the rout, Hager was particularly effective in turning in Ridgeley's end runs and his blocking and tackling were instrumental in the Blue and White eleven's excellent showing.

Hager "is one of the most improved ball players on the team" Coach Bob Pence said following the game. The lanky end had played outstanding ball against Beall High in Allegany's opening game and his play has been better with each succeeding game, the mentor noted.

In addition to Hager other Alco stalwarts considered for the coveted selection were Ronnie Sisk, quarterback, George Long, center, Charles Eirich, halfback, and Lance Statler, tackle.

Other area high school athletes who have won the Player of the Week award include Dick Beard, Fort Hill, and Bob Arnone and Ray Brown, LaSalle.

Petersburg To Seek Trophy In Sunday Playoff

Merchants To Meet Security Farm Nine

The Petersburg Merchants will seek the Alleghany Baseball League title Sunday when they meet Medium Security Prison nine for the second game in their best-of-three playoff series.

The Merchants copped the pennant in the regular season and are vying for the title and the Sports Shop trophy in the playoffs with the second play Security team. The Merchants copped the opener last Sunday by a 25-3 score.

In winning the league bunting for the second time in the four years the loop has operated Petersburg posted a 17-3 mark for the season under the leadership of Manager Skin Alkire.

In four years under Alkire's management Petersburg won 68 games while losing 20 during regular season play. In 1948, they ended the regular season in a tie with Parsons with 22-6 marks and lost out in the playoffs.

The Merchants copped their first pennant in 1949 with a 16-4 record and won the title and trophy in the playoffs with Marlinton and Parsons. Last season the Merchants finished second to Franklin with a 13-7 mark.

Ray Hull, Petersburg right fielder, won the loop batting title with .446 and Wally Eaton topped the league's hurlers with a 9-0 record while striking out 74 victims.

Jimmy Harman smacked out 39 hits to pace the league in this department and Henry DeNault had 30 RBI's for the best record in that category. Norris Dolly tied for homerun honors with four.

Giants To Mail World Series Ducats

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (INS)—The New York Giants announced today that world series tickets for the Polo Grounds will be placed in the mail tomorrow, although the Giants still are one game away from winning the National League title.

World series reserved seats not yet allotted due to printing delays will go on sale at the Giants' downtown office tomorrow morning at 9 a. m.

Stan Musial NL Batting Champ

Playoff Contests Count In Averages

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—Although the official averages have not been released, Stan Musial, 30-year-old St. Louis Cardinal's slugger, has won his fifth National League batting crown.

Musial finished the regular season Sunday with a .355 average. The playoff games between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Giants count in the averages, but no one can catch Stan The Man. Jackie Robinson of the Dodgers is closest in third place with a .335 mark after Sunday's game. But he can't pick up 20 points. Ritchie Ashburn of the Philadelphia Phillies is second with .344.

Rounding out the top ten as of Sunday are Roy Campanella, Brooklyn, .327, Monte Irvin, New York, .313, Johnny Wyrostek, Cincinnati, .311, Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh, .309, Al Dark, New York, .306, Carl Furillo, Brooklyn, .301 and Johnny Metkovich, Pittsburgh, .294.

Musial appeared in 152 games and went to bat 578 times. The Card mauler pounded out 205 hits including 30 home runs, 12 triples and 30 doubles. He scored 124 runs and batted in 108.

Kiner finished the season Sunday leading in runs scored and home runs. Kiner nosed out Musial, 125-124 in runs scored and had 42 homers to his credit to 39 for Gil Hodges of Brooklyn. Hodges has a chance to overhaul Kiner during the playoffs.

Other departmental leaders were, runs batted in, Irvin, New York, 120; hits, Ashburn, Philadelphia, 221.

Preacher Roe of the Dodgers was the loop's top pitcher after the regular season closed Sunday with a 22-3 record for a .880 average. Sal Maglie of the Giants was second with a 23-6 .793 mark.

Horse Tying Hearing Ends

No Decision Is Made In The Case

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 1—(AP)—The Ohio State Racing Commission today wound up its hearings into charges that tails of horses were tied to starting gates at Ohio running races.

Trainer Frank Duke of Los Angeles was suspended until Dec. 1 for an attack on an assistant starter at Hamilton race track Labor Day. Duke claimed the starter tied the tail of Duke's horse to the starting gate.

The commission did not rule directly on the tail-tying claim. It also postponed a decision in the case of George T. Becknell of Emory, Tex., who claimed the tail of his odds-on favorite, Detroit Tiger, was tied to the Hamilton starting gate Aug. 22.

Becknell, like Duke, was suspended indefinitely by Hamilton track stewards after making the charge. Both men appealed to the state commission. Duke, however, told the commission he knew he should not have struck the starter but maintained he was carried away by his anger over the alleged tail-tying.

A horse owner, two trainers and two jockeys testified at today's hearing they had seen horses' tails tied to starting gates of Ohio tracks.

Blonde Has Bout With 200-Lb. Deer

DENVER, Oct. 1 (AP)—A six-foot blonde who works at the Colorado Capitol told today how she went fishing and ran into a hand-to-antler combat with a 200-pound buck deer.

Maxine Bloomquist, said she came out of it with bruises on the thigh and arm. But the deer lost the tip of one antler.

Maxine went fishing last weekend South of Estes Park, Colo. The deer approached as Maxine stood on a stream bank. It lowered its head but retreated when the fisherwoman cried, "shoo."

"I turned my back and just then —whammo! He attacked from the rear. I've got a great big bruise on my thigh where he hit me.

"It knocked me down. He was standing over me so I reached up and grabbed him by the antlers. I broke the tip off one. When I got to my feet, I twisted his ear and he jerked away and ran off a little distance."

This gave Maxine a chance to dash to her automobile. The bewildered deer just wandered off.

AHS Jayvees Win 25 To 0 Over Ridgeley

Dick Rank Tallies Twice For Winners

Sparked by Dick Rank's brilliant running and passing and the fine defensive play of George Reynolds, Herb Gaither, Bob Reiber and Freddie Wartzack Coach Jim Hosack's Allegany High Jayvees trounced Ridgeley High's junior varsity eleven yesterday at Campobello by the score of 25 to 0.

The "Little Campers" tallied one in each period with Rank twice carrying the mail and passing to End Bob Collins for a third score. Don Rice, diminutive ninth grader, romped 16 yards for the other tally.

It was the second straight victory for the Alco eleven which last week defeated Beall 12-0. Beall will play host to the Junior Campers in their next contest.

Allegany's first score came on a Dick Rank pass to Collins which the end caught on the 10 and raced over for the six-pointer on a play covering 35 yards.

Rank then tallied the second td on a reverse off the weak side of the line, traversing 40 yards for the counter. Rice's 16 yard run accounted for the third score, this also a reverse play, while Rank intercepted a pass thrown by Ridgeley Quarterback Bobo and traveled 40 yards for the final touchdown on the last play of the game.

Alco racked up nine first downs and completed one of two passes for 35 yards, adding another 209 yards rushing. Ridgeley was held to 124 yards running and three first downs. The Little Blackhawks failed to complete an aerial in six tries with three being intercepted.

Outstanding defensively for Ridgeley were Carr, Van Meter and Margheritta while Bobo and Clark shone on offensive. The lineups:

Hearn Bests

had hop, and Robinson slashed a hot one down the first base line which went cleanly through Whitey Lockman's legs. Those were, incidentally, the only two safeties the Flock strung together all afternoon.

Campy Is Doubled

In this situation, with Jones up and throwing briskly in the Giants' bullpen, Campanella smacked a roller down to Alvin Dark at short. The Giants' captain fielded it cleanly and tossed to Stanky for the force at second, but little Eddie's relay to first pulled Lockman far off the bag. A normal runner would have beaten it, and Snider would have been across with the tying run, but it was a simple matter for Lockman to recover and put the ball on Campy as he lumbered ly.

That was, as it turned out, the last serious threat the Dodgers were to make. Pafko reached first safely to lead off the fifth as Dark messed up a grounder hit straight at him, but the next batter, Gil Hodges, struck out and Westrum's perfect peg to second doubled up Pafko. Billy Cox then singled, but it was a useless gesture.

After retiring the home forces in order through the sixth and seventh, Hearn finally lost the fine edge of his control and passed Hodges to open the eighth. There was some fine, hearty cheering from the sands and renewed activity in the Giants' bullpen as Cox took his stance, but both died down when the dodger third baseman lined to Don Mueller in right field.

Russell Punch Hits

That brought up the game's first and only punchhitter, the veteran Jim Russell, to bat from Branca, and the best Jim would do was a shot to short which Dark promptly turned into a double play.

One was down in the fourth when the Giants salted the game away. One of Branca's fast balls cracked Irvin on his left elbow, and the Negro leftfielder received some emergency treatment before the game continued. Lockman then flied deep to Snider close to the left center wall for the second out, and that brought Thomson, the Flying Scot.

Branca whipped the first two pitches past Bobby for strikes, and then, instead of wasting one, came right down the slot in hopes of getting a quick third. Instead, Thomson met the pitch squarely and drove it on a long arc about a dozen seats up in the lower stands, near the 360-foot mark. Irvin's insurance wallop in the eighth landed within a few feet of where Bobby's had bounced about.

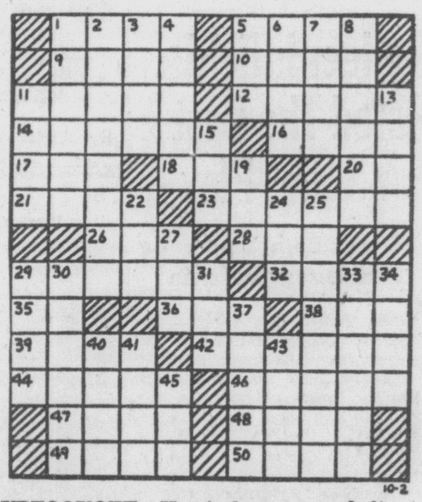
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

DR. EDDIE ANDERSON, OF HOLY CROSS, GOT THE CRUSADERS STARTED ON THE ROAD BACK IN 1950 AND HOPES TO GET THEM FURTHER ALONG IT THIS YEAR!
IN 1949 HOLY CROSS WON ONLY 1 AND LOST 9, WORST SEASON IN THEIR HISTORY!

AHS Jayvees Win 25 To 0 Over Ridgeley

Dick Rank Tallies Twice For Winners

Sparked by Dick Rank's brilliant running and passing and the fine defensive play of George Reynolds, Herb Gaither, Bob Reiber and Freddie Wartzack Coach Jim Rosack's Allegany High Jayvees trounced Ridgeley High's junior varsity eleven yesterday at Campobello by the score of 25 to 0.

The "Little Campers" tallied one in each period with Rank twice carrying the mail and passing to End Bob Collins for a third score. Don Rice, diminutive ninth grader, romped 16 yards for the other tally.

It was the second straight victory for the Alco eleven which last week defeated Beall 12-0. Beall will play host to the Junior Campers in their next contest.

Allegany's first score came on a Dick Rank pass to Collins which the end caught on the 10 and raced over for the six-pointer on a play covering 35 yards.

Rank then tallied the second td on a reverse off the weak side of the line, traversing 40 yards for the counter. Rice's 16 yard run accounted for the third score, this also a reverse play, while Rank intercepted a pass thrown by Ridgeley Quarterback Bobo and traveled 40 yards for the final touchdown on the last play of the game.

Alco racked up nine first downs and completed one of two passes for 35 yards, adding another 209 yards rushing. Ridgeley was held to 124 yards running and three first downs. The Little Blackhawks failed to complete an aerial in six tries with three being intercepted.

Outstanding defensively for Ridgeley were Carr, Van Meter and Margheritta while Bobo and Clark shone on offensive. The lineups:

mid hop, and Robinson slashed a hot one down the first base line which went cleanly through Whitey Lockman's legs. Those were, incidentally, the only two safeties the Flock strung together all afternoon.

Campy Is Doubled

In this situation, with Jones up and throwing briskly in the Giants' bullpen, Campanella smacked a roller down to Alvin Dark at short. The Giants' captain fielded it cleanly and tossed to Stanky for the force at second, but little Eddie's relay to first pulled Lockman far off the bag. A normal runner would have beaten it, and Snider would have been across with the tying run, but it was a simple matter for Lockman to recover and put the ball on Campy as he lumbered ly.

That was, as it turned out, the last serious threat the Dodgers were to make. Pafko reached first safely to lead off the fifth as Dark messed up a grounder hit straight at him, but the next batter, Gil Hodges, struck out and Westrum's perfect peg to second doubled up Pafko. Billy Cox then singled, but it was a useless gesture.

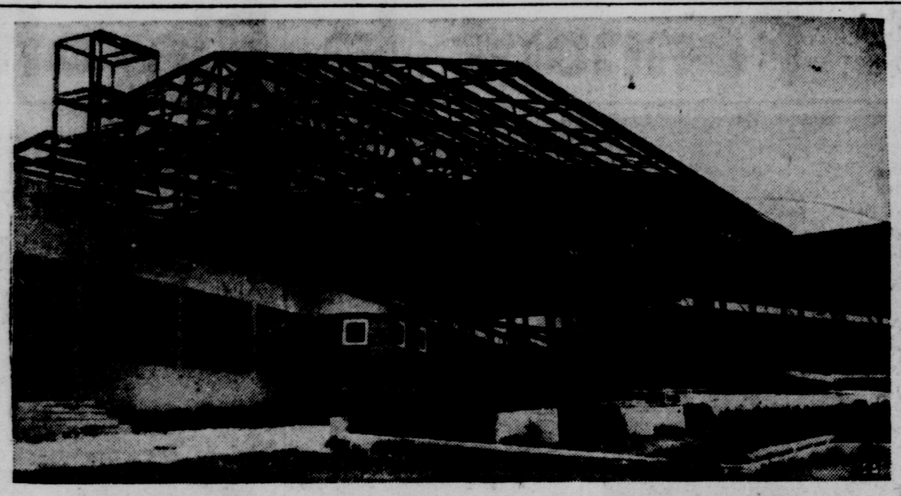
After retiring the home forces in order through the sixth and seventh, Hearn finally lost the fine edge of his control and passed Hodges to open the eighth. There was some fine, hearty cheering from the sands and renewed activity in the Giants' bullpen as Cox took his stance, but both died down when the dodger third baseman lined to Don Mueller in right field.

Russell Punch Hits

That brought up the game's first and only punchhitter, the veteran Jim Russell, to bat from Branca, and the best Jim would do was a shot to short which Dark promptly turned into a double play.

One was down in the fourth when the Giants salted the game away. One of Branca's fast balls cracked Irvin on his left elbow, and the Negro leftfielder received some emergency treatment before the game continued. Lockman then flied deep to Snider close to the left center wall for the second out, and that brought Thomson, the Flying Scot.

Branca whipped the first two pitches past Bobby for strikes, and then, instead of wasting one, came right down the slot in hopes of getting a quick third. Instead, Thomson met the pitch squarely and drove it on a long arc about a dozen seats up in the lower stands, near the 360-foot mark. Irvin's insurance wallop in the eighth landed within a few feet of where Bobby's had bounced about.



Gulfstream Clubhouse On The Build

Gulfstream Park's new three-story club house is rapidly nearing completion. It looks like a spider web now but when finished it will be a modern edifice ready to accommodate the south Florida race track patrons for the 1952 meeting which starts March 4. AP Newsfeatures

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — (INS) — This is Newspaper Week. It is altogether possible and even understandable that you may regard that simple declarative sentence as packing all the importance of a flash to the effect that Newspaper Week will be followed, in time, by do-nut week, eat-squash-week, save-the-dogwood-week, and be-kind-to-porcupines-week.

But this is its prime importance. We're just about the last people on earth who can have a Newspaper Week. That's as true as you're reading this.

We're just about the last people on earth who have newspapers that are not forced at gun-point to carry the propaganda of the government in power.

That fact is as important to you as the existence of courts where you may be tried by a jury of your peers. It's as important as free and unfettered elections. It insures freedom of speech, freedom of movement; your right to pursue happiness.

The American who is rooted to his own land comes to regard his newspaper, and the printed word, as a routine part of life. Like getting up in the morning, going to work, making a buck, listening to the radio, watching television, breathing.

One must travel a great deal to comprehend just how precious is this bundle of newsprint which brings you the events of the world, instructs, entertains, and sometimes helps shape your opinions.

One must know, for example, what happened to the free press of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, China and a few other countries that were overrun by the Communists. One must know, too, what happened to the once-fine papers of Germany, when Hitler came in; the papers of Italy, when Mussolini took over—and papers of the calibre of La Prensa, when Peron's goons moved in.

There is no press, in the finer sense of the word, when a dictator is functioning. Its freedom is the first freedom crushed after a country succumbs. The press is a casualty even before the church or the synagogue or the multiple party political setup. It must be brought under control — every dictator knows — because it is closest to the free hearts of man and best expresses what is on his mind and tongue.

It is a numbing experience for an American to see a newspaper throttled. I will never forget a spinal chill one day at the Ritz in Madrid when I went by the desk to pick up my copy of the European edition of the Herald Tribune and the man behind the desk looked furtively from side to side and said there would be no paper that day.

A dour reflection on the Franco government had appeared in its pages, so it was banned, he said. He had not seen the article himself, he said, but had been told that because of it there would be no paper that day. He said "too bad," with a shrug, and seemed a little surprised when I suggested that that was an understatement — that it was a crime, not "too bad."

This is the greatest newspaper country in history. It has made us the most enlightened, free-speaking, free-voting, best-intentioned people in the world. If we don't like the editorial policy or the makeup or the Broadway columnist or the comics of a paper the easiest thing in the world is to buy a rival paper that suits us. And it is just about as easy to take pen in hand and bawl the hell out of the editor of the offending paper, as generations of Americans have done and will, we hope, continue to do.

Most of us have lived through the period which saw the rise in this country of radio, television and newsreels as disseminators of news and thoughts. They are excellent outlets and will get even better. But nothing will or can ever take the place of the written record.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

BID OPPONENT'S SUIT

WHENEVER an opponent has made a high pre-emptive suit bid, with the intention of shutting you out, it is pretty likely to cause discomfiture if you hold a powerful hand. He has taken several rounds of bidding away from your side, making it impossible to exchange all the information you would like to with your partner. It may even be that his call was so high you don't dare bid over it, but can only content yourself with a business double. But if you can afford to bid over it at all, consider making a bid of his suit at the next higher level to see what your partner then prefers to do.

	♠ 9 5 4 ♥ A 8 7 6 5 4 2 ♦ None ♣ 9 7 4
♠ 10 8 7 3 2 ♥ 9 3 ♦ Q 7 ♣ 10 6 5 2	N W E S	♠ K 6 ♥ Q J ♦ K J 9 8 6 4 3 2 ♣ 8
	♠ A Q J ♥ K 10 ♦ A 10 5 ♣ A K Q J 3

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1. 1 ♣ (?)	Pass	1 ♥	5 ♣
2. 2 ♣ (?)	Pass	2 ♥	5 ♣

Regardless of whether you had opened with 1-Club, as in the first sequence, or 2-Clubs, as in the second, East's 5-Diamonds call would put you in a mean pinch. What South actually had done on this rubber hand was to bid just a modest 1-Club, since he didn't want to assume the great risk of a negative No Trump response by North to a two-bid, which might mean ruination if the lead came through the heart K. He thought of an original 3-No Trumps, but was shy a point according to the point-count method he followed, which prescribes from 25 to 27, and he was too strong for just 2-No Trumps.

But his problem after the 5-Diamonds was the same, regardless of whether his first bid had been 1-Club or 2-Clubs. This South reckoned West as undoubtedly short in diamonds and therefore probably loaded with length in every other suit. He considered bidding small slam in clubs or 5-No Trumps or 6-Hearts, but feared them all, so contented himself with a mere double, which was left in. The contract was beaten four tricks for 700 points, whereas even a small slam vulnerable would have been much better, and grand slam was possible in clubs, hearts or No Trumps. Maybe 6-Diamonds would have been the best call. North probably would have then bid 5-Hearts and South could next do what seemed best.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ A 10 ♥ 3 ♦ A K J 6 4 2 ♣ J 8 4 3
♠ K 8 ♥ K Q 10 ♦ 8 7 3 ♣ Q 10 7 5 2	N W E S	♠ Q J 7 4 3 ♥ 9 7 6 5 4 2 ♦ Q ♣ 9
	♠ 9 6 5 2 ♥ A J 8 ♦ 10 9 5 ♣ A K 6

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

If the club 5 to the J is followed by the spade 2 to the 10 and J, what should East return in order to thwart South's 6-No Trumps?

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

BID OPPONENT'S SUIT

WHENEVER an opponent has made a high pre-emptive suit bid, with the intention of shutting you out, it is pretty likely to cause discomfiture if you hold a powerful hand. He has taken several rounds of bidding away from your side, making it impossible to exchange all the information you would like to with your partner. It may even be that his call was so high you don't dare bid over it, but can only content yourself with a business double. But if you can afford to bid over it at all, consider making a bid of his suit at the next higher level to see what your partner then prefers to do.

	♠ 9 5 4 ♥ A 8 7 6 5 4 2 ♦ None ♣ 9 7 4
♠ 10 8 7 3 2 ♥ 9 3 ♦ Q 7 ♣ 10 6 5 2	N W E S	♠ K 6 ♥ Q J ♦ K J 9 8 6 4 3 2 ♣ 8
	♠ A Q J ♥ K 10 ♦ A 10 5 ♣ A K Q J 3

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1. 1 ♣ (?)	Pass	1 ♥	5 ♣
2. 2 ♣ (?)	Pass	2 ♥	5 ♣

Regardless of whether you had opened with 1-Club, as in the first sequence, or 2-Clubs, as in the second, East's 5-Diamonds call would put you in a mean pinch. What South actually had done on this rubber hand was to bid just a modest 1-Club, since he didn't want to assume the great risk of a negative No Trump response by North to a two-bid, which might mean ruination if the lead came through the heart K. He thought of an original 3-No Trumps, but was shy a point according to the point-count method he followed, which prescribes from 25 to 27, and he was too strong for just 2-No Trumps.

But his problem after the 5-Diamonds was the same, regardless of whether his first bid had been 1-Club or 2-Clubs. This South reckoned West as undoubtedly short in diamonds and therefore probably loaded with length in every other suit. He considered bidding small slam in clubs or 5-No Trumps or 6-Hearts, but feared them all, so contented himself with a mere double, which was left in. The contract was beaten four tricks for 700 points, whereas even a small slam vulnerable would have been much better, and grand slam was possible in clubs, hearts or No Trumps. Maybe 6-Diamonds would have been the best call. North probably would have then bid 5-Hearts and South could next do what seemed best.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ A 10 ♥ 3 ♦ A K J 6 4 2 ♣ J 8 4 3
♠ K 8 ♥ K Q 10 ♦ 8 7 3 ♣ Q 10 7 5 2	N W E S	♠ Q J 7 4 3 ♥ 9 7 6 5 4 2 ♦ Q ♣ 9
	♠ 9 6 5 2 ♥ A J 8 ♦ 10 9 5 ♣ A K 6

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

If the club 5 to the J is followed by the spade 2 to the 10 and J, what should East return in order to thwart South's 6-No Trumps?

Stock Market Makes Gain Following Hesitant Start

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP) — The stock market gained ground today after a hesitant start. Gains ran from fractions to a point or more a share but smaller gains predominated by a wide margin.

Advances in the mining group got the advance rolling and oil stocks were quick to follow. Before the session ended, however, about every group had a majority of gains.

The volume was only 1,330,000 shares, the lowest since Aug. 28 when the total was 1,270,000.

In today's transactions there were 552 advances and 285 declines out of 1,066 issues traded. There were 34 new 1951 highs and seven stocks hit new lows.

The most active stock of the day was United Corp., which was ⅛ higher at 4½ on turnover of 39,300 shares. The runnerup was Fedders-Quiggan, up 1⅛ at 15¼ as 36,000 shares changed hands.

Missouri Pacific preferred, the seventh most active stock, gained 2⅝ at 25¾.

The Associated Press averages were up six-tenths at 100.1 on the day's performance with the industrials showing the largest gain—seven-tenths. Rails moved up five-tenths in the averages and utilities gained two-tenths.

Mining stocks were the most general advancers. American Smelting was up 1⅞ at 101 and other gainers in the group included Anaconda, Phelps Dodge, Homestake, Dome, McIntyre and International Nickel.

In the oil group Pure Oil advanced 1⅜ at 59⅜. Texas Co. was up 1⅜ at 55¾; Sinclair 1⅛ at 43⅝ and Standard Oil (NJ) a point at 68.

A long list of railroad stocks showed fractional gains. They included Canadian Pacific, Santa Fe, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio and Nickel Plate.

The steels got off to a slow and easy start but wound up the session with fractional advances for U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic.

Stock Market Makes Gain Following Hesitant Start

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP) — The stock market gained ground today after a hesitant start. Gains ran from fractions to a point or more a share but smaller gains predominated by a wide margin.

Advances in the mining group got the advance rolling and oil stocks were quick to follow. Before the session ended, however, about every group had a majority of gains.

The volume was only 1,330,000 shares, the lowest since Aug. 28 when the total was 1,270,000.

In today's transactions there were 552 advances and 285 declines out of 1,066 issues traded. There were 34 new 1951 highs and seven stocks hit new lows.

The most active stock of the day was United Corp., which was ⅛ higher at 4½ on turnover of 39,300 shares. The runnerup was Fedders-Quiggan, up 1⅛ at 15¼ as 36,000 shares changed hands.

Missouri Pacific preferred, the seventh most active stock, gained 2⅝ at 25¾.

The Associated Press averages were up six-tenths at 100.1 on the day's performance with the industrials showing the largest gain—seven-tenths. Rails moved up five-tenths in the averages and utilities gained two-tenths.

Mining stocks were the most general advancers. American Smelting was up 1⅞ at 101 and other gainers in the group included Anaconda, Phelps Dodge, Homestake, Dome, McIntyre and International Nickel.

In the oil group Pure Oil advanced 1¾ at 59⅜. Texas Co. was up 1⅝ at 55¾; Sinclair 1⅛ at 43⅝ and Standard Oil (NJ) a point at 68.

A long list of railroad stocks showed fractional gains. They included Canadian Pacific, Santa Fe, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio and Nickel Plate.

The steels got off to a slow and easy start but wound up the session with fractional advances for U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic.

Busy Grand Jury Hears Testimony Of 30 Persons

First Day's Work Lasts Until 4:30

If yesterday, the first day of the October term of Allegany County Circuit Court, is any indication, the grand jury is in for a busy time this week.

The grand jury questioned some 30 witnesses yesterday before recessing until today at 9:15 a. m. In all, 37 persons had been summoned to testify yesterday, but when the grand jury called a halt to proceedings at about 4:30 p. m., some six or seven still had not testified.

Work Late

Normally, the grand jury rounds out its activities for the day about 3 p. m. and usually no more than 20 witnesses are questioned in a single day.

About 20 more witnesses are scheduled to testify today. Sheriff Edward R. Muir said yesterday the number summoned to appear before the grand jury this week now has expanded to 96, with more expected later.

Julian G. Patrick, chief chemist of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke, is foreman of the grand jury.

Will Report Oct. 15

The petit jurors will not report until 9:15 a. m. Monday, October 15, when criminal trials will begin.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, in his charge to the grand jury yesterday suggested that officials of the Welfare Board be summoned and inquiry made if any unworthy persons are receiving public assistance and that particular reference should be made to absconding husbands whose families are receiving aid, and what effort is being made to locate them and prosecute them for non-support of their wives and minor children.

Judge Harris also told the jurors that they can keep America strong by stamping out crime wherever it exists.

"We probably have no organized or syndicated crime in Allegany county," Judge Harris stated, "but crime, like sin, as a natural corollary of life, exists to some extent almost everywhere."

"By the enforcement of existing laws and the punishment of offenders, criminal acts may be halted, and future offenses prevented," Judge Harris pointed out.

Points To Violence

"Normally, in our county, crimes of a violent or shocking nature are of rare occurence. During the past year, however, such has not been the case. In the southwestern part of our county, unoccupied, unguarded, and isolated properties have been the target for the torch of hoodlum terrorists. Trains have been wrecked, homes and industrial property burned and powder magazines exploded and burned with utter disregard for potential loss of lives and fabulous losses in property.

"Crimes of this nature are planned cooly, calmly, deliberately and maliciously. They are not committed in the heat of passion or because of hunger or some impelling, physical demand. These acts were committed for no reason other than malicious mischief and thrill. They caused at least one valuable industry to cease operating. They may prevent others from locating here. They have caused such terror and unrest in this area that the people are fearful of leaving their homes to take a vacation or for other and necessary reasons.

Enforcement Officers Commended

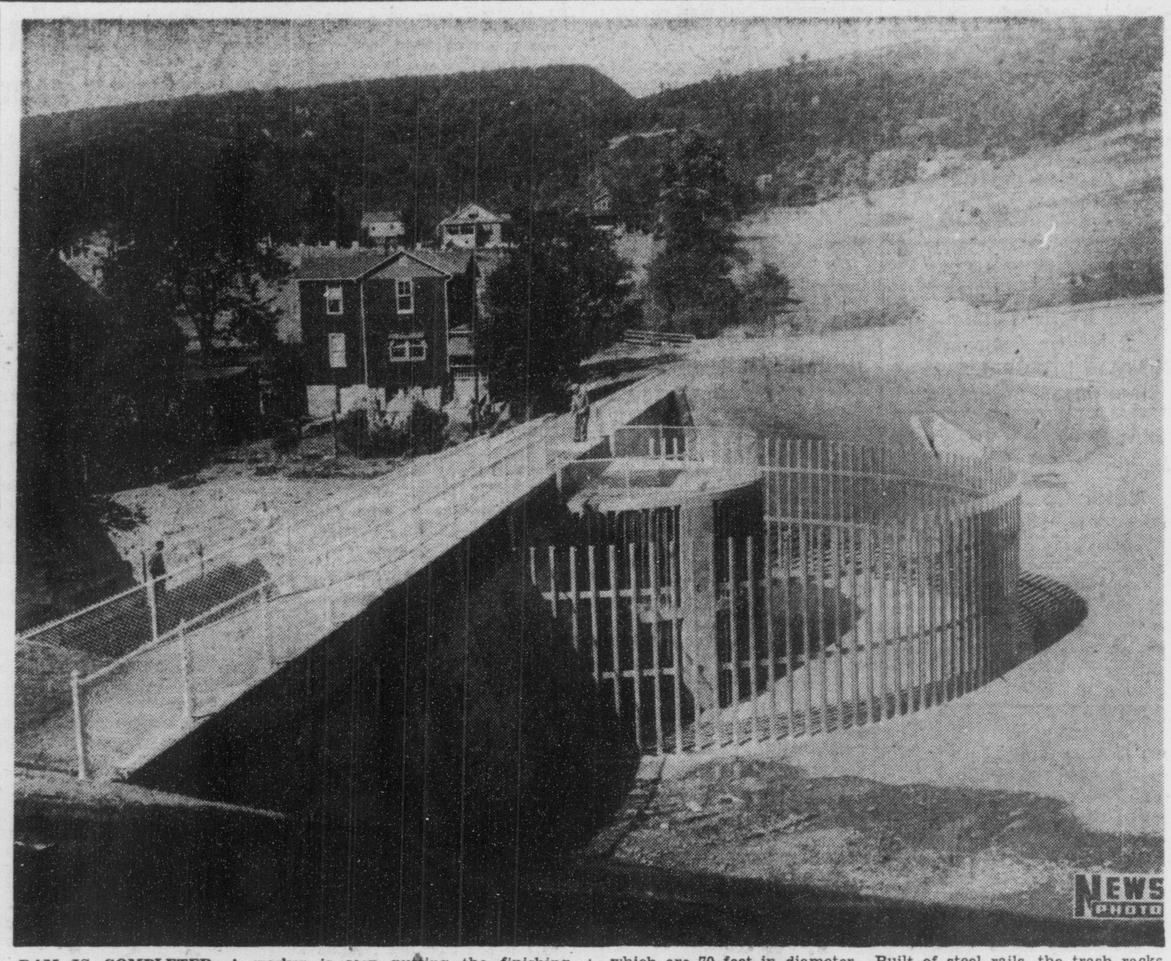
"The good citizens of this county should be free and relieved of this constant fear.

"Some of these thrill seekers have been tried, convicted and sentenced. The state's attorney and the law enforcement officers engaged in these cases are to be commended for their efforts in solving these cases and seeing that the culprits were punished. There is one accused awaiting action of your body in this county and another awaiting action of the Mineral county (W. Va.) authorities on arson charges.

"There may be others who are still free and now planning further depredations of such a nature. My solemn and considered advice to these people, if any such there be, is that they stop and consider that the law enforcement officers will eventually discover them no matter how covertly they plan and execute their depredations; and this court, by its previous sentences, has indicated they will be most severely punished if found guilty.

"There will be presented to your body for consideration other crimes of a most violent and serious nature.

"We have learned, in recent days, that we are not entirely free from narcotic violations. While we know that this is by no means widespread in our community, nevertheless, if your body can bring to light any other violations you will render your county a worthy and signal service," Judge Harris concluded.



DAM IS COMPLETED—A worker is seen putting the finishing touches on the huge detention dam near Furnace Street which will collect flood water from that area as part of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control project. Water collected at the Valley Street detention dam is carried harmlessly to Wills Creek through a 2,700-foot pressure conduit which cost over half a million dollars to construct. Seen clearly in the above photo are the huge trash racks, which are 70 feet in diameter. Built of steel rails, the trash racks are designed to skim off the debris which would otherwise clog the conduits as the water rushes to the dam during heavy cloudbursts. Army Engineers said the racks will probably have to be cleaned after every heavy storm. Work on the Valley Street flood project, which began January 16, 1950, has been completed and the Cumberland Contracting Company is now busy resurfacing the thoroughfare.

Farmers Advised Of Part In Civil Defense Program

Farmers in the Tri-State area have an important Civil Defense role to perform during the current emergency, William G. Barger, county director of Civil Defense, said yesterday.

Barger reminded agriculturists that there is a possibility that their livestock might be affected, if and when an enemy of the United States decided to unleash biological warfare.

The Civil Defense leader cautioned against getting excited about little things, but reminded farmers that they should keep their eyes open for any unusual diseases among their flocks. Farmers are advised to notify their county agent or a veterinarian if their poultry or livestock get suspiciously or seriously ill with a strange disease.

A number of facts about farmers and the possibility of biological warfare were included in an article entitled "It Could Hit Your Farm Tonight," written by Richard Gerstell and Claude Gifford in a recent issue of the magazine, Farm Journal. Gerstell is a consultant to the Civil Defense Administration and Gifford is an associate editor of Farm Journal.

The writers emphasize that an enemy would think twice before he started biological warfare and invited the United States to strike back. "We could wage a pretty terrible biological war ourselves if we had to," they observe.

Germ raids and possible insect attacks on farms would be directed primarily against livestock and crops. They likely would begin in hatcheries, stockyards, sales barns, feed mixing plants, railroad terminals and other centers where large numbers of animals pass through on their way to farms. On the crop front, the targets would include seed houses, fertilizer mixing plants and places where spray materials are made.

The writers emphasize that some of the worst animal plagues are still outside this country.

One of these foreign diseases is Rinderpest, an Asiatic cattle plague that kills nearly 100 per cent of the animals it strikes. Then there is foot-and-mouth disease, an infection that spreads like wildfire, but still has not crossed the Mexican border into the United States.

Another is Glanders, an Old World disease of horses and mules that is highly fatal to humans unless recognized early.

Poultry could be cut down by Fowl pest and foreign strains of Newcastle disease, probably the two most destructive poultry diseases in the world.

In their article, the writers point to the Japanese beetle infiltration as an example of what can happen when the populace is not alert.

Scientists believe, they said, that the Japanese beetle got at least a year's start on us. Even then we probably could have wiped it out completely by spending $50,000. We didn't and today we have beetles in 28 states.

"Our best defense is to be prepared to detect any new insects or foreign diseases quickly and be ready to stamp them out fast," the article stresses. "The better prepared we are, the less likely the enemy is to try biological warfare, or to make much headway with it," they conclude.

Kickoff Dinner To Open Chest Drive Tonight

Campaign Goal Is $105,159.48

Community Chest-USO campaign headquarters in the County Office Building on Union Street bustled with activity yesterday as materials were assembled for the group campaigns which will be launched following the "kick off" dinner meeting this evening at 6:15 at the YMCA.

George L. Buchanan, general chairman of the campaign, stated that although the meeting was for campaign workers of the several sections of the organiation, any interested person was invited.

He stated that the only requirements were that a reservation be made by telephone 6793 and bringing a dollar for the cost of the meal. As in past years, campaign volunteers pay for their meals at the opening dinner and the report meetings which follow.

Harry G. Shupe, chairman of the Allegany County USO campaign, spent the weekend getting campaign materials to the community chairmen. A small folder showing the work of the USO and the pledge cards for the Allegany County campaign together with report envelopes and instruction sheets comprised the kits which were distributed to the community chairmen for their workers.

Mrs. Morris L. Barnes, chairman of the Residential Section, reported that over 200 women had been enlisted in the house-to-house soliciting forces. Their supplies were given out at the tea held last Friday afternoon and some districts reported that they had started on their calls.

The first three communities in the country to report on their campaigns all exceeded their goals. Two Illinois cities, Danville and Elgin, exceeded their goals by 102.9% and 101.4% respectively and the third Chest reporting, South Kingston, R. I., reported 104.1% of goal.

The national appeal for the USO has been included in the Community Chest campaign in Cumberland as it has been in nearly all American Chest cities. This additional sum together with some increases in Chest agency budgets to meet rising costs brings the total sought here to $105,159.48.

The combination of the two appeals is the first time since the National War Funds of World War II that there has been a major federation of appeals in Cumberland.

Area Seniors Will Receive Aptitude Tests

Results To Be Basis For Vocational Aid

Approximately 900 area high school seniors will be given aptitude tests by the Cumberland office of the Department of Employment Security beginning today, Francis A. Kenney, manager, announced yesterday.

The test, called General Aptitude Test Battery, is a collection of tests which singly or in combination indicate the occupational aptitudes of the group being tested.

Kenney explained that the government-restricted tests are administered in all states by employment security agents.

He said the test is a means of directing and assisting the individual to be counseled into his proper fields of endeavor. The results of the test become the basis for vocational counseling and rehabilitation.

In charge of the testing is Edward L. Matthews, manager IV of the Department of Employment Security here. He will be assisted by two interviewers, Mrs. Olive Workman and Mrs. Ann Deremer.

The test will be given at Fort Hill High School beginning today and will continue until Friday.

Tests will be administered at Allegany High School October 8 to 11, Central High School, Lonaconing, October 15; Oldtown High School October 16; Carver High School, October 17; Bruce High School, Westernport, October 22; Flintstone High School October 23; Beall High School, Frostburg, October 24 to 26; Ursuline Academy October 29; St. Peter's High School, Westernport, November 7; Ridgeley High School November 8; St. Mary's High School November 13; LaSalle Institute, November 14, and Catholic Girls Central, November 15.

Henry Mackey Returns From Insurance Meet

Henry A. Mackey, local representative of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, has returned from a visit at Jasper Park Lodge, Jasper Park, Alberta, Canada, where he attended a national convention of the company's outstanding life underwriters.

His attendance at the conference in the scenic location came as a result of his outstanding record of sales and services to his policyholders. He was accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Mackey.

Mackey, who is associated with the Savage Agency in Baltimore, is a member of his company's production club and has also been top man in his agency three months of this year. He is active in the Cumberland Underwriters Association as chairman of the Life Underwriter Training Council committee.

Landowners May Now Apply For Trees For Reforesting

Allegany Conuty landowners who would like to obtain trees for reforesting land were reminded yesterday by District Forester William H. Johnson that he now has application blanks for those who would like to get trees from the State Forest Nursery at Harmans.

Johnson cautioned landowners than the demand in Maryland for these trees is heavy. A year ago the requests were only partially filled. The forester said it probably will be the spring of 1953 before the nursery will have enough trees to fill demands.

These trees for forest planting are small seedlings or transplants and are to be used exclusively for reforesting land. A minimum of 1,000 trees of any species is supplied for this purpose. Seedlings are free for observation purposes for landowners in Maryland upon recommendation of a representative of the Department of Forests and Parks.

Planting of these young trees is not recommended in the fall. In Washington and Frederick counties planting is advisable beginning about March 1. In Allegany County March 15 is the suggested starting date. In Garrett County planting is not recommended until April 1 or later.

When planting time comes around the Department of Forests and Parks will have two planting machines in their four-county district to assist owners.

The application blanks which Johnson has for distribution also include space for ordering trees for roadside planting.

These trees are sold at prices beginning at $1. They are available to landowners for planting along a public highway or adjacent to the land upon which they reside, and to public agencies supported by taxation and state-aided institutions which receive direct state appropriations for maintenance.

No application for fewer than 10 trees of any kind will be accepted.

PTA Discusses Trip Sponsorship

Sponsorship of the annual trip to Washington by the school patrols of Allegany County was discussed last night at a meeting of the Allegany Council of Parents and Teachers at West Side School.

In past years the American Automobile Association has sponsored these trips but will discontinue the practice. The AAA will continue to provide belts and badges for the patrols but will take no part in the May trip to Washington.

Many of the school PTAs in Allegany County are planning to send delegates to the State PTA Convention, which will be held in Hagerstown November 1 and 2. A highlight of the convention will be an address by Salom Rizke, a native of Syria, who is an American citizen.

Youth Is Injured In Cycle Crash

An 18-year-old local youth was badly injured early last night when the motorcycle he was operating was involved in a three-vehicle crash on Oldtown Road.

Admitted to Memorial Hospital was Carroll Sigler Andrews, 1112 Oldtown Road, after his left leg was badly mangled in the accident.

The hospital said he was taken to the operating room immediately upon admission and that it was necessary to amputate the leg above the foot.

The accident occurred about 8:30 p. m. on Route 51, about one mile south of Cumberland, as cars driven by Michael Richard Mattingly, 21, of 26 Fifth Street, a Kelly worker, and Ray Franklin Van Horn, 64-year-old Celanese worker, of Twiggtown Road, were driving toward this city.

Trooper First Class Jack Browning, who investigated, said that as Van Horn was passing Mattingly's car, his lights picked up the oncoming motorcycle Andrews was allegedly operating without lights.

Van Horn, the trooper said, swerved to the right and hit the fender of the other car at the same time the motorcycle hit the front of the Van Horn car.

He said the motorcycle then ran across the road and struck and passed two road signposts before coming to a stop.

Trooper Browning said charges will be filed in the case today.

National Guard Lists Recruit Program Plans

50 Men Needed In Three Units

A recruiting program for the 29th Division, Maryland National Guard, is now under way, according to Lt. Thomas F. Conlon, Jr., who heads the drive.

Conlon said yesterday that approximately 50 men are needed for the three units including Headquarters Company, "C" Company and "D" Company of Frostburg.

Plans for the drive include enlisting men recommended by Guardsmen making personal contact with prospects. Conlon stated that a number of talks are being planned before high school groups for the purpose of acquainting young men of draft age with the National Guard.

He said an open house will be held by "D" Company at St. Michael's Hall, Frostburg, on October 22. Motion pictures dealing with equipment used by the company will be shown.

The recruiting drive, based on an eight-point program, is designed to explain the National Guard to enlistment prospects. Conlon said that most young men do not understand the workings of the Guard.

He went on to explain the Guard is a part time service which will enable one to carry on civilian plans while learning a military job.

Guardsmen are draft exempt, but enlistment in the Guard must begin before a pre-induction physical is ordered.

Pay for each weekly training session is a day's Regular Army pay from $2.50 to $7.60 per night, plus longevity.

A Guardsman may attend the Army service schools of several months duration at full pay with a chance to become a skilled specialist.

Conlon stated that free booklets on the National Guard can be obtained by calling 838 or writing to the State Armory. Persons interested in joining the National Guard may enlist on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at 7:30 p. m. when Headquarters and "C" companies meet.

Contractor Urges Generous Red Feather Contributions

Report On Paving Projects Is Given

Tell the people to give generously to the Community Chest.

That was the answer Earl C. Robertson, an official of the Cumberland Contracting Company, gave yesterday to a reporter who asked for a progress report on street resurfacing work the firm is doing on a number of local streets.

"Come back and ask me next week," Robertson said. "All I can think about just now is the Chest campaign."

Relenting, he reported that repaving of Market Street was completed yesterday and that crews are slated to blacktop Saratoga Street today. Similar work on Fairview Avenue is scheduled Wednesday, he added.

Other crews, he said, completed concrete work on Valley Street between Mechanic and Centre Streets yesterday and all concrete work on the street should be completed by the end of the week. Blacktopping of Valley Street will probably get underway next week, he concluded.

How Dirty Can A River Get—And Why? Scientists Hope To Find Out

By BERNARD SITTER
News Staff Writer

Pollution experts recently wound up the field phase of a two-year study here to find out just how dirty the Potomac River is—and why.

Results of their survey are expected to put a new anti-pollution weapon in the hands of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, which has been trying to clean up the Potomac since 1941.

Headed by Ralph E. Fuhrman, superintendent of Washington's sewage treatment plant, a staff of six scientists spent three weeks here to gather and test samples of murky river water. They made a similar series of tests last summer.

By the time the experts are ready to hand the Commission their final report—some time in 1952—they will have spent about $5,000 in Public Health Service funds.

As Fuhrman sees it, the project is well worth the cost. Its purpose is to determine the exact nature and probable causes of pollution so that towns and industries in the tri-state Potomac River Valley can set up abatement programs.

The Cumberland area was chosen for the study because it is the most critically polluted section of the meandering 287-mile river.

YOUR NEWSPAPER LIGHTS THE WAY OF FREEDOM

Busy Grand Jury Hears Testimony Of 30 Persons

First Day's Work Lasts Until 4:30

If yesterday, the first day of the October term of Allegany County Circuit Court, is any indication, the grand jury is in for a busy time this week.

The grand jury questioned some 30 witnesses yesterday before recessing until today at 9:15 a. m. In all, 37 persons had been summoned to testify yesterday, but when the grand jury called a halt to proceedings at about 4:30 p. m., some six or seven still had not testified.

Work Late

Normally, the grand jury rounds out its activities for the day about 3 p. m. and usually no more than 20 witnesses are questioned in a single day.

About 20 more witnesses are scheduled to testify today. Sheriff Edward R. Muir said yesterday the number summoned to appear before the grand jury this week now has expanded to 96, with more expected later.

Julian G. Patrick, chief chemist of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke, is foreman of the grand jury.

Will Report Oct. 15

The petit jurors will not report until 9:15 a. m. Monday, October 15, when criminal trials will begin.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, in his charge to the grand jury yesterday suggested that officials of the Welfare Board be summoned and inquiry made if any unworthy persons are receiving public assistance and that particular reference should be made to absconding husbands whose families are receiving aid, and what effort is being made to locate them and prosecute them for non-support of their wives and minor children.

Judge Harris also told the jurors that they can keep America strong by stamping out crime wherever it exists.

"We probably have no organized or syndicated crime in Allegany county," Judge Harris stated, "but crime, like sin, as a natural corollary of life, exists to some extent almost everywhere."

"By the enforcement of existing laws and the punishment of offenders, criminal acts may be halted, and future offenses prevented," Judge Harris pointed out.

Points To Violence

"Normally, in our county, crimes of a violent or shocking nature are of rare occurence. During the past year, however, such has not been the case. In the southwestern part of our county, unoccupied, unguarded, and isolated properties have been the target for the torch of hoodlum terrorists. Trains have been wrecked, homes and industrial property burned and powder magazines exploded and burned with utter disregard for potential loss of lives and fabulous losses in property.

"Crimes of this nature are planned cooly, calmly, deliberately and maliciously. They are not committed in the heat of passion or because of hunger or some impelling, physical demand. These acts were committed for no reason other than malicious mischief and thrill. They caused at least one valuable industry to cease operating. They may prevent others from locating here. They have caused such terror and unrest in this area that the people are fearful of leaving their homes to take a vacation or for other and necessary reasons.

Enforcement Officers Commended

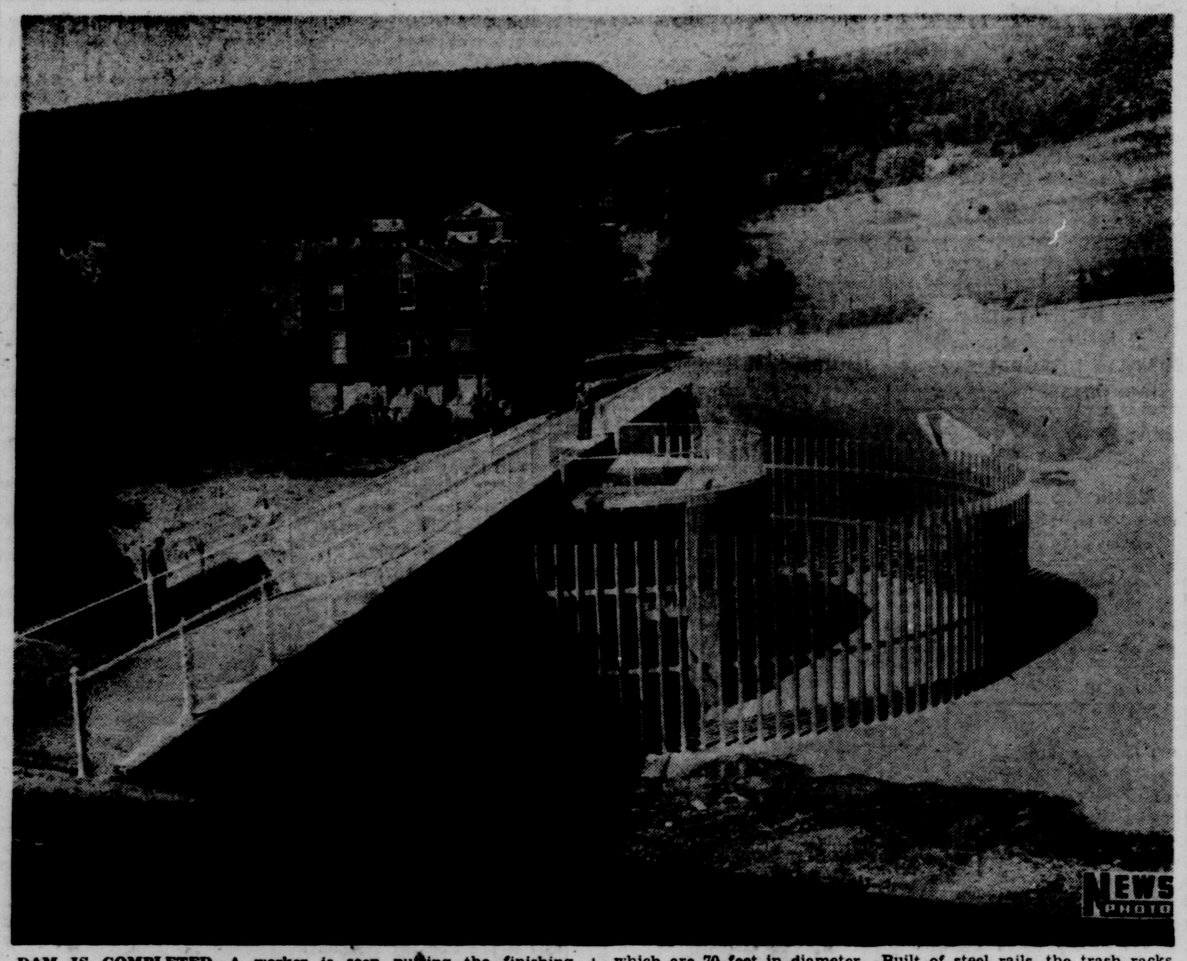
"The good citizens of this county should be free and relieved of this constant fear.

"Some of these thrill seekers have been tried, convicted and sentenced. The state's attorney and the law enforcement officers engaged in these cases are to be commended for their efforts in solving these cases and seeing that the culprits were punished. There is one accused awaiting action of your body in this county and another awaiting action of the Mineral county (W. Va.) authorities on arson charges.

"There may be others who are still free and now planning further depredations of such a nature. My solemn and considered advice to these people, if any such there be, is that they stop and consider that the law enforcement officers will eventually discover them no matter how covertly they plan and execute their depredations; and this court, by its previous sentences, has indicated they will be most severely punished if found guilty.

"There will be presented to your body for consideration other crimes of a most violent and serious nature.

"We have learned, in recent days, that we are not entirely free from narcotic violations. While we know that this is by no means widespread in our community, nevertheless, if your body can bring to light any other violations you will render your county a worthy and signal service," Judge Harris concluded.



DAM IS COMPLETED—A worker is seen putting the finishing touches on the huge detention dam near Furnace Street which will collect flood water from that area as part of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control project. Water collected at the Valley Street detention dam is carried harmlessly to Wills Creek through a 2,700-foot pressure conduit which cost over half a million dollars to construct. Seen clearly in the above photo are the huge trash racks, which are 70 feet in diameter. Built of steel rails, the trash racks are designed to skim off the debris which would otherwise clog the conduits as the water rushes to the dam during heavy cloudbursts. Army Engineers said the racks will probably have to be cleaned after every heavy storm. Work on the Valley Street flood project, which began January 16, 1950, has been completed and the Cumberland Contracting Company is now busy resurfacing the thoroughfare.

Farmers Advised Of Part In Civil Defense Program

Farmers in the Tri-State area have an important Civil Defense role to perform during the current emergency, William G. Barger, county director of Civil Defense, said yesterday.

Barger reminded agriculturists that there is a possibility that their livestock might be affected, if and when an enemy of the United States decided to unleash biological warfare.

The Civil Defense leader cautioned against getting excited about little things, but reminded farmers that they should keep their eyes open for any unusual diseases among their flocks. Farmers are advised to notify their county agent or a veterinarian if their poultry or livestock get suspiciously or seriously ill with a strange disease.

A number of facts about farmers and the possibility of biological warfare were included in an article entitled "It Could Hit Your Farm Tonight," written by Richard Gerstell and Claude Gifford in a recent issue of the magazine, Farm Journal. Gerstell is a consultant to the Civil Defense Administration and Gifford is an associate editor of Farm Journal.

The writers emphasize that an enemy would think twice before he started biological warfare and invited the United States to strike back. "We could wage a pretty terrible biological war ourselves if we had to," they observe.

Germ raids and possible insect attacks on farms would be directed primarily against livestock and crops. They likely would begin in hatcheries, stockyards, sales barns, feed mixing plants, railroad terminals and other centers where large numbers of animals pass through on their way to farms. On the crop front, the targets would include seed houses, fertilizer mixing plants and places where spray materials are made.

The writers emphasize that some of the worst animal plagues are still outside this country.

One of these foreign diseases is Rinderpest, an Asiatic cattle plague that kills nearly 100 per cent of the animals it strikes. Then there is foot-and-mouth disease, an infection that spreads like wildfire, but still has not crossed the Mexican border into the United States.

Another is Glanders, an Old World disease of horses and mules that is highly fatal to humans unless recognized early.

Poultry could be cut down by Fowl pest and foreign strains of Newcastle disease, probably the two most destructive poultry diseases in the world.

In their article, the writers point to the Japanese beetle infiltration as an example of what can happen when the populace is not alert.

Scientists believe, they said, that the Japanese beetle got at least a year's start on us. Even then we probably could have wiped it out completely by spending $50,000. We didn't and today we have beetles in 28 states.

"Our best defense is to be prepared to detect any new insects or foreign diseases quickly and be ready to stamp them out fast," the article stresses. "The better prepared we are, the less likely the enemy is to try biological warfare, or to make much headway with it," they conclude.

Kickoff Dinner To Open Chest Drive Tonight

Campaign Goal Is $105,159.48

Community Chest-USO campaign headquarters in the County Office Building on Union Street bustled with activity yesterday as materials were assembled for the group campaigns which will be launched following the "kick off" dinner meeting this evening at 6:15 at the YMCA.

George L. Buchanan, general chairman of the campaign, stated that although the meeting was for campaign workers of the several sections of the organiation, any interested person was invited.

He stated that the only requirements were that a reservation be made by telephone 6793 and bringing a dollar for the cost of the meal. As in past years, campaign volunteers pay for their meals at the opening dinner and the report meetings which follow.

Harry G. Shupe, chairman of the Allegany County USO campaign, spent the weekend getting campaign materials to the community chairmen. A small folder showing the work of the USO and the pledge cards for the Allegany County campaign together with report envelopes and instruction sheets comprised the kits which were distributed to the community chairmen for their workers.

Mrs. Morris L. Barnes, chairman of the Residential Section, reported that over 200 women had been enlisted in the house-to-house soliciting forces. Their supplies were given out at the tea held last Friday afternoon and some districts reported that they had started on their calls.

The first three communities in the country to report on their campaigns all exceeded their goals. Two Illinois cities, Danville and Elgin, exceeded their goals by 102.9% and 101.4% respectively and the third Chest reporting, South Kingston, R. I., reported 104.1% of goal.

The national appeal for the USO has been included in the Community Chest campaign in Cumberland as it has been in nearly all American Chest cities. This additional sum together with some increases in Chest agency budgets to meet rising costs brings the total sought here to $105,159.48.

The combination of the two appeals is the first time since the National War Funds of World War II that there has been a major federation of appeals in Cumberland.

Kenney explained that the government-restricted tests are administered in all states by employment security agents.

He said the test is a means of directing and assisting the individual to be counseled into his proper fields of endeavor. The results of the test become the basis for vocational counseling and rehabilitation.

Contractor Urges Generous Red Feather Contributions

Report On Paving Projects Is Given

Tell the people to give generously to the Community Chest.

That was the answer Earl C. Robertson, an official of the Cumberland Contracting Company, gave yesterday to a reporter who asked for a progress report on street resurfacing work the firm is doing on a number of local streets.

"Come back and ask me next week," Robertson said. "All I can think about just now is the Chest campaign."

Relenting, he reported that repaving of Market Street was completed yesterday and that crews are slated to blacktop Saratoga Street today.

Similar work on Fairview Avenue is scheduled Wednesday, he added.

Other crews, he said, completed concrete work on Valley Street between Mechanic and Centre Streets yesterday and all concrete work on the street should be completed by the end of the week. Blacktopping of Valley Street will probably get underway next week, he concluded.

How Dirty Can A River Get—And Why? Scientists Hope To Find Out

By BERNARD SITTER
News Staff Writer

Pollution experts recently wound up the field phase of a two-year study here to find out just how dirty the Potomac River is—and why.

Results of their survey are expected to put a new anti-pollution weapon in the hands of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, which has been trying to clean up the Potomac since 1941.

Headed by Ralph E. Fuhrman, superintendent of Washington's sewage treatment plant, a staff of six scientists spent three weeks here to gather and test samples of murky river water. They made a similar series of tests last summer.

By the time the experts are ready to hand the Commission their final report—some time in 1952—they will have spent about $5,000 in Public Health Service funds.

As Fuhrman sees it, the project is well worth the cost. Its purpose is to determine the exact nature and probable causes of pollution so that towns and industries in the tri-state Potomac River Valley can set up abatement programs.

The Cumberland area was chosen for the study because it is the most critically polluted section of the meandering 287-mile river.

U.N. TO TAKE UP IRAN OIL QUESTION

South Koreans Capture Peak In East Korea

Allies Warn Reds To Expect Fight

WITH U. S. FIFTH AIR FORCE, Korea, Tuesday, Oct. 2 (AP)—Allied and Red jets battled for the second straight day over "MIG Alley" today. The Fifth Air Force said two Red MIG-15 jets were shot down in the 20-minute clash.

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Tuesday, Oct. 2 (AP)—South Koreans climaxed a bloody three-week assault by seizing a 3,500-foot peak in East Korea Monday. The success punctuated an Allied warning to the Reds that if it's fighting instead of talking they want they can have it.

Other South Korean troops also won a peak lost to a Red counter-attack Sept. 28.

The 3,500-foot height was captured northwest of the punchbowl, more than 20 miles north of pafallel 38. The South Koreans had been battling stubborn North Koreans for the height since early September.

North of Yanggu, also in the east sector, Red artillery and mortars heavily pounded Allied positions on the slopes of "Heartbreak Ridge." The Communists apparently expect an all-out attack on the Red-held crest.

"North Koreans know they are going to get some trouble," an Allied officer said.

Allies Push Offensive

Pushing an autumn offensive, other Allied infantrymen partly cleared a Communist ridgeline on the central front.

Hard fighting was under way as America's top military leader, Gen. Omar Bradley, made a close-hand inspection of the eastern front and Gen. Matthew B. Ridgeway's headquarters announced the readiness of the Eighth Army "to strike and strike hard," if the Reds insist on all-out war.

The air war raged on Monday with U. S. Fifth Air Force headquarters announcing one Russian-built MIG-15 shot down and three more damaged in a series of dogfights over North Korea's MIG Alley. No Allied losses were reported.

The air battles involved 27 U. S. F-86 Sabre jets and about 40 swift MIGs.

Top Reds Assail U. S.

TOKYO, Tuesday, Oct. 2 (AP)—Red China's top military man accused the United States Monday of undermining the Korean truce effort and preparing for a new war, but the Communists still kept silent on Thursday's Allied demand that the armistice talks be resumed at a new site.

Bradley Sees U. N. Victory If Talks Fail

WITH U. S. THIRD DIVISION IN KOREA, Tuesday, Oct. 2. (AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley said today the United Nations could bring the Korean war to a successful "military conclusion" if the suspended Korean truce talks break off completely.

The chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, on a personal tour of the war front, did not elaborate on what was implied in the phrase "military conclusion."

During his brief interview at a forward airstrip, Bradley said "everybody who has come back from here (Korea) has brought glowing reports. I see nothing to change that."

Giants Win Playoff Opener

Hearn's Pitching, Two N. Y. Homers Sink Dodgers 3-1

Durochermen Within One Victory Of Series

BROOKLYN, Oct. 1 (AP) — Jim Hearn, big side-arming righthander from Atlanta, pitched one of his most brilliant games today and turned back the fighting Brooklyn Dodgers, 3 to 1, in a tense mound duel that carried the enflamed New York Giants to within a single victory of their goal—the World Series.

In propelling destiny's tots to their eighth straight triumph and their 13th decision in their last 14 games, Hearn yielded only five hits to the bone-tired Flock and was not in serious danger of being caught because Bobby Thomson and Monte Irvin slashed home runs.

30,707 See Game

Tonight the amazing men of Leo Durocher needed to win only one of two games scheduled on their home field starting tomorow to climax the greatest stretch drive in all baseball. Today's playoff was witnessed by 30,707 at Ebbets Field. It was a stunned gathering of Dodger rooters that saw its heroes succumb.

Ralph Branca went eight innings for the Dodgers and turned in a creditable performance, but Thomson's 31st blast of the season in the fourth inning with Irvin on base and Irvin's 24th leading off the eighth unhorsed the righthanded fastballer. But Podbielan worked the ninth.

Andy Pafko gave the Flock its only score when he caught a Hearn fast-ball and shot it into the shallow left field stands with two down in the second. Hearn did not give up a hit in the last four chapters, though he issued a couple of walks and had his little manager extremely nervous.

Giants Make Four Double Plays

Though the Giants' infield looked tense at times and twice got Hearn into potential trouble in the middle innings, it redeemed itself in the clutches by reeling off four comforting double plays, including a twin killing in a wild scramble on the base paths which ended the game.

As a result of this wholesale slaughter of the Dodgers who did manage to reach first, only two of Manager Charles Dressen's lads expired on base, compared to ten Giants stranded by Branca. The Giants, gifted by five walks and an error, threatened continually to bust the contest wide open in the latter innings, but Branca had it in the tight spots and generally was given fine support.

"WITHOUT COUNTRY"—Serge Rubinstein, recently released from prison after serving time for deliberately avoiding military service during World War II, leaves a deportation hearing at Los Angeles yesterday. The government wants Rubinstein, who is reputed to have made a million dollars on the stock market during the war, deported as an undesirable alien. He entered the U. S. on a Portuguese passport, but told the examiners he is "a man without a country." (AP Wirephoto).

U. S. Risked War In Drive For Jap Pact, Dulles Says

Ambassador Speaks At Governors' Dinner

GATLINBURG, Tenn., Oct. 1 (AP) — Ambassador John Foster Dulles told the nation's governors tonight that President Truman and his advisors weighed the risk of war with Russia and Red China in pressing for the Japanese peace treaty which was signed in San Francisco last month.

Dulles said "those best qualified to judge" had felt that the Soviet Union and Red China might use the treaty as "a pretext for reviving open war."

He added:

"That was the risk which the President and his responsible advisors weighed. To have given in to the (Communist) threats would have been to invite immeasurable disaster. x x x That was the solemn and necessary decision which required courage."

Wilson Urges "Hold Line" Policy

Dulles spoke of the matter in an address prepared for the annual state dinner of the 43rd governors conference, held in a little hotel nestling in the towering Great Smoky Mountains.

For this affair, the governors and their wives were in formal evening dress and the women wore orchid leis flown from Hawaii as gifts from the territory.

Earlier in the day, Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson had told the governors the economic salvation of the United States lies in "holding the line" on wages and prices.

He agreed with Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina — who held the defense post in World War Two — that this policy must be adopted regardless of inequalities to individuals.

Dulles Consulted MacArthur

Dulles' speech on foreign affairs was the first break in the talk of politics and domestic problems which has dominated the conference.

Dulles — the chief architect of the treaty and a Republican — said the treaty was possible only through the unity displayed by the American people and their allies.

The agreement never could have been achieved on a partisan basis, Dulles said. He added that he had consulted with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Sen. Eugene Milliken of Colorado, and with Gen. Douglas MacArthur as well as other Republican and Democratic leaders.

Council Beats Down Russian Objection, 9-0

Middle East Nation Wins Debate Delay

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP) —Britain succeeded today in getting the United Nations Security Council to take up the British-Iranian oil dispute, but Iran won a 10-day postponement of debate to permit a high-ranking Iranian to fly here to present case.

The delay was granted, over British objections, after Sir Gladwyn Jebb had assailed Iran's "arbitrary" actions in the oil nationalization question.

Earlier, the council blocked by a vote of 9 to 2 a Russian effort to prevent its considering the British-Iranian dispute.

Jebb opened the British case at Flushing Meadow after a hurried flight from Britain. He told the council the Iranian government is rushing madly down a steep hill in pursuit of an illusory objective and that it is "essential for the council to do something to arrest this apparently suicidal process."

Premier May Represent Iran

When he concluded, Ambassador Ali Gholi Ardalan, Iran's permanent representative at the U. N., said he was not empowered to speak for his country in this matter. He said Iran's special representative would need at least 10 days to reach New York and that he, therefore, requested a postponement.

There still was no definite word whether Iran's premier, Mohammed Mossadegh, is the high-ranking leader coming here.

Jebb, speaking after the British had announced they were evacuating their technicians from the Abadan refinery this week—as the Iranian government had demanded—declared Iran is creating a situation which might threaten the peace.

Expulsion of the 350 technicians from Abandan, Jebb charged, is an action "entirely contrary to the elementary principles of international usage."

Jebb's opening speech was delayed by a long wrangle touched off by Soviet Delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin's contention that the nationalization issue and the ousting of the technicians both are internal matters and that the British complaint should be rejected by the council.

Yugoslavia Votes With Russia

However, he was supported only by Yugoslavia's Ales Bebler. The council finally voted 9 to 2 to go ahead with the debate. Voting for the discussion were the United States, Britain, France, China, India, Turkey, the Netherlands, Ecuador and Brazil.

The main issue before the council was a British demand that the council call upon Iran to act in conformity with a July decision of the International Court of Justice and permit the British technicians to remain in Iran. The Iranian government had ordered all British oil personnel to leave the country by Thursday and the British today said they would comply.

Britain Orders Oilmen To Evacuate Refinery

TEHRAN, Iran, Oct. 1 (AP) — Britain bowed to Premier Mossadegh's "get-out" ultimatum today and ordered all her 350 oilmen to evacuate the refinery at Abadan without waiting for action by the United Nations Security Council.

The refinery was Britain's last stronghold in the billion dollar oil empire she has built here in the last 50 years. For several days armed Iranian soldiers at the gates have been in control of the premises.

The action was announced by Alex Mason, manager of the nationalized Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, to a news conference at Abadan.

Truman Recalls TVA Nomination Of Californian

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—President Truman, beset by a series of roadblocks in his appointments to high posts, today withdrew the nomination of Frank A. Waring as a member of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Sen. McKellar (D-Tenn.), chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, had previously served notice that he would fight the Waring nomination "with all the vigor of which I am capable."

McKellar "Delighted"

Informed of Mr. Truman's action, McKellar said he was "delighted."

The President said he withdrew the nomination to enable Waring to accept a State Department post as counselor for economic affairs at the U. S. Embassy in Tokyo. The Tokyo assignment does not require Senate confirmation. Waring is a California economist and former chairman of the Philippine War Damage Commission. The White House said the State Department had "urgently requested" Waring's services for the Tokyo post.

Senate Group OKs Bowles

Among other recent appointments on which Mr. Truman has run into opposition are his choices for two federal judgeships in Illinois, blocked by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today recommended confirmation of Mr. Truman's nomination of Chester Bowles to be ambassador to India, but will look further into the appointment of Philip C. Jessup to be a delegate to the United Nations.

McKellar said he opposed Waring for the TVA post on the ground that Waring had been "lobbying" with senators to get support for the job.

Father Of 18 At 85 Wants At Least 20

WHITESBURG, Ky., Oct. 1 (AP)—"Uncle Eli" Lucas, the father of 18 children at the age of 85, announced his goal today.

Lucas, who has become a father three times since he was 80 years old, said: "there'll be several more, at least until I'm the father of 20—maybe more."

Fifteen of the children were by his first wife, now dead. He married his present 21-year-old wife when she was 16.

41 Members Of Republican Committee Give Gabrielson Standing Vote Of Confidence

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP) — Members of the Republican National Committee from 21 eastern and southern states gave a unanimous standing vote of confidence today to Chairman Guy George Gabrielson.

The group was gathered in a regional conference to chart strategy for next year's campaign.

First, however, it turned down a demand from some Republicans that Gabrielson resign because he continued to represent the Carthage Hydrocol Co. before the RFC after becoming chairman. Gabrielson brought up the question himself. He defended his actions at a meeting originally planned to be private, but opened at his own request.

Todd Asks Confidence Vote

Present besides the east - south committee members were members of the national committee's executive committee whose 15 members represent all sections of the country.

At the conclusion of the chairman's speech, Jouett Ross Todd, Kentucky committeemen, who opposed Gabrielson when he was elected by a single vote on Aug. 4, 1949, moved a full vote of confidence.

Eleven seconding speeches followed in which members who had voted both for and against Gabrielson in 1949 supported him. They said the attacks on him were inspired by those wishing to "take the heat off the misdeeds" of the administration.

All 41 members of the committee present arose and applauded in adopting the Todd motion. There are 104 members of the national committee. But since today's meeting was only a regional affair — plus the executive committeemen who hailed from outside as well as within the east and south — less than half the whole committee was present.

"Corruption" Denounced

Speakers at morning and afternoon sessions denounced "corruption in government" and said it would be an issue in 1952.

They also called on "dissatisfied Democrats" and independents to join Republicans in their effort to "clean house."

Rep. Martin of Mass., House minority leader, told a luncheon meeting that the three great issues — "lack of national security, lack of executive leadership, and lack of public morality, are interlocking and interwoven."

"All the armor in the world," he said, "will not save a nation shot through with corruption, political greed and vacillating leadership."

At Least Three Die In Blast At Naval Ammunition Depot

HAWTHORNE, Nev., Oct. 1 (AP)—A flash explosion in a powder filling room killed three or four men and injured six other persons at the big naval ammunition depot here this afternoon.

Cmdr. Arthur Quinn, acting depot commander, said one of the injured died after being removed from the scene and he believed three bodies remain in the building where the explosion occurred.

The dead and injured are all civilians. One of the injured was a woman. Their names will not be released until the next of kin have been notified.

Workers have not been able to return to the building where the explosion occurred for fear powder in an adjacent room may be set off.

Supreme Court Opens New Term

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Chief Justice Fred Vinson opened the 1951-52 term of the Supreme Court today, and the justices turned to a mass of weighty problems.

After the usual brief opening ceremonies, the court recessed until next Monday. Twenty-four lawyers were admitted to practice before the high court.

The nine justices have before them a variety of problems, ranging from racial segregation, particularly in public schools, to legal rights of Communists.

D. C. Milk Prices Upped

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Milk prices went up one cent a quart here today. Producers said it resulted from an earlier increase in the wholesale price by the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association.

A quart of milk now costs 23½ cents delivered to homes — an all-time high—and a minimum of 21 cents at the corner grocery.

Six Persons Injured As Train Leaves Rails

IONIA, Mich., Oct. 1 (AP)—Four cars of a Grand Trunk passenger train were derailed a mile and a half east of Muir late today, shaking up 12 passengers. Six persons were injured.

Muir is a village 33 miles east of Grand Rapids.

Debris was scattered along a one-mile stretch of the single track line. A baggage car went end over end down a 30-foot embankment to land with one end in the Grand River.

Brazil Blast Kills Seven

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 1 (AP) — Seven persons were killed and 12 injured today in an explosion at the Brazilian army's ammunition factory at Estrella, half way between Rio De Janeiro and Petropolis.

President Won't Withdraw Order On Information

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP) — The administration announced today it will stand pat on its order authorizing federal civilian agencies to withhold information from the public for security reasons.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short said President Truman has no idea of rescinding the order—which has stirred up loud opposition—and added:

Order Issued Last Tuesday

Mr. Truman issued it last Tuesday. It provides for tightening and standardizing the handling of information by civilian agencies, and orders the agencies to withhold any information they decide would be a risk to national security. The President said it would not be used to stifle the flow of news to the public, that it had "no element of censorship, either direct or implied."

But disagreements poured in.

Sen. Taft of Ohio said he agrees with a charge by 25 other Republican senators that some folks in the Truman administration are trying to silence opposition through "smear tactics and propaganda techniques." The senators' statement, issued over the weekend, pledged a fight to protect the right of free speech.

Mundt Urges Action On Bill

Meanwhile, Sen. Mundt (R-S. D.), one of the signers, called for fast action on a bill to kill the presidential order on information. Such a bill has been introduced by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio).

The order, Mundt said, is a "dangerous impingment on freedom of the press."

Mundt's assertion closely followed a request by the Associated Press managing editors' convention that the order be rescinded by the President.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) said the senatorial statement was directed mainly at "these moves by the administration to curb freedom of speech and the press."

Government Orders Coal Export Controls

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP) — The government today ordered all overseas shipments of soft coal and anthracite under allocation and export control as of Nov. 1. Shipments to Canada are excepted.

The Commerce Department issued the order to insure thtat friendly nations obtain essential supplies despite a shortage of vessels and a cargo jam at Hampton Roads, Va., the principal coal port.

Coal exports currently are running 3,000,000 tons a month because of stepped-up defense production overseas. The Commerce Department's Office of International Trade reported "severe congestion" at Hampton Roads.

Czech Demand Rejected

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—The United States formally rejected today Communist Czechoslovakia's demand for return of some 20 Czechs who fled into Western Germany aboard a train.

The Czech regime had demanded their immediate extradition as "terrorists" who violated Czech laws in arranging the train flight Sept. 11.

Bowles Okayed By Senate Group

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP) —The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today voted 8 to 2 to recommend Senate confirmation of Chester Bowles, former Democratic governor of Connecticut, as U. S. Ambassador to India.

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) and H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) told newsmen they voted against the confirmation.

Hickenlooper had remarked before the closed-door session he felt some concern that Bowles, a novice in the field of international diplomacy, might turn out to be "a square peg in a round hole" in the important post in India.

Bowles, chief of the old Office of Price Administration during World War II, has testified he is confident he could handle the task in India.

Tomorrow, a Foreign Relations subcommittee headed by Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) will continue its study of President Truman's nomination of Philip C. Jessup, now an ambassador-at-large, as a delegate to the United Nations.

Trolleys Collide; 3 Hurt

BALTIMORE, Oct. 1 (AP)—Three persons were injured and about 40 others shaken up today when two trolleys collided at a downtown intersection.

Pentagon Wants More A-Weapons

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee said Secretary of Defense Lovett and the Joint Chiefs of Staff today "vigorously recommended a major expansion program" in the atomic weapons field.

The committee, headed by Sen. McMahon (D-Conn), declared details of the Pentagon officials' recommendations must remain secret at this time, and declined to elaborate at all. The announcement followed a long closed door conference with Lovett and the chiefs.

A committee member, declining to be quoted directly, told a reporter, however, that Lovett and the chiefs had spoken in terms of an expenditure of "billions." This member indicated the total would not run to the $6,000,000,000 figures McMahon himself had advocated in a recent Senate speech.

Prankster's Record Switch Arouses Village At 2 A. M.

LAFAYETTE, Calif., Oct. 1 (AP)—In the Rev. Harry E. Shander's Church tower is a loudspeaker from which comes the soft music of chimes, played by an automatic record changer.

But at 2 a. m. Sunday the quiet of the Contra Costa County neighborhood was shattered by a full-volume raucous rendition of "Don't Roll Those Bloodshot Eyes At Me." The record played on and on.

The minister and some of his pajama-clad parishioners tried to get into the non-denomination community church to turn the contraption off. This took 30 minutes.

The sheriff's office explained it this way: Some plankster had substituted a record for the chimes record and turned the speaker volume to full pitch. Then he snapped a padlock on the church switchbox, removed the nobs from three doors, turned on the record player and ran.

Dollar May Never Regain Former Value, Banker Says

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (AP)—No one now living will ever see the American dollar again buy what it did in 1940, a Texas economist told the nation's bankers today.

Arthur A. Smith, vice president of the First National Bank in Dallas, said in an address at the American Bankers Association convention that "we have gone quite a distance down inflation road, but we can go much farther—and likely will."

One reason, he said, is that "Uncle Sam himself is the world's largest debtor."

And Smith noted that debtors "always want to pay their debts in cheap dollars."

He questioned "whether the federal debt can be managed, let alone paid off, with anything except cheap dollars." He added:

"We have ourselves in a predicament where deflation would be both intolerable and destructive."

Further, Smith noted, "deflation means liquidation, defaulted debts, bank failures, business bankruptcy, unemployment and all such undesirable conditions that make what we call depression. The people will not let the government sit idly by while all that takes place—and no administration wanting to stay in office, or get in office, would sit idly by anyway."

Senate Authorizes Navy To Blast One Of Its Newest Subs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Senate today passed a bill authorizing the Navy to depth-bomb one of its newest submarines in a test to further the development of atomic-powered subs.

The Navy experiment is designed to find out how tough a hull the projected new atomic subs must have to survive combat conditions.

The Navy has designated the half-completed submarine Ulua as the "guinea pig" in the experiment. It will serve as a target for depth charges.

In another action, the Senate passed a measure authorizing the expenditure of $49,000,000 for construction of new "experimental" submarines. The House recently voted $50,000,000 for the same project.

Smoke Protest To Be Probed By Hitchcock

Thirty-five residents of an area near a cleaning establishment asked the Mayor and Council yesterday for relief from what they termed a health hazard because of dirt, dust and coal dirt emitted from an exposed chimney.

The residents petitioning the council said they reside in the area of the Ray Bell cleaning establishment at 103 Pennsylvania Avenue.

Smoke Abatement Engineer George M. Hitchcock was ordered to investigate and report next Monday. Commissioner William H. Buchholtz asked that the probe be made and a report submitted, but Mayor Thomas S. Post asked that Hitchcock make the report at a definite time — at next Monday's council session.

In his report for the month of August, Hitchcock said air pollution is at its lowest point in three years. He said that in August, 1949, the tonnage was 17.1 tons; in 1950, 23.33 tons and last month only 7.48 tons.

He said two bad violations were found on the B. and O. Railroad in 296 observations last month. There were 259 clear stacks and 35 partial violations. On the Western Maryland Railway, Hitchcock reported 20 clear stacks, seven partial violations and no bad violations last month.

Hitchcock said eight complaints were made to his office last month. Five were against Potomac Edison Company, and one each against the B. and O. roundhouse, Allegany Court House and the Bell cleaning establishment.

The annual report of Memorial Hospital was submitted but the council, on motion of Mayor Post, held over its comment until next Monday to allow study.

Charles F. Heller, maintenance superintendent at the Municipal Airport, reported the new hangar for the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company has been completed and the company plane is using port facilities. He said the hangar cost $7,331.14 and is being amortized by the company.

Approved was payment of $8,204.14 as the second estimate for repaving of Valley Street.

The Cumberland Civic Orchestra, in a letter, thanked the council for its cash contribution to the group's program for the year.

Regional CD Meeting Set

Civil Defense officials of four counties will meet at the Naval Reserve Armory here Tuesday, October 9, at 11 a. m.

William G. Barger, Allegany county director of Civil Defense, has arranged the session and said Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties, which comprise this region, will participate.

He said discussions will probably center about the organization and role of the western counties in the statewide Civil Defense organization.

Barger said he is urging as many members as possible of each county Civil Defense committee to attend.

The meeting is viewed as another step in effecting a well-rounded Civil Defense program in the area. Currently, defense officials are conducting a drive for volunteer workers and attempting to educate the public to the need for such a program.

South End Gets Modern Street Lights

Installation of new, modern street lights from Oldtown Road to Laing Avenue has been completed, Commissioner of Water and Electric Light George H. Tederick announced yesterday.

The lights are similar to those on Baltimore and Bedford streets, and are part of a long-range program to modernize the city's street-lighting, Tederick said.

The new lights are located on one side of the street only and total 26. The old lights, totaling 45, were located on both sides of the street, but shed less light than those now in operation, Tederick added.

Installation was done by the Potomac Edison Company.

The 26 new lights are of 10,600 candlepower as compared to 400 candlepower of the old lights.

They were installed at a higher level on existing wooden poles and extend over the street.

Woman's Club Suggests Tighter Narcotics Law

The Woman's Civic Club yesterday urged the Mayor and Council to enact a new ordinance calling for the prohibition of sale of narcotics and requiring a six-month quarantine of known addicts.

The request was referred to Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long.

The Civic Club, in a letter signed by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Eva Helmrich, said the organization is joining others in a nationwide drive to stop narcotics peddling to youths and to further legislation to aid in prevention of drug addiction.

The club said it recognizes the fact the city has an ordinance prohibiting the sale of narcotics, but that nationwide statistics show one in 50 high school students become victims and experts have recommended a six-month quarantine of known addicts. A copy of a proposed ordinance was included with the communication.

"The mere presence in our city of quantities of marijuana, as devulged by the fine work of our Police Department in the past week, should alert us to the very serious menace," the club's letter stated.

This was reference to the confiscation of quantities of dope weed here Friday a week ago at the home of Robert B. Brant, 404 Pennsylvania Avenue. Brant had been arrested in Baltimore by Baltimore and federal agents.

In other action the Council voted $9,000 to the Cumberland Community Chest to be paid in quarterly installments of $2,250. This is the same amount as contributed last year.

The payroll for the last two weeks of September was approved.

Water consumption for the week ending Sunday was 84,110,000 gallons as compared to 86,000,000 a year ago. The daily average was 12,015,000. The water level at Lake Gordon is ten inches below the crest of the spillway and at Lake Koon ten feet below.

Services Continue At Mt. Herman Church

The evangelistic services being conducted at the Mount Herman Methodist Church, Williams Road, by Mrs. Sadie Triplett will close Thursday night. The services are held at 7:30 each evening.

Mrs. Triplett, in addition to delivering the message, also sings and plays accompaniments on the piano or accordion. Another feature is the singing of a junior choir, composed of children of the congregation, directed by Mrs. Triplett.

Mrs. Triplett, a local preacher and accepted supply of the Methodist Church, is a daughter of the late Rev. Albert Staniforth, at one time pastor of the Mount Herman Church.

Rev. Eugene May is the pastor at Mount Herman, and Rev. R. L. Wittig is directing congregational singing.

Two Injured As Car Overturns

Two Baltimoreans were hurt late Sunday when an unidentified motorist reportedly forced their car from Route 28, one-half mile southwest of the Old Furnace Road.

Memorial Hospital attaches listed the pair as William Hobell, 40, of 2114 East University Parkway, the driver, and Clinton Knick, 28, of 1106 East Biddle Street.

Hobell suffered facial lacerations and a possible fracture of the left leg. His companion was treated for cuts of the chin, nose and forehead.

West Virginia Police said Hobell's vehicle overturned on a curve about 10:30 p. m. Three other persons in the car were reported hurt but local hospitals said none received treatment.

Sentinel Boosters See Grid Movie

The Fort Hill Boosters Club meeting last week at the school featured color movies of last year's Maryland-Navy game.

The films were provided by the University of Maryland and Pete Augsberger, offensive end star on the 1950 eleven and ninth-leading pass receiver in the nation, was a special guest. Also on hand was Earl O'Brien, former Duquesne University star, now studying for a master's degree at Maryland.

H. C. Spiker, president, said films of the Maryland-Michigan State or Maryland-Duke game may be shown at the next meeting, a date for which has not been selected.

Police Note Violations In Bus Survey

The Police Department, making its regular check last week of the routes of Cumberland Transit Lines, found several violations, Commissioner of Police and Fire John J. Long told the Mayor and Council this morning.

The check revealed that two buses at Fort Hill High School with capacity of 26 were loaded with 47 and 51 passengers, he said.

Operators on the Wiley Ford-Ridgeley run are forced to exceed speed limits to meet schedules, he added, and the department believes the company should put on another bus or extend the time limit for this run.

Long said it was also noted that two buses take students to Fort Hill but only one is available to bring them back.

The commissioner said he is certain the company would cooperate and asserted he believed the bus drivers capable.

The inspection was made by Officer James Brown.

Previously, the city had entered a controversy over overloading and complaints of insufficient service in South End. These problems were solved at company-city conferences.

Among the end-of-the-month reports submitted yesterday were:

Tax Collector George E. Davis noted collections as follows: General, $197,933.65; general improvement bonds, $127,97; 1931 sewer bonds, $1,126.11; water rents, $41,096.10; total, $240,283.83.

Davis said collections on city taxes are running ahead of last year with last Wednesday, when $88,000 was collected, one of the biggest days in office history. Interest deadline is October 20.

In his report on police and fire activities, Long said there were 1,007 arrests last month with fines totaling $1,680. There were 62 fire calls with considerable damage.

City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery noted collections of $2,092.80 as follows: Licenses, $102; produce permits, $1; bingo tax, $753.60 recreation admission on bingo, $375.80; movie tax, $799.35; recreation tax on movies, $60.05.

Health Officers To Study Water Situation Today

A survey of water systems in Lonaconing and Barton will be made today by an engineer of the Maryland State Department of Health and J. Byron Dowling, senior state sanitarian with the Allegany County Health Department, according to Dr. Winter R. Frantz, county health officer.

The water shortage in these two communities is becoming more critical each day due to the lack of rain during the extended drought of the last two months. Dowling said that reservoirs of the Evans Water Company at Lonaconing are drying up and something will have to be done if the drought is not broken.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of county schools, said classes are being held in the Lonaconing area schools, but that a more adequate supply of water is needed.

Health Department officials will confer with the Mayor and Town Council at Lonaconing and also with officials of the Evans Water Company in an attempt to see what can be done to alleviate the problem.

It was reported that some residents of Lonaconing have driven to the homes of friends in Cumberland and Frostburg to take baths due to the extreme shortage of water in their community.

Buchholtz Suggests Bond Investment

Commissioner William H. Buchholtz suggested yesterday that money now in the police pension fund be invested in bonds to gain interest.

Buchholtz said the fund is in good shape and contains about $40,000. He proposed to invest about $30,000 in Series "F" bonds which could be converted to cash immediately if the need arose.

U.S. Army Rifles Reach Indochina

SAIGON, Indochina, Oct. 1 (AP)—A shipload of U. S. Army Garand rifles, enough to equip four divisions, was turned over to Viet Nam's national army today in readiness for an expected Communist offensive.

The rainy season is ending in Indochina and camps will soon be engaged in the heaviest fighting yet seen in Asia's second biggest war.

Col. Joseph B. Wells, acting chief of the U. S. military aid advisory group, formally turned over the rifles to Vietnamese officers who have formed 30 battalions to support the French. Four more battalions will be activated before the end of the year to complete the four divisions.

This first major American aid shipment to Indochina arrived on the U. S. freighter, Earlham Victory, which also brought 100 army trucks and ammunition for French Commander Gen. Juan De Lattre De-Tassigny's French forces.

Columbia TV Network Beats NBC To Punch

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—After hectic last minute arrangements, the Columbia Broadcasting System put on the first coast-to-coast baseball telecast today and beat the National Broadcasting Co. to the punch.

CBS said its TV network carried the opening game of the Brooklyn Dodgers-New York Giants playoff series to 42 stations outside New York City. It estimated the telecast was seen by 11,000,000 persons in all—7,500,000 outside New York City.

The National Broadcasting Company's telecasts of the World Series, starting Thursday from Yankee Stadium, originally were scheduled to be the first major league baseball to be carried west of the Rockies by TV.

Actor's Agent Luft Pleads Innocent

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1 (AP)—Sid Luft, actor's agent who says he is "romantically linked" with Judy Garland, pleaded innocent today to four charges brought against him after a three-car crash Sunday.

Luft, 35, is accused of drunkenness, drunken driving, carrying a concealed weapon in an automobile, and driving without a license. He asked for a jury trial.

Municipal Judge Wallace W. Toelle set the trial for Nov. 14.

Before his court appearance today, Luft answered questions about his relations with Miss Garland by saying, "you might say we are romantically linked." He said his divorce from actress Lynn Bari will become final in December.

Potato Farmer Wins

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 14 (AP) — A Maine potato industry leader, Clifford G. McIntire, Perham, won Republican nomination to succeed the late Rep. Frank Fellows (R) in today's special Third District primary.

With 218 of the sprawling Northern and Eastern Maine district's 260 precincts unofficially tabulated McIntire had 9,043 votes to 5,301 for State Rep. Allan Woodcock, Jr., Bangor—closest in a record field of seven candidates.

McIntire, 43-year-old Perham farmer and a director of the National Potato Council, will run in a special election Oct. 22 against Mrs. Katherine M. Hickson (D), Bangor, and Ralph A. Dyer, Hampden, an independent.

Cost Of Borrowing Up

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 1 (AP)—The cost of borrowing went up for Maryland today.

State bonds totaling $10,272,000 were sold to a group of six investment firms headed by the Chase National Bank of New York at a net charge of 1.481 per cent.

Less than eight months ago Maryland floated $17,564,000 in construction bonds to the Chase-headed syndicate, and the interest figured down to 1.18 per cent.

Violence Mounts In Philippines

MANILA, Oct. (AP)—Death, violence and charges of political terrorism mounted in the Philippines over the weekend, six weeks in advance of the Nov. 13 elections which Communist Huks are striving to disrupt.

Defense authorities, who have served notice they will call out 10,000 army reserves to preserve order during the congressional and provincial elections, placed the blame for most violence on Luzon islands to Reds. They said subversive Huk literature is urging Filipinos to use the rifle and bayonet to overthrow the government instead of voting.

In the latest violence two Liberal (administration) Party leaders in Bulacan province, just north of Manila, were kidnaped Sunday night by Huks.

The beheaded body of one was found about 30 miles north of Manila on the eastern fringe of the Candaba swamps. The other is still missing.

This brought an unofficial tally of political killings on Luzon to 25 since Sept. 14. As many more have been kidnaped.

Government Increases School Lunch Aid

BALTIMORE, Oct. 1 (AP)—The federal government is going to pay $650,900, 10 per cent more than last year, toward lunches provided Maryland school children.

The federal aid was announced today by Dr. John J. Seidel, assistant superintendent of the Department of Education.

The federal government provides five cents in cash and five cents in surplus commodities for each student lunch. About 7,000,000 meals will be served Maryland students this year.

The body was found in the charred ruins of one of the nine apartments. It was in the kitchen in the section in which the blaze started and sent 17 families scurrying to safety at 9 p. m.

Freedom Fight Is Urged By Hull

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Former Secretary of State Cardell Hull, in an 80th birthday statement, called on the American people today to stand "in the forefront of a worldwide co-operative effort against the forces of evil."

"We cannot survive as a free people if the rest of the world is enslaved," he said. "The men and women striving for freedom desperately need our aid, and that aid we must render."

Hull, Secretary of State from 1933 until 1944, said the United States is passing through a "crucial testing" period, one more perilous and exacting than any in its history.

"In this current struggle between the forces of freedom and the forces of tyranny," he asserted, "our country occupies a unique position.

"So great are our resources by comparison with those of others, that victory for the forces of freedom is possible only if we act now with the same fervor and the same dedication with which the 13 colonies fought in defense of the rights of free men 175 years ago."

Hull issued his statement through the State Department. He has been in and out of Bethesda Naval Hospital several times since his retirement in 1944 but apparently is in good health again. He has a hotel apartment here.

School, Teacher Who Dated Pupil Reach Settlement

AMBOY, Ill., Oct. 1 (AP) —The Amboy High School board today reached a settlement with the English teacher it had ordered discharged for dating a 17-year-old pupil. Terms of the settlement were not announced.

Stanley W. Gibson, 31, the teacher, had been fighting the dismissal order in a series of public hearings. He contended his dating of Miss Joyce Underhile, the pupil, was not detrimental to the school system as the board had held.

It was understood Gibson will resign and the school board will withdraw its dismissal. This would give Gibson a clean slate in seeking a new job.

Senate Vs. House On Taxes

As the 1951 Revenue bill goes to conference committee, the total tax boost estimated from it is much less than recommended by the President, considerably less than originally voted by the House.

The President in a letter of September 20 to Vice President Barkley as presiding officer of the Senate reiterated the original Truman recommendation of $10 billion more. The House on June 22 had adopted a $7.2 billion bill. The Senate Finance Committee pared that amount to $5.5 billion. Chairman George (D., Ga.), however, says that this estimate is low and that the committee version would produce additional revenue of about $6 billion.

The likelihood is that the conference committee will finally report a bill more nearly like the Senate than the House version. And the further likelihood is that the House, eager to get home, will quickly agree to the conference report.

All revenue bills must originate in the House. But although the constitutional originator of revenue, the House in recent years has proved more and more willing to defer to the Senate on tax bills.

As a result of the unfavorable course of the Korean War during the summer of 1950, the 1950 revenue act was almost entirely a Senate product. Four days after the war had started, on June 29, the House had voted a bill which would have cut excise taxes so deeply that, despite a rise in corporation taxes, a net revenue loss would have resulted.

President Truman on July 25 asked the Senate to raise taxes on individuals and corporations by $5 billion. The final bill closely followed the President's prescription. Revenue-losing provisions of the House bill were eliminated, and the House went along.

There was no new revenue act in 1949. In 1948 the Senate rewrote the House tax bill so as to lop $1.7 billion from the House tax reduction. The House accepted the Senate's less generous treatment of the taxpayers.

The Senate, however, was the greater tax reducer immediately after World War II. The Senate voted retroactive reductions in excess-profits taxes for small corporations, repeal of the tax at the end of 1945. The House had wanted to keep that tax through 1946, but agreed to repeal after the conferees had eliminated the Senate provision for retroactive reductions.

The Senate Finance Committee in 1944 had liberalized renegotiation of war contract sections of the revenue bill to the point that four committee members charged that the bill would breed "a new crop of war millionaires." Public reaction caused the committee to revise its bill while this was still in debate on the Senate floor.

Parcel Post Costs More

Higher rates for parcel post (fourth class) packages, except books, went into effect yesterday. At some future date, as yet unannounced, higher rates will be imposed on books, also a surcharge on parcel post packages of such unusual size that they are not handled in ordinary mail sacks.

On other classes of mail matter, higher rates are to go into effect soon. The Senate and the House voted for different increases in the several categories, with the differences to be ironed out by a conference committee.

Except for parcel post, postal service charges are fixed by Congress. A 1925 law prescribes that parcel post rates shall be set by the postmaster general, with the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The ICC approved the new parcel post increases proposed by the postmaster general, except those on books. The ICC made its own suggestions on book rate increases, and is waiting for new proposals by the P. H. G. along the lines it suggested. The ICC accepted the P. M. G.'s idea of a surcharge on unusual parcel post packages, but he has yet to work one out.

The Post Office Department's cost-ascertainment figures show that in the fiscal year 1950 (figures for 1951 not yet available), parcel post was carried at a net loss of $78 million. This came to 14 per cent of the Department's total deficit of $546 million. The new increases in all classes of mail matter are expected to reduce the deficit little, because Congress has voted substantial wage increases for the postal employes, and there are some half a million of these.

Plenty Of Rubber

From the consumers' point of view the downward direction of wool and rubber prices is good news. That new suit and those new tires shouldn't cost any more and may cost a bit less than you've been expecting to pay, despite the inflationary factors that are still tending to push prices up. The price of Australian wool got so high that the market suddenly began to clam up.

As for rubber—there are two good reasons why it's plentiful in America. One: The government as the sole importer of natural rubber has stockpiled enough to last maybe four years, and is still buying from Southeast Asia. Two: The government's synthetic rubber plants, after a post-war shutdown, are producing at the rate of a million tons a year.

From the roundup in the Wall Street Journal we gather that the rubber manufacturing industry—tires use 68 per cent of all rubber—is being offered more rubber, natural and synthetic, than it can use. And this is the time of year when the tire market declines anyway.

So you've noticed that new cars have spare tires again? Well, that's no accident. The rubber industry has even revived the talk of making highway pavements out of rubber.

Did we hear somebody holler something about rubber being either a feast or a famine?

Zog's Splendor

Albania is a small Adriatic land, of approximately the area of New Hampshire or Maryland, whose population of 1,000,000 consists of peasants. Its total holdings in gold and foreign exchange on December 31, 1945, were worth $82,000.

That, of course, was after it had been liberated from German and Italian occupation, thereafter to fall, as events proved, into Communist control. Nevertheless, when one reads that former King Zog made a down payment on long-disused Long Island mansion with a bucket of diamonds and rubies, and that he wants to bring a suite of 115 persons to Muttontown, L. I., it is obvious that the pickings while Zog was king of Albania were substantial.

It's not important, except as an exhibit on how lucrative the kingship of even an impoverished land can be. Lucrative, too, for the estate which owns the Long Island, furnished and vacant for 12 years—one of those establishments which few Americans now have the resources (after taxes) to maintain and which, in this case, the Soviet Union seems not to have rented.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Curable Deafness

Certain types of deafness are curable but unless the disorder is recognized and treated the individual will continue to be hard of hearing. Some persons even go so far as to obtain a hearing aid before submitting to examination. A middle aged man did this and was embarrassed when his hearing was restored after a physician removed wax plugs from his ears.

The need for determining whether deafness exists is vital in pre-school children. There are many reasons for this, the most important centering about the education of the child. The youngster who is hard of hearing misses so many words, he has difficulty learning to talk properly. The defect also may have a profound effect upon his emotional system. Unless the situation is realized, parents and kindergarten teachers may conclude that the child is mentally retarded or suffering from a speech disorder or word deafness.

This explains why our school health authorities want to test the hearing of all youngsters. In the regions where this project has been carried out, approximately 5 per cent of all pre-schoolers were found to be suffering from varying degrees of hearing loss. Once the preliminary screening was over, a more detailed study was suggested to trace the origin of the disturbance. When this routine was followed, the outcome was astonishing. In one group that received medical treatment, 85 per cent showed improvement; 65 per cent reached the normal range of hearing. These results speak for themselves and emphasize the value of early detection and the need for locating the cause. When a remedy is not available most authorities recommend that all partially deafened young children be given a hearing aid to overcome the usual handicaps associated with the effect.

If the ear canal is obstructed by wax, its removal restores hearing within a few minutes. Loss of hearing also may stem from blockage of the Eustachian tubes, the passageways that connect the ear and throat. The same thing may result from swollen adenoids. This lymph tissue is located in the roof of the throat near the back part of the nose. This area also is the site of the openings of the Eustachian tubes and when adenoidal tissue swells, blockage is likely to occur. In the past this puffiness generally was ascribed to infection and surgical removal of adenoids was the treatment of choice. During World War II, however, the use of radium for this purpose became popular. Special applicators were devised and the adenoids literally were burned away from the area surrounding the outlets of these tubes. This remedy still is employed but we now know that there are other causative factors of swollen lymphoid tissue in the throat.

Allergy may play a role in deafness and the most common offenders are house dust, molds, fungi, tobacco smoke, and paper. Heat, cold, fatigue, and emotional disturbances are other candidates. This knowledge has led many authorities to administer one of the antihistaminic drugs whenever they suspect an allergic basis of deafness. Vitamin and protein deficiencies and the consumption of an unbalanced diet have an adverse influence upon the hearing apparatus. Anxiety states can do the same as well as local disease of the nose, septum, and sinuses. These are but a few of the remedial causes; others include dental malocclusion, ear infections, otosclerosis, and psychogenic sources.

BURNING SOLES

Mrs. W. writes: What makes the soles of the feet burn? They are not red and there is no rash.

REPLY

There are many possibilities, including injury, frostbite, nerve damage and walking in parades. In causalgia, burning is intense; the condition usually follows injury in which a nerve in the extremity was damaged. Erythromelalgia is another possibility, altho in this disorder redness of the feet is associated with burning. Examination will be needed.

ANTI-RABIC "SHOTS"

V. C. writes: How many injections are given to a person who is bitten by a dog suspected of having rabies?

REPLY

One injection daily for two to four weeks in minor bites. If the lesion is severe or on the face or neck, two daily doses may be needed.

BREEZE AND DRAFT

Mrs. J. writes: My husband thinks, during hot weather, that I should put the baby's play pen and crib in a draft but I disagree. Will you please advise?

REPLY

Drafts are not desirable but a breeze is welcome when the weather is hot. I see no objection so long as the child does not sleep in the draft.

WATCH IT

M. W. writes: My doctor told me to watch a red spot on my nose. What does he mean?

REPLY

If you observe changes in the lesion you should report to him immediately. There is no need to carry a mirror around; just look at the spot morning and evening.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Freedom Balloons Open Doors Of Communist Embassy; New Czech Ambassador Welcomes American Press; Propaganda Leaflets Worry Soviet Leaders

WASHINGTON—The Communist Czechoslovak embassy in Washington is located in a most fashionable and uncommunist part of town. Almost next door are the friendly Chilean embassy, the Egyptian embassy, the now troubled Pakistan embassy, the pro-American Philippines and the stanchly anti-Communist Turkish embassy.

Across the street are the Koreans, the Danes and Norwegians, the latter firm allies in the North Atlantic Pact, while just around the corner are the sedate homes of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the late President, and of Herbert Hoover. Down the street about a block are the embassies of Greece and tiny Luxembourg — now made famous by "Call Me Madam" Perle Mesta—both lined up solidly with the United States.

In fact, the Communist embassy of Czechoslovakia seems just a bit out of place in these surroundings. Out of its windows, however, and across Sheridan Circle, its diplomats can see one fellow Communist embassy, that of Rumania, a rather attractive building which once housed Queen Marie on her famous visit to the U. S. during those more glamorous days when the crowns of kings and queens rested more firmly in the Balkans.

Staring blankly at the Rumanian embassy in eternal disapproval is the statue of General Phil Sheridan, famous for his cavalry A-bomb raids up and down the Shenandoah Valley, but who now stands, still a-horse, in the middle of Sheridan Circle while children play around his horse's hoofs.

Inside The Embassy

In these surroundings, the Communist Czech embassy ought to appear lonely. Externally, however, it doesn't. It looks as well kept as any other of the dignified gray stone buildings along embassy row. Inside, however, it's different.

I have been inside the Czech embassy only once in the years since it was taken over by the Communists, and that was on a visit in behalf of the American Legion to see whether the children of Czechoslovakia might be permitted to participate in the Legion's Tide of Toys.

The downstairs of the embassy is about the same as that of any other embassy — huge marble stairway, rather impressive, leading to living quarters above. The room in which the ambassador received me, however, had seen better days. The brocade on the walls, reminiscent of the golden era when Americans didn't have to woryr about income taxes, was bleached and worn; while the general atmosphere was one of stale tobacco and disuse.

Ambassador Vladimir Outrata, who then represented Czechoslovakia, was extremely cagey about permitting the children of his country to receive Christmas toys from the American Legion. He wanted to know how many toys there would be, and seemed horrified that there might be as many as one freight-car load. It was obvious that he didn't want anything to dispel the Communist myth that the American people—even including our children—are the mortal enemies of the Czech children.

In the end, the ambassador said he would have to consult his government, and after two weeks the answer arrived—as I expected, in the negative. In brief, Communist Czechoslovakia did not want any tokens of people-to-people friendship from the American Legion or from American children.

I am quite sure that few other American newsmen have been inside the Communist Czech embassy during the years it has stood isolated and aloof on ritzy Massachusetts Avenue—until last week when all the press was suddenly invited in.

Historic Press Conference

Somber, unhappy Ambassador Outrata, whom I interviewed, has now been replaced by Ambassador Vladimir Prochazka. He is the man who in an historic hour and a half-long interview tried to tell the Communist side of the Oatis case, submitted to questions, and threw out hints that his government might be ready to call it quits regarding Oatis if the U. S. relaxed its economic and propaganda pressure.

The details of that interview have been well portrayed in the press. But some of the detailed facts behind that interview have not been portrayed.

They began last August when a long caravan of trucks camped out in a Bavarian wheat field late one night and began the eerie and rather fantastic job of releasing balloons carrying friendship messages to the Czechoslovak people.

A lot of people in this country at first pooh-poohed the idea. Unquestionably it was an experiment. But systematically for two weeks a total of 11,000,000 messages were dropped over Czechoslovakia, the equivalent of one message for every third man, woman and child in the country.

Simultaneously, Radio Free Europe, run by the National Committee for a Free Europe, began augmenting this balloon barrage. The effect has been electrifying.

The story of these balloons has swept Czechoslovakia. Everyone now knows about them, and those who haven't seen the messages have heard about them. People are now watching for balloons pretty much as Americans once watched for flying saucers. The messages have been mimeographed, tacked up on telegraph poles and mailed anonymously to Communist officials.

Czech airplanes have tried to shoot down the balloons, but only succeeded in scattering the leaflets more. The Czech prime minister has made a speech on the floor of the parliament blasting the balloons as carrying "beetles" and "press manure." The Moscow radio has claimed: "The winds of freedom stink." Unquestionably the balloon barrage has got under the Commie skins.

Finally, last week, the Czech railroad engineer and train dispatcher, who ran the freedom train across the border into Germany, went up to the border and released a new balloon barrage carrying a leaflet

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—This is a tale about a Washington senator—a Republican. He made speeches inside and outside the Senate which angered his own state and the people of the nation.

The unpopularity of this senator was such that newspapers from one end of the country to the other denounced him not only for "his tactless way of bludgeoning his adversaries" and his "vocabulary of anathema" but for "treasonable and seditious utterances."

The Republican State Central Committee of Wisconsin by unanimous vote demanded his expulsion from the United States Senate for "treasonable and seditious utterances." The League of Wisconsin Municipalities took the same action. The State Council of Defense and 71 councils called on him to resign and demanded that the U. S. Senate expel him if he didn't resign.

Rotary groups, bar associations, public safety committees in his own state and elsewhere denounced him. The Republican State Convention of Massachusetts adopted a resolution censuring him for "marked disloyalty." Former President Theodore Roosevelt called him the "most sinister enemy of democracy in the United States" and called for his expulsion from the Senate.

Committee Investigates

The same Wisconsin senator then made a bitter speech in St. Paul, Minn. There was some doubt afterward as to exactly what the senator said. The furor caused the United States Senate to appoint a special committee to investigate the demand for expulsion. The chairman of the committee a, Democratic senator —construed the committee's powers as limited to ascertaining first, the truth or falsity of what the senator said, and second, the truth or falsity of his statement of facts. The issue was debated at length in the Senate. Senator Kellogg of Minnesota, Republican, a great lawyer of his day, who later became a Secretary of State, refused to admit that the issue of free speach was at stake. He said: "This is a question of erroneous statement of facts rather than of free speech."

The Wisconsin senator had denounced the motives of the United States Government. He questioned the sincerity of its acts at a time when its troops were fighting on the battlefield. Only from a few places did endorsement of his stand come. The California Federation of Labor, for instance, expressed confidence in him as a "true American citizen" and upheld his right to voice the views of "an intelligent man."

Finally the Wisconsin Legislature by a vote of 26 to 3 in its Senate and 53 to 32 in its House, after a stormy continuous session of 17 hours, passed a resolution condemning him for failing to see the righteousness of the nation's cause and rebuked him for his utterances as tending to "incite sedition."

Ten times the special committee of the United States Senate met and 10 times it adjourned without doing anything.

All this took place in 1917 and 1918 during a time when the United States was at war, and when several persons outside of public life had been arrested under the espionage laws for inciting sedition. But congressional immunity or congressional restraint or forbearance ruled the day. Nothing was done. The issue was left to the people of Wisconsin.

Supported Unpopular Causes

Then, after the war, the same Wisconsin senator was re-elected by the people of Wisconsin and remained in the Senate for many years afterward, often fighting in behalf of unpopular causes. So great was his hold on the people of his state that his son—a very able man in his own right—was elected to the Senate as his successor without being in the slightest damaged politically by the controversy in which his father had been engaged. Indeer, the father ran for the Presidency of the United States as an independent in 1924 and polled close to 5,000,000 votes. No third-party candidate since then has obtained as many.

The name of the senator from Wisconsin for whose expulsion there was such widespread demand was Robert M. La Follette.

And what did history say 34 years later? A President of the United States—a Democrat—in speaking to a nation-wide radio audience on July 28, 1951, denounced by implication a present-day U. S. senator from Wisconsin and spoke of Wisconsin as "the home state of two of America's greatest liberal and progressive senators, Robert M. La Follette and Robert Junior."

The tribute of "greatness" was given to a man widely denounced. It will be argued, of course, that the cases of Senators McCarthy and La Follette are not parallel because the one smeared individuals and the other smeared his own government or, because one allegedly engaged in improper campaigning and the other did not. It makes one wonder how many people in America, inside and outside public life, who profess to be "liberals," sincerely subscribe to the doctrine laid down by the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the Supreme Court of the United States, who once defined freedom of speech as "freedom for the thought we hate."

Matter Of Fact

By STEWART ALSOP

140 Group Air Force

WASHINGTON

Before very long, the final settlement of the embittered controversy about the size of the Air Force ought to be publicly announced. After the most prolonged and laborious discussion, which at one point kept the Joint Chiefs of Staff in almost continuous session for 10 days on end, the heads of the services have reached agreement among themselves. The agreed plan only awaits the approval of President Truman to become official.

If the President approves, which seems almost certain, the plan will provide for expansion of the Air Force from 95 to about 140 groups—the exact figure is still secret, but this is the general scale. The increase in over-all airpower will allow a much larger investment in tactical air power, thus remedying our gravest weakness in the air. On the basis of current scheduling, this great increment of American strength will be completed by 1954.

In money terms, the agreement reached by the Joint Chiefs will mean that about $3,750,000,000 of the $5,000,000,000 supplemental defense appropriation recently voted by Congress, will be allocated to Air Force expansion, while much of the rest will go to added Naval air strength. This will get the program started.

Approval Obvious

In the two following fiscal years, the huge capital outlays involved in the expansion of the Air Force will add about $10,000,000,000 annually to the defense budget. And when the period of capital spending is at an end, the Air Force expansion will result in a regular annual bill for maintaining the armed forces of a little under $40,000,000,000, instead of about $35,000,000,000 as previously projected.

It has long been very obvious that Air Force expansion would eventually be approved, in one form or another. The reason is that the Air Force has not one, but two main jobs — its own specialized job of building strategic air power, and its cooperative job of providing tactical air support to the ground forces. In the past, because of budgetary and other pressures, the problem of tactical air has been neglected.

When the present struggle started, the air staff prepared a plan for a 163 group air force, which was sponsored by Secretary of Air Thomas K. Finletter and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg. This first air force plan involved an increase in strategic air power even greater than the projected increase for tactical air power. It is understood that most of the saving in the less ambitious agreed plan of the Joint Chiefs has been achieved by holding down the strategic air increases.

On the whole, the most striking aspect of this crucial decision that the Joint Chiefs have taken is the manner of taking it. What has happened represents a long step forward on the hard road toward genuine unification of the services.

Proof Of Progress

The Joint Chiefs of Staff themselves plunged into the debate with far less venom and obstinacy than in the past; and the mere fact that they have been able to agree upon such a furiously controversial subject as air force expansion is proof of enormous progress. Now for the first time, the rule is recognized that the American people are only to pay for the armed forces they really need for their security.

This is a great change from the old rule of the Joint Chiefs, that increases in appropriations for any single service automatically led to increases in the appropriations of the competing services, whether these were needed or not.

In the main, however, the agreement that has now been reached signifies a triumph for the civilian element of the defense establishment, and especially for Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett. The new climate in which agreement of the Joint Chiefs became possible was largely created by the hard work of Lovett, and by the constant efforts of the two coordinating committees, composed respectively of the service secretaries and under secretaries.

Moreover, the outlook for compromise was very far from hopeful even at the end of the period, some weeks ago, when the Joint Chiefs hardly left their conference table for ten days on end. At that time, their prospective disagreement was reported to Secretary Lovett. He had already established another new priciple, that he would no longer accept a simple "split paper," such as the Joint Chiefs regularly produced in the past; but would insist that a report of disagreement be accompanied by a formal request from the Joint Chiefs for a final settlement of their differences by the civilian authority.

When Lovett quietly indicated that his new principle would be insisted upon, the Joint Chiefs went back to work and hammered out their compromise. In every way this is a great and reassuring event.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

A Programless Party

Wherever one goes these days among Republican businessmen, the conversation soon veers around to "Who will be the candidates?" "Will it be Eisenhower or Taft?" "Will Truman run again?" "Can we ever get rid of that gang in Washington?"

And as usual with businessmen, they seek a candidate with skill in salesmanship. Can he sell himself to labor, to the farmer, to young people under 30?

Four times, the Republican party devoted itself to salesmanship. They nominated the genial Alf Landon, really a delightful person with a fine mind, because it was believed that he could be sold as a resurrected Abe Lincoln. They picked up Wendell Willkie and fell flat with him. Twice the banner was entrusted to Tom Dewey, but his salesmanship was inadequate.

Many of these Republican businessmen are now turning to General Eisenhower because they assume that his name is a wonderful trademark. They do not pretend to be sure that he is a Republican; they do not know what his program for international relations or the domestic economy may be. They put it on the line that no one can defeat Ike Eisenhower.

I have heard that twice before. No one was supposed to be able to defeat Wendell Willkie. In those days, I was very close to the National Association of Manufacturers and you can hardly imagine the optimism that exuded from every industrialist's pore. But Roosevelt defeated Willkie and if the truth must be told, the fact that large numbers of Republicans did not vote that year played a part in the defeat. The same kind of optimism was evident when Dewey ran against Truman. In fact, the news that Dewey was defeated sounded unbelievable.

The answer may be that the Republicans have had no program since 1932. "Me-tooism" produces nothing substantial. If there is no objection to the guiding principles of the Truman administration, why not vote for Truman? Eisenhower may be more attractive personally than Truman, but if there is no basic difference in principles or methods, what makes Eisenhower or Taft or Dewey or anybody superior to Truman? Some blurt the word, character.

Maybe that is what the businessmen believe that they can sell, but it seems to me that without a program, it will be very difficult to establish that one man's character is so very different from another's. Character is such an imponderable that one man's likes may be another's hatred and for no rational or understandable reason.

James F. Byrnes, governor of South Carolina, in 1949 stated the program of the opposition to Truman in a speech in Biloxi, Mississippi. He said:

". . . Our first line of defense is not the Elbe or the Rhine; it is a sound, solvent American economy. And that economy is now threatened.

"The people who settled this country did not come here to establish a government. They were seeking liberty, not security. They were seeking an opportunity to enjoy freedom, the freedom of being let alone."

He said further:

"We must emphasize the freedom of the individual who by his initiative has made America prosperous. And we cannot very well boast of freedom under the American system if we are going to change that system and force the people to surrender more liberties to a centralized government."

In a word, what Byrnes proposed —and what the Democratic Senators Byrd and George have so often emphasized—is the necessity of subordinating our international relations to our domestic necessities. Such a program, if fearlessly defined and honestly stated, could open a challenging debate on obligations, responsibilities and commitments abroad and to our own people. It would be as great a campaign as 1896. There would be no "me-tooism," no improvisations, no saying one thing in one state and just the opposite in some other state. It would not involve the technical question as to who is more photogenic on television.

It would surely not be concerned with the advantages of silence on crucial issues on the assumption that a closed mouth but a flexible mind loses no votes.

Thus far, the politicians among the Republicans are becoming too dependent upon the disclosure of Democratic corruption, while the businessmen overemphasize the salesmanship of a candidate. Neither, it seems to me, will suffice to win unless the Republicans develop a constructive program as Governor Byrnes defined, or even a stronger one. A constructive program will have to offer an alternative to the fair deal imitation of Fabian socialism.

Trial Opens In Suit Against Keyser Doctor

The $30,000 damage suit of Mrs. Stella Hanlin, of Lonaconing, against Dr. Thomas E. Bess, of Keyser, W. Va., opened yesterday in federal court at Martinsburg, W. Va., before a jury with Judge William E. Baker presiding.

In his opening statement to the jury yesterday, Edward J. Ryan, this city, counsel for Mrs. Hanlin, stated that his client was riding in a car operated by her husband, Pete Hanlin, on May 15, 1950, when a car owned by Dr. Bess and driven by William O'Conner, now in the Army, failed to make a curve and crashed into the Hanlin machine.

Ryan said Mrs. Hanlin suffered permanent and painful injuries to her back. O'Conner was not in court yesterday, as a process was not served on him.

Ryan said that in the car with O'Conner was Miss Mary Bess, daughter of Dr. Bess. The attorney also claimed that Pete Hanlin had driven off the road so that only the left wheels were touching the highway.

Mrs. Hanlin testified that she has to wear a brace on her back and will be required to do so the rest of her life. She also said she is unable to do her work as a housewife and also is unable to work at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company where she was employed.

Assisting Ryan in the case is Clarence E. Martin, of Martinsburg.

D. H. Rodgers, Jr., of Martinsburg, is counsel for Dr. Bess.

How Dirty

To complete their field work, researchers marked off on their work maps a 50-mile stretch of river between Luke, Md., and Paw Paw, W. Va., two points where pollution is relatively slight.

At 14 strategic spots they dotted the maps with sampling stations.

Each day the field workers drove and hiked to the check points to collect samples. The samples were brought to Cumberland for testing in a laboratory trailer loaned by the Public Health Service.

There they studied their samples for acidity and alkalinity, solid content, proportion between mineral and organic content, oxygen content, and a complicated but important factor known as biochemical oxygen demand.

This oxygen demand factor shows the scientists how much oxygen is consumed by microscopic plants and animals living in waste materials dumped into the river.

These tiny organisms often take so much oxygen from the water that none is left for fish. At many points, game fish are unable to survive in the river.

Working with Fuhrman on the project are Roland Austin and George Garrett, Public Health Service chemists; Louis Otts, sanitary engineering professor at the University of Maryland; Earl Rice of the Washington sewage treatment plant, and J. Henry Schlipp, sanitary engineer of the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission.

Fuhrman, who is conducting the survey as field work toward his doctorate from Johns Hopkins University, believes his report will bring the constant battle against pollution a step nearer success.

He expects to file a preliminary report with the Commission by the end of 1951.

William A. Miller, Jr., student of Allegany High School assisted the chemists.

Official Explains New Wage Laws

A government spokesman today warned small employers that many are in danger of violating the law because they do not think wage stabilization applies to their employes.

William Hargadine, Jr., regional director of the Department of Labor's wage and hour and public contracts divisions, said information is being received indicating an increasing number of small employers may be exposing themselves to penalties because of their ignorance of the law.

"This is especially true of small employers in outlying areas," Hargadine said, "but failure to comply with the Defense Production Act could result in a $10,000 fine, a sentence of one year, or both, as well as the disallowance of the unauthorized pay roll for tax and other governmental purposes.

Hargadine suggested that employers contact local Wage-Hour offices for more complete information on the wage stabilization program. In Maryland, it is located at 408 Old Town Bank Building, Baltimore.

You may say, "Everybody knows the answer to that question." Unfortunately, everybody doesn't! A good many people have some very wrong ideas about stock prices. And that kind of misinformation doesn't do anyone any good. So, let's look at the facts.

When you buy or sell stock on the New York Stock Exchange, the price is decided by you and all other investors bidding for, or offering to sell, that stock. The most a buyer will pay and the least an owner will take set the price. The price is not decided or "set" by Wall Street or by the Stock Exchange. It is not decided by "big" bankers, "big" brokers or "big" anybody else.

Remember, each company listed on the New York Stock Exchange has just so many shares outstanding. And the orders of people all over the country to buy or sell those shares come to the trading floor of the Exchange. There, prices are arrived at in open competition between brokers representing buyers and sellers . . . and are published promptly for all to see.

In this process, prices reflect the basic law of supply and demand. That is why stock prices change. When public demand for a stock is greater than the amount of stock offered for sale by other investors, then the price is very apt to go up. When the amount of stock offered for sale is greater than demand, then the price will probably go down.

An investor's decision to buy or sell a particular stock reflects his judgment of what it is worth to him. Member firms of the New York Stock Exchange are glad to answer any of your questions about investments . . . without obligation to you.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1. (INS)—Dore Schary, who was home sick for several days, had time to ready stories. Among them was one by Peter Vierlel called "Strategy of Love."

Fred Astaire

Dore, who bought it ten minutes after he read it, asked Betty Cowden and Adolph Green to adopt it, and then immediately told the casting department to get Fred Astaire. So, as soon as the story is written it will be put on the screen, with the one and only Astaire as the star.

Fred plays a television writer who falls in love with a TV star. He dances—she sings. Who she is hasn't yet been decided.

• — • — •

I was talking to Frank McCarthy at 20th, and he told me he would give anything in the world to get Maggie McNamara for his star in "The Facts of Life," a picture he is producing.

"20th has signed Maggie," he said, "but she is tied up in the Chicago company of 'The Moon Is Blue,' and Otto Preminger has a run of the play contract with her, so I don't think I have a chance because I have to start my picture too soon. But, believe me, that girl is a find. I saw her tests."

Frank says "The Facts Of Life," by Lenore Coffee, is about a 20 year old daughter and a 38-year-old mother, who look like a sister team.

• — • — •

Kirk Douglas is learning languages by phonograph records—the quick way. In four weeks he leaves for the Scandinavian countries, Italy and France, in behalf of the United Nations where he will talk to youth groups on democracy.

Kirk's strong line will be that his parents were immigrants, and look what the USA did for him.

Kirk's invitation to talk to these young people came from Ben Cohn, secretary of the United Nations.

You can always expect excitement and gayety wherever Carmen Lig ueroroa is. She creates it.

Carmen is introducing right now to Hollywood one of Mexico's top motion picture producers, Philippe Suberville, who directed Dolores Del Rio in some of her best pictures.

Suberville is being given a royal welcome in Hollywood. He and Carmen were entertained Friday night by George Cuzor and Saturday night by Rita Hayworth at a dinner party in their homes.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Barbara Whiting at the Encore with Matty Malneck, orchestra leader. Apparently Matty and his ex weren't able to get together.

Lisa Ferraday and Pam Blumenthal, who aren't making a secret that they care, at a table for two at Romanoff's.

Doris Duke and Gilbert Roland listening to Matt Dennis at the Captain's Table.

Rosselini has been directing Michele Morgan in a picture called "Seven Sins" on the French Riviera. This he is doing before he begins "Europe 1951," with Ingrid Bergman.

George Stevens, who made "A Place In The Sun" for Paramount, went to see for himself a display he had heard about in a main street second-hand book store. On a table was a copy of "An American Tragedy" with a sign reading "noval adapted from the new picture, "A place In The Sun."

The advance sale on Judy Garland's appearance at the Palace Theatre equals that of any Broadway show opening. She'll be there a minimum of four weeks.

At the Mocambo, Rita Hayworth with Charles Feldman. They were joined by Jack Warner and District Attorney Ernest Roll.

Congratulations to Jimmy and Marcorita Starr. They are expecting a baby in foru weeks. That's one story in which Jimmy scooped all of us.

Mary Cummings is taking her three weeks old daughter, Sharon, to Philadelphia so Bob can see the baby for the first time. He's there in "Faithfully Yours."

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Should a girl "wait for Mr. Right"?

Answer: A girl obviously ought not to marry a man she does not love and respect, but "waiting for Mr. Right" is an unconscious excuse in the great majority of cases. Through no fault of their own, many girls grow up with a deep-rooted fear of men (or of sex, which is much the same thing) yet do not want to admit this is why they cannot fall in love and marry. They prefer to say that they "Just haven't found the right man"—which no one can disprove. The mistaken notion that there is only one "right" man for each woman makes this alibi seem all the more convincing. A girl who is unafraid of marriage rarely fails to find a husband.

Does power make leaders irresponsible?

Answer: It tends to have that effect, writes Dr. Gregory Zilboorg in the Bulletin of the World Federation for Mental Health. One of the chief problems of our time grows out of the fact that although "only so-called psychologically normal leaders (are) capable of bringing about a desirable social order," the more power a leader acquires or is given, the more sheltered he is from the impacts of reality (for one thing, subordinates incline to tell him only what they believe it will please him to hear.) We must try to find a more effective way of giving men authority without relieving them from a sense of responsibility.

Do athletics make a "he-man"?

Answer: Not always, if you accept the idea that a man's role in life properly includes being a good husband and father. For athletic prowess is essentially a Narcissistic or self-centered interest, which may weaken (or be substituted for) the need for feminine love and companionship. The proverbial "man's man" often has left one side of himself undeveloped — possibly because of an unconscious fear of women based on the belief that 'f he let a woman mean too much to him, he would "lose his freedom." The real test of masculinity is the ability to play a man's role in marriage and to set up and maintain a home.

Rehearsal Is Planned

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Like the fosting on a cake, accessories are either fresh, smooth and inviting, or better left off! And just as there are rules for the making of enchanting ices and frostings, so are there for accessorizing:

a. Never use more than three accessories in the same color unless you are working out a monotone costume in neutral colors . A red hat, bag, shoes, gloves. earrings, posy and scarf with a dark outfit is sure to end up looking like a fire sale.

Three Colors Only

b. Equally to be avoided is the opposite extreme. You'll attain only a patchwork quilt effect if you use more than three shades in your accessories for any one costume. Even with three, one should be of the same color as your costume. Example: For a bronzy green suit, a combination that would be both striking and correct is lively-brown shoes, bag and gloves, a golden-toned posy, gold jewelry, and a hat that matches the suit.

c. To prevent clashes, accessories should contain the same underlying tone as the clothes with which they are worn. Example: With a blue-red coat a shell-pink scarf is fine, but a coral-pink scarf has yellow rather than a blue undertone and will result in disharmony.

d. While accessories need not be gaudy or out-sized, they should never be dinky. Choose those that are in proportion to your size, as forthright and as handsome as your budget allows.

Accessory Suggestions

e. Never select an accessory that does not point up your clothes and the hour at which they are worn. Example: To set off the shaggy fabrics in daylight hours, consider a tapered-toe calf pump or tie shoe (no relation to the oxford), mellow hose, a calf "accordion" or envelope bag, a longer-length glace kid glove, a flash of wildly-striped satin for your throat and a streak of gold or silver for your jewelry.

Artistic skill is evidenced when there is a contrast such as a shiny satin pillbox with a dull poodle cloth coat; a luxurious bit like a fur muff with a tweed suit; a single spot of color like a turquoise glove with all black; a jeweled note such as an important piece of real or fake turquoise, topaz, pearl, or colored stone; an unexpected flare, like a gray or beige pump and pale stockings with a dark costume; or a giddy fillip as in a black pump with a red heel.

Accessories are to add interest. Make sure that yours do!

New York Giants Will Seek Pennant In Playoff Today

Hearn Bests Branca 3-1 In Opener

Pafko, Thomson, Irvin Hit Homers In Tense Battle

BROOKLYN, Oct. 1 (AP) — Jim Hearn pitched the New York Giants to a 3-1 opening victory over Brooklyn today in their best-of-three playoff for the National League pennant on home runs by Bobby Thomson and Monte Irvin. A crowd of 30,707, saw Andy Pafko give the Dodgers their only run with a second-inning homer.

Thomson's homer with Irvin on base in the fourth gave Hearn a lead he never yielded. Irvin's eight-inning blast, his fifth off Ralph Blanca, gave the big right-hander a little insurance.

Jim Hearn

Hearn allowed five hits, all singles except Pafko's homer. From the fifth on he pitched hitless ball in the last 4⅓ innings.

Get Only Five Hits

The Giants got only five hits off Branca in his eight inning workout but Big Ralphie walked five and hit one. He nipped Irvin on the left elbow in the fourth, shortly before Thomson drove deep into the lower leftfield seats.

Clarence Podbielan gave up the sixth and final hit—a double by Al Dark—in the ninth.

The Dodgers had a mild threat going in the last of the ninth when Peewee Reese walked with one out. It seemed Jackie Robinson, yesterday's winning hero, would get another chance to bat, but Duke Snider hit into a game-ending double play.

The series continues tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. (EST) at the Polo Grounds where a third, if necessary, will be played Wednesday. The winner goes into the world series with the New York Yankees, starting Thursday at Yankee Stadium.

Double Play Ends Game

The Dodgers nibbled vainly at Hearn and had him reeling in the fourth, after singles by Duke Snider and a fine hit and run blow by Jackie Robinson, and in the eighth and ninth, when he walked Gil Hodges and Peewee Reese respectively.

But each threat was sternly erased by double plays, the oddest being the final one of four the Giants engineered during the day. With one gone, Reese on first and Snider representing the "tying run" at the plate, the Duke belted a fierce grounder which first-baseman Whitey Lockman pulled down.

Whitey stamped on first base, then wheeled and snared Reese in in a run-down which was climaxed when little Eddie Stanky made a hard dive for Reese's flying spikes and nailed him for the final out of the game.

The Giants threatened from the fifth inning on to turn the game into a rout. But the last-ditch pitching of Branca and Bud Podbielan stranded eight.

Maglie May Pitch

Branca had the Giants popping up and hitting to the outfield most of the time. The Dodgers came up with only two assists, both on sacrifice bunts. The records for least assists in one game is none and is shared by Cleveland and St. Louis of the American League.

With the big victory in sight tonight, Durocher was torn between throwing his finest pitcher, Sal Maglie, at the Flock tomorrow with only two days' rest or taking a chance on Sheldon Jones, a sometimes brilliant but often erratic righthander. Maglie, winner of 23 games in the regular season, said today his arm was a little tired, but expressed willingness to give it a go if Leo wished him to.

Campanella pulled a muscle while stretching a hit in yesterday's titanic 14-inning win over the Phils, and his inability to break out of a slow trot hurt the Dodgers' chances of getting back into the ball game in the fourth inning today.

With one away, Duke Snider scratched a single through Eddie Stanky at second, the ball taking a

Dodger Infield Rated The Best For Series Play

Edges Both Yanks And Giants Defense

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodger infield of Gil Hodges, Jackie Robinson, Pee Wee Reese and Billy Cox, is stronger than the inner-cordon of the New York Yankees and slightly better than that of the New York Giants.

Brooklyn's quartet has driven in 320 runs and socked 76 homers compared to 2,398 runs batted in and 44 home runs by the Yanks' two platoon unit and 275 runs driven in and 70 homers by the Giants' starting infield.

Hodges, the long-ball clouting and brilliant fielding first baseman, has a decided edge at first base over the Giants' Whitey Lockman and the Yanks' trio of ancient Johnny Mize, Johnny Hopp and Joe Collins.

The 27-year-old Hodges wound up the regular season Sunday with 102 runs batted in and 39 homers. Mize, Collins and Hopp, matched Hodges' RBI today but accounted for only 23 home runs.

Lockman, a converted outfielder playing his first season at the bag, knocked home 71 tallies and clouted 12 home runs. Hodges is the superior fielder.

The Dodger second base pair of Robinson and Reese enjoys a wide advantage in the runs batted in column over the Giant combine of Ed Stanky and Al Dark and the Yanks' Phil Rizzuto and Gerry Coleman.

Robinson and Reese have driven home 168 runs and whacked 28 homers. Stanky and Dark have batted in 110 markers and also belted 28 four-baggers. Rizzuto and Coleman have driven in only 86 runs and hit five homers.

Both Rizzuto and Coleman have not performed as well at bat and afield as they did last season. Coleman, because of weak hitting and poor fielding, was benched at times for Rookie Gil McDougald who manned third base most of the season.

The Giants, in Bobby Thomson, have an edge offensively at third. Thomson, transferred from the outfield to the hot corner, drove in 94 runs and clouted 30 homers.

Brooklyn's Billy Cox, hailed in some quarters as the best fielding third baseman since Pittsburgh's Hall of Famer Pie Trayner, also enjoyed a good year at the plate. Cox batted in 50 runs and slugged nine homers, his best output since 1947.

McDougald, the Yanks' leading hitter with a .306 batting mark, has alternated at third with the left-handed hitting Bobby Brown, who rises to the heights in world series competition. McDougald and Brown combined to drive in 114 runs and hit 20 homers.

Rocky Bridges and Wayne Terwilliger are the Dodgers' utility infielders while the Giants have Dave Williams, Hank Thompson, Bill Rigney, Hank Schenz and Jack Lohrke. Billy Martin is the Yanks' No. 1 utility infielder.

Louis-Marciano Date, Bout Site Changed

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (INS)—The International Boxing Club today shifted the Joe Louis-Rocky Marciano heavyweight fight from Oct. 11 at the Polo Grounds to Oct. 26 at Madison Square Garden.

IBC President James Norris said the change was made to avoid the possibility of a conflict with the world series. Top price for tickets will continue at $25, and Norris said Polo Grounds tickets already purchased may be exchanged for Garden seats.

NO HAPPY FACES HERE—The gloom was thick and it was a long and weary road back to the dressing room for the Brooklyn Dodgers as they trooped along the underpass after dropping the first encounter in their best-of-three series with the New York Giants for the National League flag. The score was 3-1. Heads are bowed as (left to right) Andy Pafko, Gil Hodges, Duke Snider, Carl Furillo, Preacher Roe and Roy Campanella trudge back to the showers. The second game will be played today in the Polo Grounds.

Sports Notes

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

Quite a dispute on that third base call by Umpire Augie Diaz in Hyndman-Westvaco playoff series . . . Proved once again umpires' decisions are generally final . . . Alumni teams usually are door mats for varsity aggregations . . . Not so at Allegany where the grads take a distinct liking to beating their successors . . . Hope LaSalle's masterminding on offense improves as the team finishes out its tough gridiron schedule . . .

Dick Widdows

Experts took a licking on their first week's selections in the college football wars . . . Shaughnessy playoffs in baseball once again proved the downfall of pennant-winning teams . . . Witness the loss of Keyser and Moose nines in the Bi-State and Interstate Leagues . . . Central's Tigers will be defending champs for the second straight year in the WMI Soccer League which opens Oct. 5 . . .

Well, the Red Sox did it again . . . Blew six straight games to bow out of the running in the American League race and gave the Yankees their 18th pennant . . . And the Cleveland Indians, who last year defeated Detroit five out of six in the last week of the season to end the Tigers' hopes of winning the flag, received the same dose in reverse this year when the Bengals knocked them off three in a row last week . . .

Albert Decker, Ridgeley High fullback, almost got thrown out of Friday night's game with Allegany for trying to separate two players who started swinging fists during the unusually rough fracas . . . Hagerstown, which was supposed to have one of Mel Henry's strongest elevens, finally won its first game in three starts when the Maroon and Grey downed Westminster, 37-7, Friday night . . . Westminster, incidentally, plays Fort Hill later this season . . . The New York Giants' feat of tying the Brooklyn Dodgers in the final week of the hectic National League race after trailing 13½ games late in August probably will go down in the record books as one of the game's most stirring comebacks . .

Dick Widdows, Allegany's kicking fullback, thrice put the ball into the end zone on kickoffs in the Ridgeley tilt . . . He also tried an extra point kick from placement from the 25-yard line after an AHS penalty which just barely missed, going wide of the goal posts and the last moment.

Phil Carolan, in explaining his protest against the ineligible pass receiver penalty called against LaSalle in Sunday's game with St. Justin's at Pittsburgh, noted the official who called it was unable to name the player guilty of the infraction or give his number . . . It may have been an end Carolan told the official but to no avail . . . Incidentally the whistle ending the game blew on the disputed play and St. Justin's actually scored its winning touchdown after the game was over.

Bob Pence's Allegany eleven will have no pushover when it meets Frank Wimer's Elkins High team Nov. 10 . . . The Elkins squad bested Morgantown last week, 21-7, after the latter had turned back Fairmont East . . . Elkins also holds an impressive 18-13 verdict over Victory High of Clarksburg . . . Glad to see all those Cumberland area athletes making good on the University of Maryland gridiron power.

Fort Hill Returns To Gridiron Wars Friday; Meets Martinsburg

Allegany And LaSalle On Road This Weekend

Fort Hill will return to the gridiron wars Friday when the Sentinels play host to Coach John Corbourne's Martinsburg Bulldogs at the local stadium. Game time will be 8 p. m.

The Sentinels were idle last week after playing at Fairmont the week before and it will mark the first time in three weeks the Scarlet and White has performed before its home town followers.

Cumberland's other two gridiron powers—Allegany and LaSalle—both visit out-of-town foes this weekend with the Campers traveling to Hagerstown to collide with Coach Mel Henry's Maroon and Grey Friday night and LaSalle meeting Altoona Catholic in the Pennsylvania city Sunday afternoon.

Fort Hill has captured 10 of 14 decisions with the Bulldogs, losing one and tying three. Martinsburg's lone victory came in 1938. The Bulldogs have won two of three games this season as have the Sentinels.

Allegany also holds an edge over its traditional rival in Washington County, having won 15, lost 10 and tied 2. Henry's powerhouse has had rough sledding to date, winning only one of three, while the Campers have a 2-1 record.

In other games Friday Keyser is at Ridgeley in a Potomac Valley Conference tilt; Romney visits Moorefield (PVC); West Va. Deaf are at Franklin (PVC); Petersburg at Terra Alta; Thomas at Parsons, and Roaring Spring is at Bedford in a night tilt.

On the college front Friday, Potomac State is at Newport News, Va., to meet Newport Tech. The Catamounts will be seeking their third straight triumph.

Saturday Coach Joe Hoopengardner's Beall High eleven travels to Frederick to meet Frederic High under the tutelage of Homer Brooks. The Cadets won the only meeting between the two schools, 12-7, in 1946.

Dodger Fan Keeps Vigil Outside Gates

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—As Dodger fans swarmed into Ebbets Field today to watch their team play the New York Giants, 62-year-old Sam Maxwell sat calmly outside the bleacher entrance—where he's been since Sept. 24.

He wants to see the world series—not the league play-off.

Sam is still equipped with a chair, blankets and warm clothes, just as he appeared when he showed up last Monday morning. He was confident 'way back then that the Dodgers would cop the National League pennant.

Even with the play-off going on, Sam isn't excited. He's still sure the Dodgers are "in."

He had to turn his radio up loud to drown the roars of the crowd inside the ball park. Asked why he didn't go inside, Maxwell said:

"I'm no Giant fan. I'm only interested in the Dodgers—playing in the world series, that is."

Yanks Work Out; No Fans Present

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—The New York Yankees, champions of the American League for the third straight year, practiced at Yankee Stadium today in preparation for their defense of the world championship—and not a single photographer or reporter was on hand.

The Yanks, who clinched the 1951 pennant last Friday and must wait until Thursday to meet the winner of the Brooklyn Dodger-New York Giant playoff in the National League, will work out again tomorrow and Wednesday.

Two A's Win AL Batting Titles

Fain Hits .344; Zernial 33 Homers

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (AP)—Ferris Fain, Philadelphia's left-handed hitting first sacker, toway was unofficially crowned as the Athletics' first American League batting champion in 18 years with a .344 percentage.

First A's star to win the title since Jimmy Foxx did in 1933, with .356, 29-year-old Fain finished 18 points ahead of Chicago's versatile Minnie Minoso, Cuban Negro rookie-of-the-year candidate, who had .326. Last year's champion, Billy Goodman of Boston with .354, failed to finish in the top ten this year.

Although benched in midseason by a foot injury suffered when he stomped too hard on first base, Fain went to bat 425 times—25 more than the 400 minimum for title consideration—and banged 146 hits.

Fain, a resident of Orinda, Calif., last season batted .282.

Minoso, who circulated between third base and the outfield for the White Sox, collected 173 hits in 350 trips.

Philadelphia's Gus Zernial was the league's power man this season, copping the home-run title with 33 and the runs-batted-in crown with 129.

The American loop's top pitcher, on a percentage basis, was Boston's Ellis Kinder with an 11-2 record for .846. The 1951 strikeout king was New York's Vic Raschi with 164.

Michigan State Top Grid Team In First AP Poll

Maryland Is Ranked 9th; Irish Surprise

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP) — Michigan State College, one of the nation's leading independent football powers, today was ranked as the No. 1 team in the first weekly Associated Press nation-wide poll of the young season.

Coach Biggie Munn's Spartan's from East Lansing, who spanked Michigan, their home state rivals, 25-0 last week, edged out the Golden Bears of California for first place.

The Bears took the runnerup spot by a sparse 28 votes from Tennessee, the team which was accorded the No. 1 spot in a pre-season poll Sept. 10. In last month's balloting, Michigan State was rated the No. 2 outfit.

That was before the teams got into their game suits, however, and trotted onto the gridirons to display their 1951 wares. Michigan State had barely beaten Oregon State the previous Saturday, 6-0, but the Spartans ripped their old Michigan rivals solidly in their second game and drew 37 first place votes out of a total 133 cast.

On the basis of 10 points for first, nine for second, eight for third, and so on, Michigan State stacked up 1,026 points in the poll of sports writers and sportscasters from coast to coast.

California, which came east to rock Pennsylvania, 35-0, and gain a lot of respect from eastern gridiron scribes, had 22 firsts and a total of 962 points. Tennessee, winner over Mississippi State 14-0, polled 27 firsts, and a total of 934 points.

The Oklahoma Sooners, who were voted the No. 1 team in the land a year ago, gained the No. 4 spot on the strength of a convincing 49-7 victory over William & Mary. Oklahoma had 18 first place ballots.

A major surprise, not only to Indiana and a lot of so-called experts, was Notre Dame. The Fighting Irish, who have been voted the nation's top team four times — more than any other team — since the poll was inaugurated in 1936, landed in the No. 5 position.

Notre Dame, beaten last year by Indiana, was supposed to be in the rebuilding process this year, and surprisingly had failed to get a vote in the pre-season poll. But Coach Frank Leahy's lads cracked Indiana, 48-6, with a display of some of the old Notre Dame power, and got quick recognition when it came time to send in the votes.

Others in the first 10 are Texas, which bested Purdue 14-0 after squeezing past Kentucky the previous Saturday, No. 6; Ohio State, which barely got past Southern Methodist, 7-0, No. 7; Illinois, a 27-13 winner over U. C. L. A., No. 8; Maryland, a 54-14 victor over Washington & Lee, No. 9; and Texas A & M, A 20-7 winner over Texas Tech., No. 10.

Three teams which were voted in the first 10 in the pre-season calculations failed to land there in the first official poll.

They were Kentucky, whipped 21-17 by Mississippi; Alabama, which lost Louisiana State, 13-7; and Washington, which had a rough time before beating Minnesota, 25-20. Washington was placed No. 12 behind Georgia Tech, Kentucky was voted No. 17, and Alabama was not in the first 20.

The voting:

1. Michigan State (37)	1,026
2. California (22)	962
3. Tennessee (27)	934
4. Oklahoma (18)	805
5. Notre Dame (9)	720
6. Texas (6)	616
7. Ohio State (1)	430
8. Illinois	294
9. Maryland (4)	237
10. Texas A & M	222
SECOND TEAM
11. Georgia Tech (4)	203
12. Washington (2)	166
13. Georgia (1)	95
14. Princeton	81
15. Oregon State (1)	42
16. Duke	37
17. Kentucky	34
18. Clemson (1)	33
19. Baylor	32
20. Kansas	30

Other teams with points were: Mississippi and Wake Forest 27, Alabama 22, Holy Cross 21, Cornell 20, Northwestern 18, Wisconsin 17, Villanova and Tulane 16, LSU 11, Southern California 10, Arkansas 8, Fordham, Penn State, and Stanford 7, Amherst 6, Texas Christian, Virginia, Cincinnati and Southern Methodist 3, South Dakota State, Yale and Navy 4, U. of San Francisco 3, Minnesota and Drake 1.

Joe Hager, AHS End, Cops 4th Player Of Week Award

JOE HAGER

"Improved Player" Coach Pence Says

Joe Hager, 158-pound senior end playing his second year on the AHS varsity, became the first Allegany player to capture a K of C "Player of the Week" award this season and the fourth selection of the Knights of Columbus committee since the season began.

Hager was picked for his stellar defensive play in Allegany's 52-0 rout of Ridgeley High Friday in the local stadium.

Although the Camper varsity played less than two full quarters in the rout, Hager was particularly effective in turning in Ridgeley's end runs and his blocking and tackling were instrumental in the Blue and White eleven's excellent showing.

Hager "is one of the most improved ball players on the team" Coach Bob Pence said following the game. The lanky end had played outstanding ball against Beall High in Allegany's opening game and his play has been better with each succeeding game, the mentor noted.

In addition to Hager other Alco stalwarts considered for the coveted selection were Ronnie Sisk, quarterback, George Long, center, Charles Eirich, halfback, and Lance Statler, tackle.

Other area high school athletes who have won the Player of the Week award include Dick Beard, Fort Hill, and Bob Arnone and Ray Brown, LaSalle.

Petersburg To Seek Trophy In Sunday Playoff

Merchants To Meet Security Farm Nine

The Petersburg Merchants will seek the Alleghany Baseball League title Sunday when they meet Medium Security Prison nine for the second game in their best-of-three playoff series.

The Merchants copped the pennant in the regular season and are vying for the title and the Sports Shop trophy in the playoffs with the second play Security team. The Merchants copped the opener last Sunday by a 25-3 score.

In winning the league bunting for the second time in the four years the loop has operated Petersburg posted a 17-3 mark for the season under the leadership of Manager Skin Alkire.

In four years under Alkire's management Petersburg won 68 games while losing 20 during regular season play. In 1948, they ended the regular season in a tie with Parsons with 22-6 marks and lost out in the playoffs.

The Merchants copped their first pennant in 1949 with a 16-4 record and won the title and trophy in the playoffs with Marlinton and Parsons. Last season the Merchants finished second to Franklin with a 13-7 mark.

Ray Hull, Petersburg right fielder, won the loop batting title with .446 and Wally Eaton topped the league's hurlers with a 9-0 record while striking out 74 victims.

Jimmy Harman smacked out 39 hits to pace the league in this department and Henry DeNault had 30 RBI's for the best record in that category. Norris Dolly tied for homerun honors with four.

Giants To Mail World Series Ducats

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (INS)—The New York Giants announced today that world series tickets for the Polo Grounds will be placed in the mail tomorrow, although the Giants still are one game away from winning the National League title.

World series reserved seats not yet allotted due to printing delays will go on sale at the Giants' downtown office tomorrow morning at 9 a. m.

Stan Musial NL Batting Champ

Playoff Contests Count In Averages

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—Although the official averages have not been released, Stan Musial, 30-year-old St. Louis Cardinal's slugger, has won his fifth National League batting crown.

Musial finished the regular season Sunday with a .355 average. The playoff games between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Giants count in the averages, but no one can catch Stan The Man. Jackie Robinson of the Dodgers is closest in third place with a .335 mark after Sunday's game. But he can't pick up 20 points. Ritchie Ashburn of the Philadelphia Phillies is second with .344.

Rounding out the top ten as of Sunday are Roy Campanella, Brooklyn, .327, Monte Irvin, New York, .313, Johnny Wyrostek, Cincinnati, .311, Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh, .309, Al Dark, New York, .306, Carl Furillo, Brooklyn, .301 and Johnny Metkovich, Pittsburgh, .294.

Musial appeared in 152 games and went to bat 578 times. The Card mauler pounded out 205 hits including 30 home runs, 12 triples and 30 doubles. He scored 124 runs and batted in 108.

Kiner finished the season Sunday leading in runs scored and home runs. Kiner nosed out Musial, 125-124 in runs scored and had 42 homers to his credit to 39 for Gil Hodges of Brooklyn. Hodges has a chance to overhaul Kiner during the playoffs.

Other departmental leaders were, runs batted in, Irvin, New York, 120; hits, Ashburn, Philadelphia, 221.

Preacher Roe of the Dodgers was the loop's top pitcher after the regular season closed Sunday with a 22-3 record for a .880 average. Sal Maglie of the Giants was second with a 23-6 .793 mark.

Horse Tying Hearing Ends

No Decision Is Made In The Case

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 1—(AP)—The Ohio State Racing Commission today wound up its hearings into charges that tails of horses were tied to starting gates at Ohio running races.

Trainer Frank Duke of Los Angeles was suspended until Dec. 1 for an attack on an assistant starter at Hamilton race track Labor Day. Duke claimed the starter tied the tail of Duke's horse to the starting gate.

The commission did not rule directly on the tail-tying claim. It also postponed a decision in the case of George T. Becknell of Emory, Tex., who claimed the tail of his odds-on favorite, Detroit Tiger, was tied to the Hamilton starting gate Aug. 22.

Becknell, like Duke, was suspended indefinitely by Hamilton track stewards after making the charge. Both men appealed to the state commission. Duke, however, told the commission he knew he should not have struck the starter but maintained he was carried away by his anger over the alleged tail-tying.

A horse owner, two trainers and two jockeys testified at today's hearing they had seen horses' tails tied to starting gates of Ohio tracks.

Blonde Has Bout With 200-Lb. Deer

DENVER, Oct. 1 (AP)—A six-foot blonde who works at the Colorado Capitol told today how she went fishing and ran into a hand-to-antler combat with a 200-pound buck deer.

Maxine Bloomquist, said she came out of it with bruises on the thigh and arm. But the deer lost the tip of one antler.

Maxine went fishing last weekend South of Estes Park, Colo. The deer approached as Maxine stood on a stream bank. It lowered its head but retreated when the fisherwoman cried, "shoo."

"I turned my back and just then —whammo! He attacked from the rear. I've got a great big bruise on my thigh where he hit me.

"It knocked me down. He was standing over me so I reached up and grabbed him by the antlers. I broke the tip off one. When I got to my feet, I twisted his ear and he jerked away and ran off a little distance."

This gave Maxine a chance to dash to her automobile. The bewildered deer just wandered off.

AHS Jayvees Win 25 To 0 Over Ridgeley

Dick Rank Tallies Twice For Winners

Sparked by Dick Rank's brilliant running and passing and the fine defensive play of George Reynolds, Herb Gaither, Bob Reiber and Freddie Wartzack Coach Jim Hosack's Allegany High Jayvees trounced Ridgeley High's junior varsity eleven yesterday at Campobello by the score of 25 to 0.

The "Little Campers" tallied one in each period with Rank twice carrying the mail and passing to End Bob Collins for a third score. Don Rice, diminutive ninth grader, romped 16 yards for the other tally.

It was the second straight victory for the Alco eleven whch last week defeated Beall 12-0. Beall will play host to the Junior Campers in their next contest.

Allegany's first score came on a Dick Rank pass to Collins which the end caught on the 10 and raced over for the six-pointer on a play covering 35 yards.

Rank then tallied the second td on a reverse off the weak side of the line, traversing 40 yards for the counter. Rice's 16 yard run accounted for the third score, this also a reverse play, while Rank intercepted a pass thrown by Ridgeley Quarterback Bobo and traveled 40 yards for the final touchdown on the last play of the game.

Alco racked up nine first downs and completed one of two passes for 35 yards, adding another 209 yards rushing. Ridgeley was held to 124 yards running and three first downs. The Little Blackhawks failed to complete an aerial in six tries with three being intercepted.

Outstanding defensively for Ridgeley were Carr, Van Meter and Margheritta while Bobo and Clark shone on offensive. The lineups:

bad hop, and Robinson slashed a hot one down the first base line which went cleanly through Whitey Lockman's legs. Those were, incidentally, the only two safeties the Flock strung together all afternoon.

Campy Is Doubled

In this situation, with Jones up and throwing briskly in the Giants' bullpen, Campanella smacked a roller down to Alvin Dark at short. The Giants' captain fielded it cleanly and tossed to Stanky for the force at second, but little Eddie's relay to first pulled Lockman far off the bag. A normal runner would have beaten it, and Snider would have been across with the tying run, but it was a simple matter for Lockman to recover and put the ball on Campy as he lumbered ly.

That was, as it turned out, the last serious threat the Dodgers were to make. Pafko reached first safely to lead off the fifth as Dark messed up a grounder hit straight at him, but the next batter, Gil Hodges, struck out and Westrum's perfect peg to second doubled up Pafko. Billy Cox then singled, but it was a useless gesture.

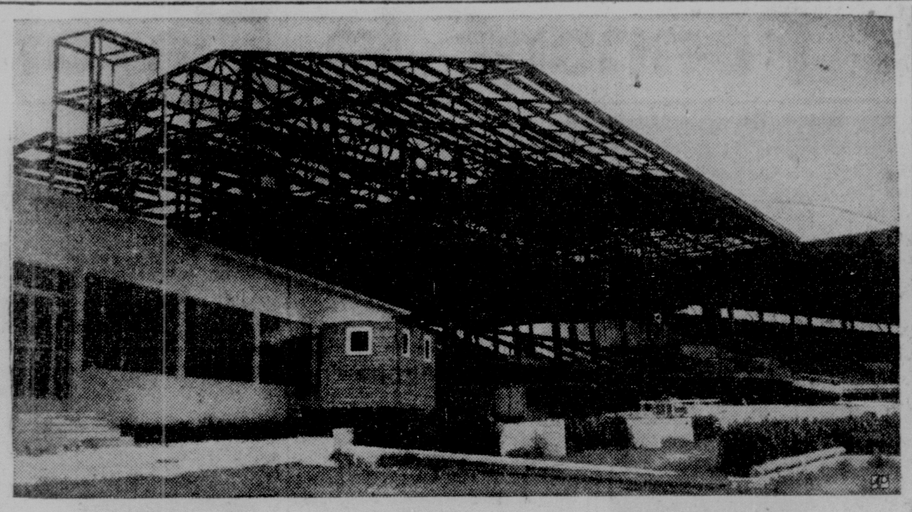
After retiring the home forces in order through the sixth and seventh, Hearn finally lost the fine edge of his control and passed Hodges to open the eighth. There was some fine, hearty cheering from the sands and renewed activity in the Giants' bullpen as Cox took his stance, but both died down when the dodger third baseman lined to Don Mueller in right field.

Russell Punch Hits

That brought up the game's first and only punchhitter, the veteran Jim Russell, to bat from Branca, and the best Jim would do was a shot to short which Dark promptly turned into a double play.

One was down in the fourth when the Giants salted the game away. One of Branca's fast balls cracked Irvin on his left elbow, and the Negro leftfielder received some emergency treatment before the game continued. Lockman then flied deep to Snider close to the left center wall for the second out, and that brought Thomson, the Flying Scot.

Branca whipped the first two pitches past Bobby for strikes, and then, instead of wasting one, came right down the slot in hopes of getting a quick third. Instead, Thomson met the pitch squarely and drove it on a long arc about a dozen seats up in the lower stands, near the 360-foot mark. Irvin's insurance wallop in the eighth landed within a few feet of where Bobby's had bounced about.



Gulfstream Clubhouse On The Build

Gulfstream Park's new three-story club house is rapidly nearing completion. It looks like a spider web now but when finished it will be a modern edifice ready to accommodate the south Florida race track patrons for the 1952 meeting which starts March 4. AP Newsfeatures

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — (INS) — This is Newspaper Week. It is altogether possible and even understandable that you may regard that simple declarative sentence as packing all the importance of a flash to the effect that Newspaper Week will be followed, in time, by do-nut week, eat-squash-week, save-the-dogwood-week, and be-kind-to-porcupines-week.

But this is its prime importance.

We're just about the last people on earth who can have a Newspaper Week. That's as true as you're reading this.

We're just about the last people on earth who have newspapers that are not forced at gun-point to carry the propaganda of the government in power.

That fact is as important to you as the existence of courts where you may be tried by a jury of your peers. It's as important as free and unfettered elections. It insures freedom of speech, freedom of movement; your right to pursue happiness.

The American who is rooted to his own land comes to regard his newspaper, and the printed word, as a routine part of life. Like getting up in the morning, going to work, making a buck, listening to the radio, watching television, breathing.

• — • — •

One must travel a great deal to comprehend just how precious is this bundle of newsprint which brings you the events of the world, instructs, entertains, and sometimes helps shape your opinions.

One must know, for example, what happened to the free press of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, China and a few other countries that were overrun by the Communists. One must know, too, what happened to the once-fine papers of Germany, when Hitler came in; the papers of Italy, when Mussolini took over—and papers of the calibre of La Prensa, when Peron's goons moved in.

There is no press, in the finer sense of the word, when a dictator is functioning. Its freedom is the first freedom crushed after a country succumbs. The press is a casualty even before the church or the synagogue or the multiple party political setup. It must be brought under control — every dictator knows — because it is closest to the free hearts of man and best expresses what is on his mind and tongue.

It is a numbing experience for an American to see a newspaper throttled. I will never forget a spinal chill one day at the Ritz in Madrid when I went by the desk to pick up my copy of the European edition of the Herald Tribune and the man behind the desk looked furtively from side to side and said there would be no paper that day.

• — • — •

A dour reflection on the Franco government had appeared in its pages, so it was banned, he said. He had not seen the article himself, he said, but had been told that because of it there would be no paper that day. He said "too bad," with a shrug, and seemed a little surprised when I suggested that that was an understatement — that it was a crime, not "too bad."

This is the greatest newspaper country in history. It has made us the most enlightened, free-speaking, free-voting, best-intentioned people in the world. If we don't like the editorial policy or the makeup or the Broadway columnist or the comics of a paper the easiest thing in the world is to buy a rival paper that suits us. And it is just about as easy to take pen in hand and bawl the hell out of the editor of the offending paper, as generations of Americans have done and will, we hope, continue to do.

Most of us have lived through the period which saw the rise in this country of radio, television and newsreels as disseminators of news and thoughts. They are excellent outlets and will get even better. But nothing will or can ever take the place of the written record.

Baering Down On The News

The latest Manhattan project dribbled out like toothpaste in a stove-pipe. The main canary swallowed his police whistle. They say he had his choice of eighteen.

No witness, there's no case. So it was thrown out like a drunk at a wedding.

• — • — •

We knew two weeks ahead that the guest soloist was going to get tonsilitis of the testimony.

You know how the case collapsed. Just like the walls of Jericho after they had been okayed by the building inspectors. Well, that's New York. Some days a dime can lay you up.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

BID OPPONENT'S SUIT

WHENEVER an opponent has made a high pre-emptive suit bid, with the intention of shutting you out, it is pretty likely to cause discomfiture if you hold a powerful hand. He has taken several rounds of bidding away from your side, making it impossible to exchange all the information you would like to with your partner. It may even be that his call was so high you don't dare bid over it, but can only content yourself with a business double. But if you can afford to bid over it at all, consider making a bid of his suit at the next higher level to see what your partner then prefers to do.

	♠ 9 5 4 ♥ A 8 7 6 5 4 2 ♦ None ♣ 9 7 4
♠ 10 8 7 3 2 ♥ 9 3 ♦ Q 7 ♣ 10 6 5 2	N W E S	♠ K 6 ♥ Q J ♦ K J 9 8 6 4 3 2 ♣ 8
	♠ A Q J ♥ K 10 ♦ A 10 5 ♣ A K Q J 3

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1. 1 ♣ (?)	Pass	1 ♥	5 ♣
2. 2 ♣ (?)	Pass	2 ♥	5 ♣

Regardless of whether you had opened with 1-Club, as in the first sequence, or 2-Clubs, as in the second, East's 5-Diamonds call would put you in a mean pinch. What South actually had done on this rubber hand was to bid just a modest 1-Club, since he didn't want to assume the great risk of a negative No Trump response by North to a two-bid, which might mean ruination if the lead came through the heart K. He thought of an original 3-No Trumps, but was shy a point according to the point-count method he followed, which prescribes from 25 to 27, and he was too strong for just 2-No Trumps.

But his problem after the 5-Diamonds was the same, regardless of whether his first bid had been 1-Club or 2-Clubs. This South reckoned West as undoubtedly short in diamonds and therefore probably loaded with length in every other suit. He considered bidding small slam in clubs or 5-No Trumps or 6-Hearts, but feared them all, so contented himself with a mere double, which was left in. The contract was beaten four tricks for 700 points, whereas even a small slam vulnerable would have been much better, and grand slam was possible in clubs, hearts or No Trumps. Maybe 6-Diamonds would have been the best call. North probably would have then bid 5-Hearts and South could next do what seemed best.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ A 10 ♥ 3 ♦ A K J 6 4 2 ♣ J 8 4 3
♠ K 8 ♥ K Q 10 ♦ 8 7 3 ♣ Q 10 7 5 2	N W E S	♠ Q J 7 4 3 ♥ 9 7 6 5 ♦ 4 2 ♣ Q ♣ 9
	♠ 9 6 5 2 ♥ A J 8 ♦ 10 9 5 ♣ A K 6

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

If the club 5 to the J is followed by the spade 2 to the 10 and J, what should East return in order to thwart South's 6-No Trumps?

Stock Market Makes Gain Following Hesitant Start

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP) — The stock market gained ground today after a hesitant start. Gains ran from fractions to a point or more a share but smaller gains predominated by a wide margin.

Advances in the mining group got the advance rolling and oil stocks were quick to follow. Before the session ended, however, about every group had a majority of gains.

The volume was only 1,330,000 shares, the lowest since Aug. 28 when the total was 1,270,000.

In today's transactions there were 552 advances and 285 declines out of 1,066 issues traded. There were 34 new 1951 highs and seven stocks hit new lows.

The most active stock of the day was United Corp., which was ⅛ higher at 4½ on turnover of 39,300 shares. The runnerup was Fedders-Quiggan, up 1⅛ at 15¼ as 36,000 shares changed hands.

Missouri Pacific preferred, the seventh most active stock, gained 2⅝ at 25¾.

The Associated Press averages were up six-tenths at 100.1 on the day's performance with the industrials showing the largest gain—seven-tenths. Rails moved up five-tenths in the averages and utilities gained two-tenths.

Mining stocks were the most general advancers. American Smelting was up 1⅞ at 101 and other gainers in the group included Anaconda, Phelps Dodge, Homestake, Dome, McIntyre and International Nickel.

In the oil group Pure Oil advanced 1¾ at 59⅜. Texas Co. was up 1⅝ at 55¾; Sinclair 1⅛ at 43⅝ and Standard Oil (NJ) a point at 68.

A long list of railroad stocks showed fractional gains. They included Canadian Pacific, Santa Fe, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio and Nickel Plate.

The steels got off to a slow and easy start but wound up the session with fractional advances for U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic.

Busy Grand Jury Hears Testimony Of 30 Persons

First Day's Work Lasts Until 4:30

If yesterday, the first day of the October term of Allegany County Circuit Court, is any indication, the grand jury is in for a busy time this week.

The grand jury questioned some 30 witnesses yesterday before recessing until today at 9:15 a. m. In all, 37 persons had been summoned to testify yesterday, but when the grand jury called a halt to proceedings at about 4:30 p. m., some six or seven still had not testified.

Work Late

Normally, the grand jury rounds out its activities for the day about 3 p. m. and usually no more than 20 witnesses are questioned in a single day.

About 20 more witnesses are scheduled to testify today. Sheriff Edward R. Muir said yesterday the number summoned to appear before the grand jury this week now has expanded to 96, with more expected later.

Julian G. Patrick, chief chemist of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke, is foreman of the grand jury.

Will Report Oct. 15

The petit jurors will not report until 9:15 a. m. Monday, October 15, when criminal trials will begin.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, in his charge to the grand jury yesterday suggested that officials of the Welfare Board be summoned and inquiry made if any unworthy persons are receiving public assistance and that particular reference should be made to absconding husbands whose families are receiving aid, and what effort is being made to locate them and prosecute them for non-support of their wives and minor children.

Judge Harris also told the jurors that they can keep America strong by stamping out crime wherever it exists.

"We probably have no organized or syndicated crime in Allegany county," Judge Harris stated, "but crime, like sin, as a natural corollary of life, exists to some extent almost everywhere."

"By the enforcement of existing laws and the punishment of offenders, criminal acts may be halted, and future offenses prevented," Judge Harris pointed out.

Points To Violence

"Normally, in our county, crimes of a violent or shocking nature are of rare occurence. During the past year, however, such has not been the case. In the southwestern part of our county, unoccupied, unguarded, and isolated properties have been the target for the torch of hoodlum terrorists. Trains have been wrecked, homes and industrial property burned and powder magazines exploded and burned with utter disregard for potential loss of lives and fabulous losses in property.

"Crimes of this nature are planned cooly, calmly, deliberately and maliciously. They are not committed in the heat of passion or because of hunger or some impelling, physical demand. These acts were committed for no reason other than malicious mischief and thrill. They caused at least one valuable industry to cease operating. They may prevent others from locating here. They have caused such terror and unrest in this area that the people are fearful of leaving their homes to take a vacation or for other and necessary reasons.

Enforcement Officers Commended

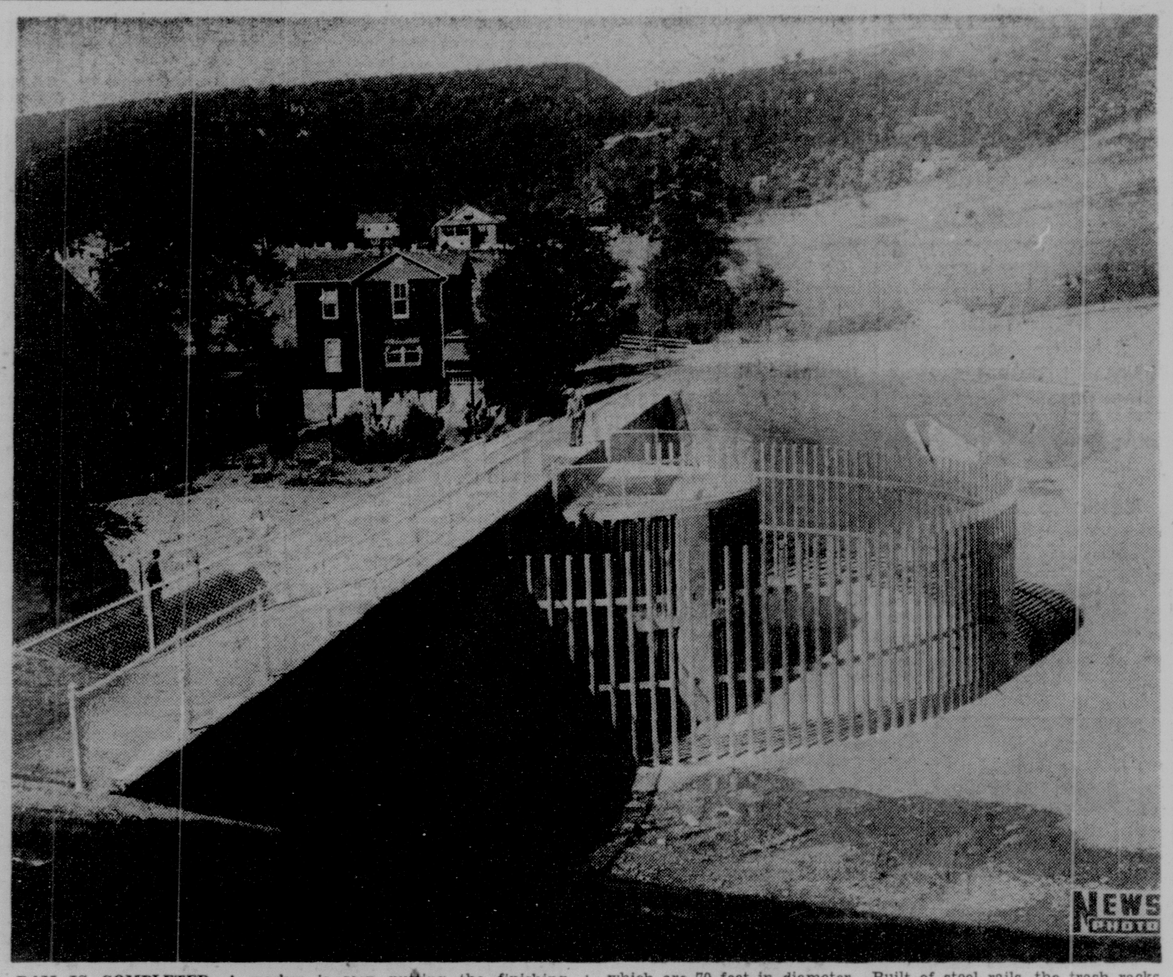
"The good citizens of this county should be free and relieved of this constant fear.

"Some of these thrill seekers have been tried, convicted and sentenced. The state's attorney and the law enforcement officers engaged in these cases are to be commended for their efforts in solving these cases and seeing that the culprits were punished. There is one accused awaiting action of your body in this county and another awaiting action of the Mineral county (W. Va.) authorities on arson charges.

"There may be others who are still free and now planning further depredations of such a nature. My solemn and considered advice to these people, if any such there be, is that they stop and consider that the law enforcement officers will eventually discover them no matter how covertly they plan and execute their depredations; and this court, by its previous sentences, has indicated they will be most severely punished if found guilty.

"There will be presented to your body for consideration other crimes of a most violent and serious nature.

"We have learned, in recent days, that we are not entirely free from narcotic violations. While we know that this is by no means widespread in our community, nevertheless, if your body can bring to light any other violations you will render your county a worthy and signal service," Judge Harris concluded.



DAM IS COMPLETED—A worker is seen putting the finishing touches on the huge detention dam near Furnace Street which will collect flood water from that area as part of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control project. Water collected at the Valley Street detention dam is carried harmlessly to Wills Creek through a 2,700-foot pressure conduit which cost over half a million dollars to construct. Seen clearly in the above photo are the huge trash racks, which are 70 feet in diameter. Built of steel rails, the trash racks are designed to skim off the debris which would otherwise clog the conduits as the water rushes to the dam during heavy cloudbursts. Army Engineers said the racks will probably have to be cleaned after every heavy storm. Work on the Valley Street flood project, which began January 16, 1950, has been completed and the Cumberland Contracting Company is now busy resurfacing the thoroughfare.

Farmers Advised Of Part In Civil Defense Program

Farmers in the Tri-State area have an important Civil Defense role to perform during the current emergency, William G. Barger, county director of Civil Defense, said yesterday.

Barger reminded agriculturists that there is a possibility that their livestock might be affected, if and when an enemy of the United States decided to unleash biological warfare.

The Civil Defense leader cautioned against getting excited about little things, but reminded farmers that they should keep their eyes open for any unusual diseases among their flocks. Farmers are advised to notify their county agent or a veterinarian if their poultry or livestock get suspiciously or seriously ill with a strange disease.

A number of facts about farmers and the possibility of biological warfare were included in an article entitled "It Could Hit Your Farm Tonight," written by Richard Gerstell and Claude Gifford in a recent issue of the magazine, Farm Journal. Gerstell is a consultant to the Civil Defense Administration and Gifford is an associate editor of Farm Journal.

The writers emphasize that an enemy would think twice before he started biological warfare and invited the United States to strike back. "We could wage a pretty terrible biological war ourselves if we had to," they observe.

Germ raids and possible insect attacks on farms would be directed primarily against livestock and crops. They likely would begin in hatcheries, stockyards, sales barns, feed mixing plants, railroad terminals and other centers where large numbers of animals pass through on their way to farms. On the crop front, the targets would include seed houses, fertilizer mixing plants and places where spray materials are made.

The writers emphasize that some of the worst animal plagues are still outside this country.

One of these foreign diseases is Rinderpest, an Asiatic cattle plague that kills nearly 100 per cent of the animals it strikes. Then there is foot-and-mouth disease, an infection that spreads like wildfire, but still has not crossed the Mexican border into the United States.

Another is Glanders, an Old World disease of horses and mules that is highly fatal to humans unless recognized early.

Poultry could be cut down by Fowl pest and foreign strains of Newcastle disease, probably the two most destructive poultry diseases in the world.

In their article, the writers point to the Japanese beetle infiltration as an example of what can happen when the populace is not alert.

Scientists believe, they said, that the Japanese beetle got at least a year's start on us. Even then we probably could have wiped it out completely by spending $50,000. We didn't and today we have beetles in 28 states.

"Our best defense is to be prepared to detect any new insects or foreign diseases quickly and be ready to stamp them out fast," the article stresses. "The better prepared we are, the less likely the enemy is to try biological warfare, or to make much headway with it," they conclude.

Kickoff Dinner To Open Chest Drive Tonight

Campaign Goal Is $105,159.48

Community Chest-USO campaign headquarters in the County Office Building on Union Street bustled with activity yesterday as materials were assembled for the group campaigns which will be launched following the "kick off" dinner meeting this evening at 6:15 at the YMCA.

George L. Buchanan, general chairman of the campaign, stated that although the meeting was for campaign workers of the several sections of the organiation, any interested person was invited.

He stated that the only requirements were that a reservation be made by telephone 6793 and bringing a dollar for the cost of the meal. As in past years, campaign volunteers pay for their meals at the opening dinner and the report meetings which follow.

Harry G. Shupe, chairman of the Allegany County USO campaign, spent the weekend getting campaign materials to the community chairmen. A small folder showing the work of the USO and the pledge cards for the Allegany County campaign together with report envelopes and instruction sheets comprised the kits which were distributed to the community chairmen for their workers.

Mrs. Morris L. Barnes, chairman of the Residential Section, reported that over 200 women had been enlisted in the house-to-house soliciting forces. Their supplies were given out at the tea held last Friday afternoon and some districts reported that they had started on their calls.

The first three communities in the country to report on their campaigns all exceeded their goals. Two Illinois cities, Danville and Elgin, exceeded their goals by 102.9% and 101.4% respectively and the third Chest reporting, South Kingston, R. I., reported 104.1% of goal.

The national appeal for the USO has been included in the Community Chest campaign in Cumberland as it has been in nearly all American Chest cities. This additional sum together with some increases in Chest agency budgets to meet rising costs brings the total sought here to $105,159.48.

The combination of the two appeals is the first time since the National War Funds of World War II that there has been a major federation of appeals in Cumberland.

Area Seniors Will Receive Aptitude Tests

Results To Be Basis For Vocational Aid

Approximately 900 area high school seniors will be given aptitude tests by the Cumberland office of the Department of Employment Security beginning today, Francis A. Kenney, manager, announced yesterday.

The test, called General Aptitude Test Battery, is a collection of tests which singly or in combination indicate the occupational aptitudes of the group being tested.

Kenney explained that the government-restricted tests are administered in all states by employment security agents.

He said the test is a means of directing and assisting the individual to be counseled into his proper fields of endeavor. The results of the test become the basis for vocational counseling and rehabilitation.

In charge of the testing is Edward L. Matthews, manager IV of the Department of Employment Security here. He will be assisted by two interviewers, Mrs. Olive Workman and Mrs. Ann Deremer.

The test will be given at Fort Hill High School beginning today and will continue until Friday.

Tests will be administered at Allegany High School October 8 to 11, Central High School, Lonaconing, October 15; Oldtown High School October 16; Carver High School, October 17; Bruce High School, Westernport, October 22; Flintstone High School October 23; Beall High School, Frostburg, October 24 to 26; Ursuline Academy October 29; St. Peter's High School, Westernport, November 7; Ridgeley High School November 8; St. Mary's High School November 13; LaSalle Institute, November 14, and Catholic Girls Central, November 15.

Henry Mackey Returns From Insurance Meet

Henry A. Mackey, local representative of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, has returned from a visit at Jasper Park Lodge, Jasper Park, Alberta, Canada, where he attended a national convention of the company's outstanding life underwriters.

His attendance at the conference in the scenic location came as a result of his outstanding record of sales and services to his policyholders. He was accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Mackey.

Mackey, who is associated with the Savage Agency in Baltimore, is a member of his company's production club and has also been top man in his agency three months of this year. He is active in the Cumberland Underwriters Association as chairman of the Life Underwriter Training Council committee.

Landowners May Now Apply For Trees For Reforesting

Allegany Conuty landowners who would like to obtain trees for reforesting land were reminded yesterday by District Forester William H. Johnson that he now has application blanks for those who would like to get trees from the State Forest Nursery at Harmans.

Johnson cautioned landowners than the demand in Maryland for these trees is heavy. A year ago the requests were only partially filled. The forester said it probably will be the spring of 1953 before the nursery will have enough trees to fill demands.

These trees for forest planting are small seedlings or transplants and are to be used exclusively for reforesting land. A minimum of 1,000 trees of any species is supplied for this purpose. Seedlings are free for observation purposes for landowners in Maryland upon recommendation of a representative of the Department of Forests and Parks.

Planting of these young trees is not recommended in the fall. In Washington and Frederick counties planting is advisable beginning about March 1. In Allegany County March 15 is the suggested starting date. In Garrett County planting is not recommended until April 1 or later.

When planting time comes around the Department of Forests and Parks will have two planting machines in their four-county district to assist owners.

The application blanks which Johnson has for distribution also include space for ordering trees for roadside planting.

These trees are sold at prices beginning at $1. They are available to landowners for planting along a public highway or adjacent to the land upon which they reside, and to public agencies supported by taxation and state-aided institutions which receive direct state appropriations for maintenance.

No application for fewer than 10 trees of any kind will be accepted.

PTA Discusses Trip Sponsorship

Sponsorship of the annual trip to Washington by the school patrols of Allegany County was discussed last night at a meeting of the Allegany Council of Parents and Teachers at West Side School.

In past years the American Automobile Association has sponsored these trips but will discontinue the practice. The AAA will continue to provide belts and badges for the patrols but will take no part in the May trip to Washington.

Many of the school PTAs in Allegany County are planning to send delegates to the State PTA Convention, which will be held in Hagerstown November 1 and 2. A highlight of the convention will be an address by Salom Rizke, a native of Syria, who is an American citizen.

Youth Is Injured In Cycle Crash

An 18-year-old local youth was badly injured early last night when the motorcycle he was operating was involved in a three-vehicle crash on Oldtown Road.

Admitted to Memorial Hospital was Carroll Sigler Andrews, 1112 Oldtown Road, after his left leg was badly mangled in the accident.

The hospital said he was taken to the operating room immediately upon admission and that it was necessary to amputate the leg above the foot.

The accident occurred about 8:30 p. m. on Route 51, about one mile south of Cumberland, as cars driven by Michael Richard Mattingly, 21, of 26 Fifth Street, a Kelly worker, and Ray Franklin Van Horn, 64-year-old Celanese worker, of Twiggtown Road, were driving toward this city.

Trooper First Class Jack Browning, who investigated, said that as Van Horn was passing Mattingly's car, his lights picked up the oncoming motorcycle Andrews was allegedly operating without lights.

Van Horn, the trooper said, swerved to the right and hit the fender of the other car at the same time the motorcycle hit the front of the Van Horn car.

He said the motorcycle then ran across the road and struck and passed two road signposts before coming to a stop.

Trooper Browning said charges will be filed in the case today.

National Guard Lists Recruit Program Plans

50 Men Needed In Three Units

A recruiting program for the 29th Division, Maryland National Guard, is now under way, according to Lt. Thomas F. Conlon, Jr., who heads the drive.

Conlon said yesterday that approximately 50 men are needed for the three units including Headquarters Company, "C" Company and "D" Company of Frostburg.

Plans for the drive include enlisting men recommended by Guardsmen making personal contact with prospects. Conlon stated that a number of talks are being planned before high school groups for the purpose of acquainting young men of draft age with the National Guard.

He said an open house will be held by "D" Company at St. Michael's Hall, Frostburg, on October 22. Motion pictures dealing with equipment used by the company will be shown.

The recruiting drive, based on an eight-point program, is designed to explain the National Guard to enlistment prospects. Conlon said that most young men do not understand the workings of the Guard.

He went on to explain the Guard is a part time service which will enable one to carry on civilian plans while learning a military job.

Guardsmen are draft exempt, but enlistment in the Guard must begin before a pre-induction physical is ordered.

Pay for each weekly training session is a day's Regular Army pay from $2.50 to $7.60 per night, plus longevity.

A Guardsman may attend the Army service schools of several months duration at full pay with a chance to become a skilled specialist.

Conlon stated that free booklets on the National Guard can be obtained by calling 838 or writing to the State Armory. Persons interested in joining the National Guard may enlist on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at 7:30 p. m. when Headquarters and "C" companies meet.

Contractor Urges Generous Red Feather Contributions

Report On Paving Projects Is Given

Tell the people to give generously to the Community Chest.

That was the answer Earl C. Robertson, an official of the Cumberland Contracting Company, gave yesterday to a reporter who asked for a progress report on street resurfacing work the firm is doing on a number of local streets.

"Come back and ask me next week," Robertson said. "All I can think about just now is the Chest campaign."

Relenting, he reported that repaving of Market Street was completed yesterday and that crews are slated to blacktop Saratoga Street today.

Similar work on Fairview Avenue is scheduled Wednesday, he added.

Other crews, he said, completed concrete work on Valley Street between Mechanic and Centre Streets yesterday and all concrete work on the street should be completed by the end of the week. Blacktopping of Valley Street will probably get underway next week, he concluded.

How Dirty Can A River Get—And Why? Scientists Hope To Find Out

By BERNARD SITTER
News Staff Writer

Pollution experts recently wound up the field phase of a two-year study here to find out just how dirty the Potomac River is—and why.

Results of their survey are expected to put a new anti-pollution weapon in the hands of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, which has been trying to clean up the Potomac since 1941.

Headed by Ralph E. Fuhrman, superintendent of Washington's sewage treatment plant, a staff of six scientists spent three weeks here to gather and test samples of murky river water. They made a similar series of tests last summer.

By the time the experts are ready to hand the Commission their final report—some time in 1952—they will have spent about $5,000 in Public Health Service funds.

As Fuhrman sees it, the project is well worth the cost. Its purpose is to determine the exact nature and probable causes of pollution so that towns and industries in the tri-state Potomac River Valley can set up abatement programs.

The Cumberland area was chosen for the study because it is the most critically polluted section of the meandering 287-mile river.
